William Shakespeare of Stratford-on-Avon Scott Frederick Surtees, 1888 Shakespeare's Stratford Edgar Innes Fripp, William Shakespeare, 1973 Reliques of Stratford-On-Avon William Shakespeare, A. E. Way, Thomas R. Way, 2017-07-05 Trieste Publishing has a massive catalogue of classic book titles. Our aim is to provide readers with the highest quality reproductions of fiction and non-fiction literature that has stood the test of time. The many thousands of books in our collection have been sourced from libraries and private collections around the world. The titles that Trieste Publishing has chosen to be part of the collection have been scanned to simulate the original. Our readers see the books the same way that their first readers did, decades or a hundred or more years ago. Books from that period are often spoiled by imperfections that did not exist in the original. Imperfections could be in the form of blurred text, photographs, or missing pages. It is highly unlikely that this would occur with one of our books. Our extensive quality control ensures that the readers of Trieste Publishing's books will be delighted with their purchase. Our staff has thoroughly reviewed every page of all the books in the collection, repairing or, if necessary, rejecting titles that are not of the highest quality. This process ensures that the reader of one of Trieste Publishing's titles receives a volume that faithfully reproduces the original and, to the maximum degree possible, gives them the experience of owning the original work. We pride ourselves on not only creating a pathway to an extensive reservoir of books of the finest quality but also providing value to every one of our readers. Generally, Trieste books are purchased singly on demand; however, they may also be purchased in bulk. Readers interested in bulk purchases are invited to contact us directly to enquire about our tailored bulk rates.

Royal Shakespeare Stanley Wells, 1977 The Guild and Guild Buildings of Shakespeare's Stratford J.R. Mulryne, 2016-03-09 The guild buildings of Shakespeare's Stratford represent a rare instance of a largely unchanged set of buildings which draw together the threads of the town's civic life. With its multi-disciplinary perspectives on this remarkable group of buildings, this volume provides a comprehensive account of the religious educational legal social and theatrical history of Stratford focusing on the sixteenth century and Tudor Reformation The essays interweave with one another to provide a map of the complex relationships between the buildings and their history Opening with an investigation of the Guildhall which served as the headquarters of the Guild of the Holy Cross until the Tudor Reformation the book explores the building s function as a centre of local government and community law and as a place of entertainment and education It is beyond serious doubt that Shakespeare was a school boy here and the many visits to the Guildhall by professional touring players during the latter half of the sixteenth century may have prompted his acting and playwriting career The Guildhall continues to this day to house a school for the education of secondary level boys The book considers educational provision during the mid sixteenth century as well as examining the interaction between touring players and the everyday politics and social life of Stratford At the heart of the volume is archaeological and documentary research which uses up to date analysis and new dendrochronological investigations to interpret the buildings and their medieval wall paintings as well as proposing a possible location of the school before it transferred to the Guildhall Together with extensive archival research into the town s Court of Record which throws light on the commercial and social activities of the period this rich body of research brings us closer to life as it was lived in Shakespeare s Stratford

Hunter,2012-02-01 This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text Purchasers can download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher Not indexed Not illustrated 1864 Excerpt THE TERCENTENARY FESTIVAL No people can appreciate more highly the possession of an honourable distinction than the inhabitants of Stratfordupon Avon Not encumbered with the questionable blessing of poetic propensities in themselves they nevertheless view with keen perception and enlarged comprehension the genius of Shakespeare Proud of their town to which his great name has bequeathed a world wide celebrity they have invariably felt that as inhabitants thereof they had special duties to discharge towards his memory His remarkable attachment to Stratford contributes not a little to their estimate of the honour

he conferred upon the town and largely accounts for their abiding anxiety to prove to the empire and the world that they understand the responsibilities as well as the honours of their position Such seems to me to have been the feeling of Stratfordians time out of mind although it is not many years since active steps began to be taken for securing to the nation and preserving from decay the place of his birth and residence The feeling of respect for his memory has ever been deep broad and general It only required Garrick to unfurl the flag of Shakespeare in order to arouse the town and attract around him the county a hundred years ago The jubilee of 1827 formally transferred from the adherents of Garrick to their children that Shakespearian enthusiasm they had witnessed amongst their relatives and which blended with their earliest recollections and the celebration of 1830 with its royal although nominal patronage and its splendid pageantry is treasured with pleasurable remembrance by every inhabitant of Stratford whose memory extends to the event It would therefore have been singular indeed if the great epoch of the poet's Shakespeare's House Richard Schoch, 2023-11-16 A page turning story Times Literary Supplement Eye opening Michael Billington A detailed and highly compelling story that involves so much more than bricks and mortar The Stratford Herald In the wide realm of Shakespeare worship the house in Stratford upon Avon where William Shakespeare was born in 1564 known colloquially as the Birthplace remains the chief shrine It's not as romantic as Anne Hathaway's thatched cottage it's not where he wrote any of his plays and there's nothing inside the house that once belonged to Shakespeare himself So why for centuries have people kept turning up on the doorstep Richard Schoch answers that question by examining the history of the Birthplace and by exploring how its changing fortunes over four centuries perfectly mirror the changing attitudes toward Shakespeare himself Based on original research in the archives of the Shakespeare Birthplace Trust in Stratford upon Avon and the Folger Shakespeare Library in Washington DC and featuring two black and white illustrated plate sections which draw on the wide array of material available at the Folger Shakespeare Library and the Victoria and Albert Museum this book traces the history of Shakespeare's birthplace over four centuries Beginning in the 1560s when Shakespeare was born there it ends in the 1890s when the house was rescued from private purchase and turned into the Shakespeare monument that it remains today
