Gender, War, and Conflict Laura Sjoberg, 2014-07-17 From Pakistan to Chechnya Sri Lanka to Canada pioneering women are taking their places in formal and informal military structures previously reserved for and assumed appropriate only for men Women have fought in wars either as women or covertly dressed as men throughout the history of warfare but only recently have they been allowed to join state militaries insurgent groups and terrorist organizations in unprecedented numbers This begs the question how useful are traditional gendered categories in understanding the dynamics of war and conflict And why are our stories of gender roles in war typically so narrow Who benefits from them In this illuminating book Laura Sjoberg explores how gender matters in war making and war fighting today Drawing on a rich range of examples from conflicts around the world she shows that both women and men play many more diverse roles in wars than either media or scholarly accounts convey Gender she argues can be found at every turn in the practice of war it is crucial to understanding not only what war is but equally how it is caused fought and experienced With end of chapter questions for discussion and guides to further reading this book provides the perfect introduction for students keen to understand the multi faceted role of gender in warfare Gender War and Conflict will challenge and change the way we think about war and conflict in the modern world

War and Gender Joshua S. Goldstein, 2003-07-17 Gender roles are nowhere more prominent than in war Yet contentious debates and the scattering of scholarship across academic disciplines have obscured understanding of how gender affects war and vice versa In this authoritative and lively review of our state of knowledge Joshua Goldstein assesses the possible explanations for the near total exclusion of women from combat forces through history and across cultures Topics covered include the history of women who did fight and fought well the complex role of testosterone in men s social behaviours and the construction of masculinity and femininity in the shadow of war Goldstein concludes that killing in war does not come naturally for either gender and that gender norms often shape men women and children to the needs of the war system Illustrated with photographs drawings and graphics and drawing from scholarship spanning six academic disciplines this book provides a unique study of a fascinating issue

Terrorism Studies Alice E. Finden, Carlos Yebra López, Tarela Ike, Ugo Gaudino, Samwel Oando, 2024-01-04 This interdisciplinary book presents an intervention into methodological practices in the subfield of Critical Terrorism Studies and features established and early career scholars The volume interrogates the role that research methods play in shaping the sub discipline of Critical Terrorism Studies CTS It responds to two major methodological gaps within CTS 1 the dearth of Global South cases and voices and decolonial and feminist approaches and 2 the lack of engagement with traditional disciplines and quantitative methods Together authors demonstrate that interdisciplinary methodological dialogues can open up new possibilities for researchers seeking pathways towards and definitions of emancipation social justice and freedom from violence Simultaneously the book shows that by focusing on the possibilities that methodologies open up to us and by maintaining a commitment to reflexive practice we expand our understandings of what are legitimate and acceptable forms of research thus challenging the Critical Terrorism Studies divide The chapters draw upon a wide range of empirical cases including Nigeria Kenya France Brazil and the UK focusing on three key issues within Critical Terrorism Studies its own relationship with and perpetuation of epistemic violence decolonial postcolonial Global South feminist and queer approaches and more traditional approaches and methods as a means to interrogate the methodological binary between Critical Terrorism Studies and Terrorism Studies This book will be of much interest to students of critical terrorism studies counter terrorism security studies and International Relations in general Sexuality and War Evelyne Accad, 1990-12-01 A

Kurtz, 1997 An excellent representation of the interdisciplinary thrust of peace studies Paul Joseph Tufts University Violence is a topic of concern everywhere in the media in churches in the halls of governments In every land and in every culture violence is considered by most to be taboo a last resort Yet under certain conditions from the level of the family to the level of nations violence is used as a mechanism of social control Various rationalizations thus emerge to distinguish between legitimate and illegitimate violence The Web of Violence explores the interrelationship among personal collective national and global levels of violence This unique collection brings together a number of internationally known contributors to address the genesis and manifestations of violence in the search for a remedy for this confounding social problem As the global community becomes more intimate we must better understand the nature of violence The Web of Violence supports this aim by examining the dangerous human phenomenon from many perspectives at different levels and using multiple methodologies

Citizen-Soldiers and Manly Warriors Claire R. Snyder, 1999-08-28 What happens in a tradition that links citizenship with soldiering when women become citizens Citizen Soldiers and Manly Warriors Military Service and Gender in the Civic Republican Tradition provides an in depth analysis of the theory and practice of the citizen soldier in historical context Using a postmodern feminist lens Snyder reveals that within the citizen soldier tradition citizenship and masculinity are simultaneously constituted through engagement in civic and martial practices Seeking to sever the connection between masculinity and citizenship Snyder calls for women to make gender trouble by engaging in the practices traditionally constitutive of masculine republican citizenship However in order to reconstitute the Citizen Soldier traditionDthe only tradition we have that holds the military up to democratic standardsDwe must not only trouble but also reconfigure our understandings of gender and citizenship Thus gender parity in the American military is not enough We must also change the type of masculinity produced by the military reintroduce the military to its civic purposes expand the citizenship of civic practices to include other non martial forms of service and give citizens a greater role in political decision making

Feminist International Relations Christine Sylvester, 2002 Publisher Description Gender and International Security Laura Sjoberg, 2009-10-16 This book defines the relationship between gender and international security analyzing and critiquing international security theory and practice from a gendered perspective Gender issues have an important place in the international security landscape but have been neglected both in the theory and practice of international security The passage and implementation of UN Security Council Resolution 1325 on Security Council operations the integration of gender concerns into peacekeeping the management of refugees post conflict disarmament and reintegration and protection for non combatants in times of war shows the increasing importance of gender sensitivity for actors on all fronts in global security This book aims to improve the quality and quantity of conversations between feminist security studies and security studies more generally in order to demonstrate the importance of gender analysis to the study of international security and to expand the feminist research program in Security Studies The chapters included in this book not only challenge the assumed irrelevance of gender they argue that gender is not a subsection of security studies to be compartmentalized or briefly considered as a side issue Rather the contributors argue that gender is conceptually empirically and normatively essential to studying international security They do so by critiquing and reconstructing key concepts of and theories in international security by looking for the increasingly complex roles women play as security actors and by looking at various contemporary security issues through gendered lenses Together these chapters make the case that accurate rigorous and ethical scholarship of international security cannot be produced without taking account of women s presence in or the gendering of world politics This book will be of interest to all students of critical security studies gender studies and International Relations in general Laura Sjoberg is Assistant Professor of Political Science at the University of Florida She has a Phd in International Relations and Gender Studies from the University of Southern California and is the author of Gender Justice and the Wars in Iraq 2006 and with Caron Gentry Mothers Monsters Whores Women s Violence in Global Politics 2007

Women, Armed Conflict and International Law Judith G. Gardam, Michelle J. Jarvis, 2021-08-04 The role that gender plays in determining the experience of those caught up in armed conflict has long been overlooked Moreover the extent to which gender influences the international legal regime designed to address the humanitarian problems arising from armed conflict has similarly been ignored In the early 1990s prompted by extensive media coverage of the rape of women during the conflict in Bosnia Herzegovina the international community was forced to critically examine the capacity of international law to respond to such crimes The prevalence of sexual violence is however merely one aspect of the distinctive impact of conflict on women Although a range of factors influence the way individual women experience armed conflict the endemic gender discrimination that exists in all societies is a common theme from Cambodia where women land mine victims are less likely to receive treatment for their injuries than are men to South Africa where women widowed during the Apartheid years have become outcasts in their own society To date the extent to which international law addresses the myriad of ways in which women are affected by armed conflict has received little attention This work takes the experience of women of armed conflict matches it with existing provisions of international law and investigates reasons for the silence of the latter in relation to these events for women It is the first broad based critique of international humanitarian law from a gender perspective The contribution of the United Nations through its focus on human rights to improving the protection of women in armed conflict is also considered The authors underscore the need for new approaches to the issue of women and armed conflict and canvass a range of options for moving forward

Reardon, Asha Hans, 2018-07-27 This collection of essays by feminist scholar activists addresses the crucial problem of human security in a world of heavily armed militarized states It describes the gendered aspects of human security excluded from the realist militarism that dominates current security policy in most nation states The book deepens and broadens current security discourses encouraging serious consideration of alternatives to the present global security system that functions to advantage state security over human security a system the contributors perceive to be rooted in the patriarchal nature of the nation state This second edition will be of interest to academics and students of gender studies women's studies international studies development studies human rights security studies peace studies and peace education

Daisaku Ikeda's Philosophy of Peace Olivier Urbain, 2010-03-30 Who is Daisaku Ikeda At one level he is the leader of a religious movement Soka Gakkai which began in Japan where it still has its headquarters but which now claims 12 million adherents around the world At another level he is a globetrotting figure whose formal conversations with diverse writers thinkers and diplomats including Arnold Toynbee Joseph Rotblat and Mikhail Gorbachev have garnered him an international profile as well as academic recognition Perhaps above all else Daisaku Ikeda is viewed as a campaigner for peace And it is Ikeda's specific contribution to peacebuilding notably through the central emphasis he has placed on the significance of dialogue that this book explores the first to do so in a concerted way Olivier Urbain shows that while Soka Gakkai the value society may stem from the medieval principles of Nichiren Buddhism under Ikeda's leadership it has taken these classic wisdoms and transformed them Now essentially classless and secularised as well as adaptable and sensitive to modern challenges like resource shortages and climate change this argues the author is a pragmatic approach to peace which has proved both popular and eminently transportable

Women, Violence and Nonviolent Change Aruna Gnanadason, Musimbi R. A. Kanyoro, Lucia Ann McSpadden, 2009-08-01 Amidst conflict situations all around our increasingly violent world ranging from wars between nations to abuse of women and children within the home women are making effective courageous and often creative nonviolent responses Yet little attention has been given to the specific contributions of women to conflict resolution This book helps to fill that gap After three analytical essays women from thirteen countries around the world present case studies of how women's groups are confronting violence in their contexts What they have in common is that all grow out of an awareness of the interlinkages of various forms of violence an emphasis on practical action and an insistence on nonviolence as the only appropriate and workable means of responding to violence At the time of the first printing of the book the three editors were staff members of the three organizations responsible for the study on women and nonviolence from which this book emerged namely Aruna Gnanadasan World Council of Churches Musimbi Kanyoro Lutheran World Federation and Lucia Ann McSpadden Life Peace Institute The focal goal of the study was to stimulate networking between scholars and women practitioners and to enhance the efficiency of a nonviolent struggle for human rights
