Tourism, Heritage and Commodification of Non-human Animals: A Posthumanist Reflection Álvaro López López, Gino Jafet Quintero Venegas, Carol Kline, 2023-12-19 Heritage is a social construction rooted in modern and contemporary societies. It is commonly a positive assessment of many elements of the physical and human environment: ecosystems and landscapes, monuments, customs, gender norms, religious practices, gastronomy and livelihoods. Heritage and tourism are strongly related to each other in that heritage gives rise to tourist attractions and activities and tourism enhances the designation of heritage sites. A post-humanist perspective, the moral valuation of equality between humans and other animals, demands that both are sentient beings and self-aware of their pain and pleasure. Thus, the involvement of animals as heritage elements by themselves or as an element of tourist consumption in heritage sites implies their commodification and lack of agency. As such, these practices are usually unethical since they threaten the animals' primary interests: not to suffer, not to feel pain, and to be able to live their freedom. This book contains chapters that reveal both the unethical interactions between humans and animals within heritage tourism and those that show experiences in which efforts are made to minimize damage within the commercialization of animals involved as heritage themselves.

Consciousness Neil Rossman, 1991-01-21 A central claim of this book is that the emergence of humanity involves a splitting of consciousness: the ability of consciousness to become reflectively aware of itself. But the splitting of consciousness is simultaneously the development of the possibility of fragmentation, incoherence within consciousness, and alienation, non-unity of consciousness with others and the world. Thus, through the growth of reflective consciousness, separation comes to permeate the whole of human experience. So understood, it creates the need for integration, and Rossman's discussion ultimately centers on its attainment. Within this perspective, various aspects of consciousness, including perception, organic sensation, desire, and belief, are explored. There is also extensive discussion of personal identity or the experience of being a self. Finally, the above analyses provide the ground for discussions of freedom, morality, and being religious.

peace Transparency and Reflection Matthew Boyle, 2024 The maxim Know thyself has been central to philosophy since antiquity but today there is widespread skepticism both within philosophy and in our intellectual culture at large about the extent to which we can truly know our own minds and the extent to which self knowledge matters to our lives Transparency and Reflection argues that although we can be mistaken about ourselves in many respects such mistakes occur against the background of a fundamental self understanding that is necessarily available to any human subject To deny this essential capacity for self understanding Matthew Boyle argues is to leave out the very thing that makes us human Mr. P.'s diary:
