Off in a Boat Neil Gunn, 1998-04-21 In 1937 the Scottish writer Neil Gunn gave up his job in the civil service sold his house in Inverness and bought a boat With his wife and his brother John he set off on a three month voyage around Inner Hebrides The boat had outlived its first youth and its engine was somewhat cranky she went tolerably under sail These are not high recommendations but for Gunn and at times his fellow voyagers the vessel was an argosy of freedom of adventure and misadventure for they were fairly inexperienced sailors and the waters of the region are by no means placid Gunn was a Scots nationalist in a sense that goes far beyond the political even though he thought that an independent Scotland was the only proper basis for a reasonable civilization He was by nature poetic uplifted or cast down by changing skies seascapes and shores His descriptions of those things including their moods are remarkably evocative And he is also a passionate historian of his country exalting its possibilities anathematizing its shortcomings The book is illustrated with Daisy Gunn's photographs taken on the voyage which are palpably amateur but wonderfully telling Highland Herald David Ross, 2018-10-18 From 1988 to 2017 David Ross was the Highland Correspondent of The Herald His patch stretched from the Mull of Kintyre in the south to the Shetland island of Unst in the north and from St Kilda in the West to the whisky country of Speyside in the east From his home on the Black Isle he covered all the big stories from the fight against a nuclear waste dump in Caithness to plans to remove half a mountain on the island of Harris He helped the first community land buyout in modern times in Assynt covered in depth the anti toll campaign on the Skye Bridge the efforts to save Gaelic and protect ferry services In Highland Herald he reflects on the important issues which affected the Highlands and Islands during his time He tells how his late father in law the Gaelic poet Sorley MacLean helped him He had never written in depth about Sorley when he was alive as it would have been excruciatingly embarrassing for both of us but does so now Our Journey to the Hebrides Joseph Pennell, Elizabeth Robins Pennell, 1889 Scottish Exodus James Hunter, 2011-03-25 Millions of Scots have left their homeland during the last 400 years Until now they have been written about in general terms Scottish Exodus breaks new ground by taking particular emigrants drawn from the once powerful Clan MacLeod and discovering what happened to them and their families These people became among other things French aristocrats Polish resistance fighters Texan ranchers New Zealand shepherds Australian goldminers Aboriginal and African American activists Canadian mounted policemen and Confederate rebels One nineteenth century MacLeod even went so far as to swap his Gaelic for Arabic and his Christianity for Islam before settling down comfortably in Cairo This gripping account of Scotland's worldwide diaspora is based on unpublished documents letters and family histories It is also based on the author's travels in the company of today's MacLeods some of them still in Scotland others further afield Scottish Exodus is a tale of disastrous voyages famine and dispossession the hazards of pioneering on faraway frontiers But it is also the moving story of how people separated from Scotland by hundreds of years and thousands of miles continue to identify with the small country where their journeyings

Beaglehole,2017-07-05 Captain James Cook s first two voyages of exploration in 1768 71

and 1772 75 had drawn the modern map of the South Pacific Ocean and had opened the door on the discovery of Antarctica. These expeditions were the subject of Volumes I and II of this edition of Cook's Journals. The third voyage on which Cook sailed in 1776 was directed to the Northern Hemisphere. Sailing north from Tahiti in 1778, Cook made the first recorded discovery of the Hawaiian Islands. On March 7 he sighted the Oregon coast in 44°N. The remarkable voyage which he made northward along the Canadian and Alaskan coasts and through Bering Strait to his farthest north in 70°N nearly disproved the existence of a navigable passage towards the Atlantic and produced charts of impressive accuracy. Returning to Hawaii to refit, Cook met his death in a clash with the natives as tragic as it seems unnecessary. The volume and vitality of the records, both textual and graphic for this voyage, surpass those even for Cook's second voyage. Dr Beaglehole prints the full text of Cook's own holograph journals, followed by those of Captains Clerke and King for the course of the voyage after Cook's death. This is a facsimile reprint of the edition published in 1967. For the print on demand edition, the illustrations originally in colour are reproduced in black and white, the fold outs divided to fit on separate pages, and the volume itself split into two parts.

Off in a Boat Neil Gunn, 1998-04-21. In 1937 the Scottish writer Neil Gunn gave up his job in the civil service, sold his house in Inverness and bought a boat. With his wife and his brother John, he set off on a three-month voyage around Inner Hebrides. The boat had outlived its first youth and its engine was somewhat cranky; she went tolerably under sail. These are not high recommendations, but for Gunn and at times his fellow voyagers, the vessel was an argosy of freedom of adventure and misadventure for they were fairly inexperienced sailors and the waters of the region are by no means placid. Gunn was a Scots nationalist in a sense that goes far beyond the political; even though he thought that an independent Scotland was the only proper basis for a reasonable civilization. He was by nature poetic, uplifted or cast down by changing skies, seascapes and shores. His descriptions of those things, including their moods, are remarkably evocative. And he is also a passionate historian of his country, exalting its possibilities, anathematizing its shortcomings. The book is illustrated with Daisy Gunn's photographs taken on the voyage, which are palpably amateur but wonderfully telling.
