Eaton, 2010-06-21 This book examines how cultural and ideological reactions to activism in the post Civil Rights Black community were depicted in fiction written by Black women writers 1965-1980 By recognizing and often challenging prevailing cultural paradigms within the post Civil Rights era writers such as Toni Morrison Alice Walker Toni Cade Bambara and Paule Marshall fictionalized the black community in critical ways that called for further examination of progressive activism after the much publicized end of the Civil Rights Movement Through their writings the authors confronted marked shifts within African American literature politics and culture that proved detrimental to the collective wellness of the community at large A Companion to Twentieth-Century Poetry Neil

Roberts, 2008-04-15 In the twentieth century more people spoke English and more people wrote poetry than in the whole of previous history and this Companion strives to make sense of this crowded poetical era The original contributions by leading international scholars and practising poets were written as the contributors adjusted to the idea that the possibilities of twentieth century poetry were exhausted and finite However the volume also looks forward to the poetry and readings that the new century will bring The Companion embraces the extraordinary development of poetry over the century in twenty English speaking countries a century which began with a bipolar transatlantic connection in modernism and ended with the decentred heterogeneity of post colonialism Representation of the canonical and the marginal is therefore balanced including the full integration of women poets and feminist approaches and the in depth treatment of post colonial poets from various national traditions Discussion of context intertextualities and formal approaches illustrates the increasing self consciousness and self reflexivity of the period whilst a Readings section offers new readings of key selected texts The volume as a whole offers critical and contextual coverage of the full range of English language poetry in the last century The Cambridge

Preserving the Landscape of Imagination, 2023-07-10 In Search of a Beautiful Freedom: New and Selected Essays Farah Jasmine Griffin, 2023-03-28 Named a Most Anticipated Book of 2023 by The Millions Lively insightful writings on Black music feminism literature and events from a masterful critic and master teacher Walton Muyumba Boston Globe In Search of a Beautiful Freedom brings together the best work from Farah Jasmine Griffin's rich forays on music Black feminism literature the crises of Hurricane Katrina and COVID 19 and the Black artists she esteems She moves from evoking the haunting strength of Odette and the rise of soprano popular singers in the 1970s to the forging of a Black women's literary renaissance and the politics of Malcolm X through the lens of Black feminism She reflects on pivotal moments in recent American history including the banning of Toni Morrison's Beloved and celebrates the intellectuals, artists and personal relationships that have shaped her identity and her work. Featuring new and unpublished essays along with ones first appearing in outlets such as the New York Times and NPR, In Search of a Beautiful Freedom is a captivating collection that celebrates the work of one of the few great intellectuals in our time, Cornel West.

Migrating Words and Worlds E. Anthony Hurley, Renée Brenda Larrier, Joseph McLaren, 1999 The essays presented here demonstrating concepts of Pan Africanism which historically were concerned with colonialism, racial identity and African unity extend the discussion of an Africa that exists beyond the continent and includes the Caribbean, the Americas and Europe.

"Colón Man a Come" Rhonda D. Frederick, 2005-01-01 To date there has been no literary examination of the Colón Man even though he recurs in 19th and 20th century Anglophone and Francophone Caribbean Literatures. Named for PanamO's Caribbean port city, the Colón Man has been the subject of historical, sociological and geographical scholarship. He however has escaped the domain of literary investigation until now. Author Rhonda Frederick brings us the first ever book length study of the literary representations of the Colón Man. Fictive accounts of PanamO migration draw on precisely what has been little documented or not at all. In other words, this region's literature and songs as well as Colón Men's recollections complicate existing studies. These first person accounts and creative narratives in the form of song stories, literature etc. of isthmian migration suggest that fictive renditions of canal work and workers represent Colón Men's undocumented, unknown and/or ignored realities. Colón Man a Come: Mythographies of PanamO Canal Migration examines several works of fiction: George Lamming's In the Castle of My Skin, Michael Thelwell's The Harder They Come, Eric Walrond's Tropic Death, Claude McKay's Banana Bottom and Maryse Condé's Tree of Life. And perhaps most significantly, this book relies on the personal narratives and songs of Colón Men to support the forgotten, lost, ignored and yet imaginable truths of PanamO Canal migration.

The Daughter's Return Caroline Rody, 2001-04-12 The Daughter's Return offers a close analysis of an emerging genre in African American and Caribbean fiction produced by women writers who make imaginative returns to their ancestral pasts. Considering some of the defining texts of contemporary fiction: Toni Morrison's Beloved, Jean Rhys's Wide Sargasso Sea and Michelle Cliff's No Telephone to Heaven, Rody discusses their common inclusion of a daughter who returns to the site of her people's founding trauma of slavery through memory or magic. Rody treats these texts as allegorical expressions of the desire of writers newly emerging into cultural authority to reclaim their difficult inheritance and finds a counter plot of heroines' encounters with women of other racial and ethnic groups running through these works.

Place, Language, and Identity in Afro-Cost Rican Literature Dorothy E. Mosby, 2003 With the current growth of interest in Afro-Hispanic and Afro-Latin American cultural and literary studies, this book will be essential for courses in Latin American and Caribbean literature, comparative studies, diaspora studies, history, cultural studies and the literature of migration.

BOOK JACKET Deferrals of Domain NA, 2016-04-30 Contemporary female novelists tend to portray the relationship between women and the state as profoundly negative in contrast to various constructions in current feminist theory Martine Watson Brownley analyzes novels by Margaret Atwood Paule Marshall Nadine Gordimer and Margaret Drabble to explore the significance of this disparity The book uses literary analysis to highlight elements of state power that many feminist theorists currently occlude ranging from women's still minimal access to state politics to the terrifying violence exercised by modern states At the same time however feminist theory clarifies major elements in many contemporary women's lives about which the novels are ambivalent or misleading such as romantic love and the role of sexuality in state politics Deferrals of Domain fills a double gap both authorial and topical in current critical treatments of women writers and will be of interest to both literary and women's studies scholars
