Ritual, Performance, and Politics in the Ancient Near East Lauren Ristvet, 2015 In this book Lauren Ristvet rethinks the narratives of state formation by investigating the interconnections between ritual performance and politics in the ancient Near East She draws on a wide range of archaeological iconographic and cuneiform sources to show how ritual performance was not set apart from the real practice of politics it was politics Rituals provided an opportunity for elites and ordinary people to negotiate political authority Descriptions of rituals from three periods explore the networks of signification that informed different societies From circa 2600 to 2200 BC pilgrimage made kingdoms out of previously isolated villages Similarly from circa 1900 to 1700 BC commemorative ceremonies legitimated new political dynasties by connecting them to a shared past Finally in the Hellenistic period the traditional Babylonian Akitu festival was an occasion for Greek speaking kings to show that they were Babylonian and for Babylonian priests to gain significant power

Defining the Sacred Nicola Laneri, 2015-05-08 Religion is a phenomenon that is inseparable from human society It brings about a set of emotional ideological and practical elements that are pervasive in the social fabric of any society and characterizable by a number of features These include the establishment of intermediaries in the relationship between humans and the divine the construction of ceremonial places for worshipping the gods and practicing ritual performances and the creation ritual paraphernalia Investigating the religious dimensions of ancient societies encounters problems in defining such elements especially with regard to societies that lack textual evidences and has tended to lead towards the identification of differentiation between the mental dimension related to religious beliefs and the material one associated with religious practices resulting in a separation between scholars able to investigate and possibly reconstruct ritual practices i.e. archaeologists and those interested in defining the realm of ancient beliefs i.e. philologists and religious historians The aim of this collection of papers is to attempt to bridge these two dimensions by breaking down existing boundaries in order to form a more comprehensive vision of religion among ancient Near Eastern societies This approach requires that a higher consideration be given to those elements either artificial buildings objects texts etc or natural landscapes animals trees etc that are created through a materialization of religious beliefs and practices enacted by members of communities These issues are addressed in a series of specific case studies covering a broad chronological framework that from the Pre pottery Neolithic to the Iron Age Cover illustration German Archaeological Institute photo N Becker Urbanism in Antiquity Walter E. Aufrecht, Steven W. Gauley, Neil A. Mirau, 1997-08-01 The origin and growth of cities in antiquity The origin and growth of cities forms one of the most important chapters in human history In this volume 17 researchers present archaeological epigraphic and textual data on the rise of urbanism in the ancient Near Eastern world Cyprus to Mesopotamia and from Crete to Egypt Topics addressed include the influence of agriculture intensification of trade of craft specialization and of writing on the rise of cities The roles of cultural elites of ideologies and of relations between proximal urban centres are also examined The contributors to this volume include such well known scholars as William Dever and Donald Redford Antiguo Oriente - Volume 6 (2008) Roxana Flammini, 2008-12-31 Antiguo Oriente abbreviated as AntOr is the annual peer reviewed scholarly journal published by the Center of Studies of Ancient Near Eastern History CEHAO Catholic University of Argentina Kurds Mehrdad Izady, 2015-06-03 First Published in 1993 Since before the dawn of recorded history the mountainous lands of the northern Middle East have been home to a distinct people whose cultural tradition is one of the most authentic and original in the world Some vestiges of Kurdish life and culture can actually be traced back to burial rituals practiced over 50 000 years ago by people inhabiting the Shanidar Caves near Arbil in central Kurdistan In this book the author has tried to identify and delineate the heritage of the Kurds now thoroughly submerged in the accepted and standard models for subdividing Middle Eastern civilization none of which is designed to accommodate the stateless Kurds Tell Arbid I.
