Race Over Empire Racism And Us Imperialism 1865 1900:

Race over Empire Eric T. L. Love, 2005-10-12 Generations of historians have maintained that in the last decade of the nineteenth century white supremacist racial ideologies such as Anglo Saxonism social Darwinism benevolent assimilation and the concept of the white man's burden drove American imperialist ventures in the nonwhite world In Race over Empire Eric T L Love contests this view and argues that racism had nearly the opposite effect From President Grant's attempt to acquire the Dominican Republic in 1870 to the annexations of Hawaii and the Philippines in 1898 Love demonstrates that the imperialists' relationship with the racist ideologies of the era was antagonistic not harmonious In a period marked by Jim Crow lynching Chinese exclusion and immigration restriction Love argues no pragmatic politician wanted to place nonwhites at the center of an already controversial project by invoking the concept of the white man's burden Furthermore convictions that defined whiteness raised great obstacles to imperialist ambitions particularly when expansionists entered the tropical zone In lands thought to be too hot for white blood white Americans could never be the main beneficiaries of empire What emerges from Love's analysis is a critical reinterpretation of the complex interactions between politics race labor immigration and foreign relations at the dawn of the American century Race Over Empire Eric Tyrone Lowery Love, 1997

The American Ascendancy Michael H. Hunt, 2007-04-10 A simple question lurks amid the considerable controversy created by recent U S policy what road did Americans travel to reach their current global preeminence Taking the long historical view Michael Hunt demonstrates that wealth confidence and leadership were key elements to America's ascent In an analytic narrative that illuminates the past rather than indulges in political triumphalism he provides crucial insights into the country's problematic place in the world today Hunt charts America's rise to global power from the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries to a culminating multilayered dominance achieved in the mid twentieth century that has led to unanticipated constraints and perplexities over the last several decades Themes that figure prominently in his account include the rise of the American state and a nationalist ideology and the domestic effects and international spread of consumer society He examines how the United States remade great power relations fashioned limits for the third world and shaped our current international economic and cultural order Hunt concludes by addressing current issues such as how durable American power really is and what options remain for America's future His provocative exploration will engage anyone concerned about the fate of our republic Race Over Empire Eric Tyrone Lowery Love, 2004 American

Imperialism and the State, 1893-1921 Colin D. Moore, 2017-04-17 American Imperialism and the State recasts imperial governance as an episode of American state building A Companion to Women's Military History Barton Hacker, Margaret Vining, 2012-08-17 This volume addresses the changing relationships between women and armed forces from antiquity to the present eight chapters review the existing literature an extended picture essay visually documents women's military work and eight chapters illustrate more restricted topics Migrants and the Making of the Urban-Maritime World

Christina Reimann, Martin Öhman, 2020-09-03 This volume explores the mutually transformative relations between migrants and port cities Throughout the ages of sail and steam port cities served as nodes of long distance transmissions and exchanges Commercial goods people animals seeds bacteria and viruses technological and scientific knowledge and fashions all arrived in and moved through these microcosms of the global Migrants made vital contributions to the construction of the urban maritime world in terms of the built environment the particular sociocultural milieu and contemporary representations of these spaces Port cities in turn conditioned the lives of these mobile people be they seafarers traders passers through or people in search of a new home By focusing on migrants their actions and how they were acted upon the authors seek to capture the contradictions and complexities that characterized port cities mobility and immobility acceptance and rejection nationalism and cosmopolitanism diversity and homogeneity segregation and interaction The book offers a wide geographical perspective covering port cities on three continents Its chapters deal with agency in a widened sense considering the activities of individuals and collectives as well as the decisive impact of sailing and steamboats trains the built environment goods or microbes in shaping urban maritime spaces

Tropic of Hopes Knight, Henry, 2013-09-17 Just after the Civil War two states prominently laid claim to being America's paradise destinations Private companies state agencies and journalists all lent a hand in creating a seductive expansionist imagery that promoted semitropical California and Florida and helped sell Americans on the idea of an attainable paradise within the United States In Tropic of Hopes Henry Knight examines the promotion of California and Florida from the end of the Civil War to the eve of the Great Depression a period when both states were transformed from remote sparsely populated locales into two of the most publicized and dreamed about destinations in America Using the discussion of climate geography race and environment to link agricultural tourist and urban development in these regions Knight provides a highly original and informative account

The Picky Eagle Richard W. Maass, 2020-05-15 The Picky Eagle explains why the United States stopped annexing territory by focusing on annexation's domestic consequences both political and normative It describes how the US rejection of further annexations despite its rising power set the stage for twentieth century efforts to outlaw conquest In contrast to conventional accounts of a nineteenth century shift from territorial expansion to commercial expansion Richard W Maass argues that US ambitions were selective from the start By presenting twenty three case studies Maass examines the decision making of US leaders facing opportunities to pursue annexation between 1775 and 1898 US presidents secretaries and congressmen consistently worried about how absorbing new territories would affect their domestic political influence and their goals for their country These leaders were particularly sensitive to annexation's domestic costs where xenophobia interacted with their commitment to democracy rather than grant political representation to a large alien population or subject it to a long term imperial regime they regularly avoided both of these perceived bad options by rejecting annexation As a result US leaders often declined even profitable opportunities for territorial expansion and they renounced the practice entirely once no desirable targets remained

In addition to offering an updated history of the foundations of US territorial expansion The Picky Eagle adds important nuance to previous theories of great power expansion with implications for our understanding of US foreign policy and international relations

Crossing Empires Kristin L. Hoganson, Jay Sexton, 2020-01-03 Weaving U S history into the larger fabric of world history the contributors to Crossing Empires de exceptionalize the American empire placing it in a global transimperial context They draw attention to the breadth of U S entanglements with other empires to illuminate the scope and nature of American global power as it reached from the Bering Sea to Australia and East Africa to the Caribbean With case studies ranging from the 1830s to the late twentieth century the contributors address topics including diplomacy governance anticolonialism labor immigration medicine religion and race Their transimperial approach whether exemplified in examinations of U S steel corporations partnering with British imperialists to build the Ugandan railway or the U S reliance on other empires in its governance of the Philippines transcends histories of interimperial rivalries and conflicts In so doing the contributors illuminate the power dynamics of seemingly transnational histories and the imperial origins of contemporary globality Contributors Ikuko Asaka Oliver Charbonneau Genevieve Clutario Anne L Foster Julian Go Michel Gobat Julie Greene Kristin L Hoganson Margaret D Jacobs Moon Ho Jung Marc William Palen Nicole M Phelps Jay Sexton John Soluri Stephen Tuffnell
