

Reflective Practice

Reflective Cycle highlights six key steps that must be carried out sequentially and can be continuously repeated to make a progressive cycle.

01. Description

Where were you? Why were you there? What role did you and others play in the event?

02. Feelings

What were you thinking before and during the event? How do you feel about the event?

03. Evaluation

Make quality judgment from an unbiased perspective.

04. Analysis

Analyze your actions and how those of others may have influenced your decisions.

05. Conclusion

What are the key takeaways from this event? What could you have done differently?

06. Action plan

Based on what you've learned from this event, what will you do when a similar situation arises in the future?

A Practicum Turn in Teacher Education Matts Mattsson, Tor Vidar Eilertsen, Doreen Rorrison, 2012-01-01 Challenges to practicum The authors have explored professional practice knowledge and the ways practicum is dealt with in teacher education They report from Research and Development projects based on collaboration between universities and school communities Empirical studies have been carried out in Australia Canada China Denmark Finland Norway and Sweden Communication about practicum is reframed Preservice teachers experiences during practicum serve as a point of departure for improving teacher education The book is a must for everyone committed to quality in initial teacher education including preservice teachers school leaders and local supervisors This volume explores new and different ways to think about the construction and evaluation of the practicum that students encounter Contributors ask the reader to consider the assumptions that the practicum is based on question these assumptions and strive to find new and better ways to contribute to the autonomy professionalism and moral development of emerging teachers The focus is clearly on creating conversational and learning spaces for students that encourage them to think explicitly about theory and its application to practice and vice versa The book not only challenges our thinking but also provides rich examples of research and evaluation in this area which help us to hear the voices of those involved in the practicum in fresh and insightful ways Reflections by Roslin Brennan Kemmis Head of the School of Education Charles Sturt University Wagga Wagga Australia Practice Learning in the Caring Professions Dave Evans, 2016-12-05 Dave Evans makes a convincing case that practice learning occupies a central role in the education and training of the caring professions In doing so he affirms the activities of many service agency staff involved in practice teaching and assessment and offers them clear models and illustrative examples to aid their development He also explores ways in which practice learning and assessment can be effectively developed in academic settings

Best Practice in Professional Supervision, Second Edition Allyson Davys, Liz Beddoe, 2020-12-21 This second edition of Best Practice in Professional Supervision is a fully updated and revised guide to being an excellent supervisor in the social care nursing counselling and allied health professions This field has developed rapidly in the past 10 years and this new edition contains essential updates reflecting the very latest research and practice The book covers basic skills the practicalities of forming and maintaining the supervision relationship and the organisational context and culture of supervision Viewing supervision as a place for learning the book also considers how supervision can help practitioners to develop professional resilience and promote their own wellbeing despite the stresses of complex work environments It also includes specific chapters on supervision of clinical student placements and in child protection settings Full of clinical case vignettes illustrating good practice this is an essential guide for all those undertaking supervision or supervision training

Learning Critical Reflection Laura Béres, Jan Fook, 2019-08-13 Learning Critical Reflection documents the actual learning experiences of social work students and practitioners It explores how a more in depth understanding of the process of learning combined with an analysis of how to critically reflect will help improve the learning process The contributors are all professionals who have learnt in a formalised way how to critically reflect on their practice They speak in depth and with feeling about their experiences how downsides and upsides worked together to transform the way they understood themselves their professional identity and their practice Existing literature about critical reflection is reviewed identifying the details of learning and pulling no punches in recognising the difficulty and complexity of becoming transformed through this learning process The editors of this book also contribute their own reflections on learning how to teach critical reflection and include the findings of a research study conducted on students learning Edited by two experienced educators this book showcases the process of learning from the perspective of the learners in order that educators and students managers supervisors and frontline practitioners alike may make the most of opportunities to critically reflect in both educational and workplace settings It should be considered essential reading for social work students practitioners and educators Beyond Reflective Practice Helen Bradbury, Nick Frost, Sue Kilminster, Miriam Zukas, 2012-09-11 Reflective practice has moved from the margins to the mainstream of professional education However in this process its radical potential has been subsumed by individualistic rather than situated understandings of practice Presenting critical perspectives that challenge the current paradigm this book aims to move beyond reflective practice It proposes new conceptualisations and offers fresh approaches relevant across professions Contributors include both academics and practitioners concerned with the training and development of professionals Definitions of reflection which are often implicit often focus on the individual's internal thought processes and responsibility for their actions The individual what they did thought felt is emphasised with little recognition of context power dynamics or ideological challenge This book presents the work of practitioners educators academics and researchers who see this as problematic and are moving towards a more critical approach to reflective practice With an overview from the editors and fourteen chapters considering new conceptualisations professional perspectives and new practices Beyond Reflective Practice examines what new forms of professional reflective practice are emerging It examines in particular the relationships between reflective practitioners and those upon whom they practise It looks at the ways in which the world of professional work has changed and the ways in which professional practice needs to change to meet the needs of this new world It will be relevant for those concerned with initial and ongoing professional learning both in work and in educational contexts Learning Over Time: How Professionals Learn, Know and Use Knowledge Nona Lyons, Carmel Halton, 2017-09-20 This book takes up a provocative question What do people learn and know from engaging in studies or from an experience of change and transition Learning of professionals sometimes questioned is surprisingly seldom seriously researched Drawing on their own research the contributors of this book present a set of case studies of learning in diverse disciplinary domains and document what people say they learn and know and how they use this knowledge The authors consider implications for practice and research on learning from transitions and change Researching Critical Reflection Jan Fook, Val Collington, Fiona Ross, Gillian Ruch, Linden West, 2015-10-05 Critical reflection helps professionals to learn directly from their practice experience so that they can improve their own work in an ongoing and flexible way something essential in today's complex and changing organisations It allows change to be managed in a way which enables individuals to preserve a sense of what is fundamentally important to them as professionals It is particularly important as it can also help make sense of some fundamental issues and so also has implications for how we live our lives However more systematic research on critical reflection is needed to help us understand what works best for professionals in different settings This timely work explores how critical reflection is researched evaluated and used as a research method itself with the aim of improving how it is taught and practised in a rigorous and transferable way Developing a more comprehensive and multi disciplinary view of the current state of critical reflection and the research directions which need to be taken the book is divided into four parts It Provides an overview of different perspectives on critical reflection and stimulates dialogue between them Establishes some common platforms from which to develop further research directions Identifies the major issues in evaluating critical reflection teaching and main methods for doing so Contributes to social science methodological innovations by exploring how methods based on critical reflection can be used for researching professional practice Contains contributions from academics who are internationally known and highly experienced in different aspects of critical reflection Researching Critical Reflection is an important reference for all students practitioners and researchers including in the areas of education management health and social work who engage with critical reflection to develop their practice
