International Environmental Governance Peter M. Haas, 2017-07-05 International Environmental Governance reviews the contentious approaches to addressing global and transboundary environmental threats The volume collects together the most influential and important literature on the major political approaches to dealing with these problems their histories major debates and research frontiers It is accompanied by a substantial introduction which reviews the evolution of the academic contribution to environmental governance focusing on a wide array of international environmental problems

Unnatural Law David R. Boyd, 2011-11-01 While governments assert that Canada is a world leader in sustainability Unnatural Law provides extensive evidence to refute this claim A comprehensive assessment of the strengths and weaknesses of Canadian environmental law the book provides a balanced critical examination of Canada s record focusing on laws and policies intended to protect water air land and biodiversity Three decades of environmental laws have produced progress in a number of important areas such as ozone depletion protected areas and some kinds of air and water pollution However Canada s overall record remains poor In this vital and timely study David Boyd explores the reasons why some laws and policies foster progress while others fail He ultimately concludes that the root cause of environmental degradation in industrialized nations is excessive consumption of resources Unnatural Law outlines the innovative changes in laws and policies that Canada must implement in order to respond to the ecological imperative of living within the Earth's limits. The struggle for a sustainable future is one of the most daunting challenges facing humanity in the 21st century. Everyone—academics, lawyers, students, policy makers, and concerned citizens interested in the health of the Canadian and global environments—will find Unnatural Law an invaluable source of information and insight. For more information on Unnatural Law, visit David Boyd's site www.unnaturallaw.com. Green Leviathan Inger Weibust, 2016-04-22. The US, Switzerland, and Canada are wealthy democracies that should be conducive to effective decentralized or cooperative environmental policy making. However, a closer examination of their environmental policy over many decades finds no evidence that these approaches have worked. So does it matter which level of government makes policy? Can cooperation between sub-national governments protect the environment? Building on comparative case studies on air and water pollution and making use of extensive historical material, Inger Weibust questions how governance structure affects environmental policy performance in the US, Switzerland, Canada, and the European Union. The research breaks new ground by studying formal and informal environmental cooperation. It analyzes whether federal systems with more centralized policy making produce stricter environmental policies and debates whether devolution and the establishment of subsidiaries will lead to less environmental protection. An essential insight into the complexities of policy making and governance structures, this book is an important contribution to the growing debates surrounding comparative federalism and multi-level governance. Ibss: Sociology: 1998 Compiled by the British Library of Political and Social Science, 1999-12-16. Renowned for its international coverage and rigorous selection procedures, this series provides the most comprehensive and scholarly bibliographic service available in the social sciences. Arranged by topic and indexed by author, subject, and place name, each bibliography lists and annotates the most important works published in its field during the year of 1997, including hard-to-locate journal articles. Each volume also includes a complete list of the periodicals consulted. Student's Guide for Writing in Political Science Andre Martel, 1997. This concise methodological guide is geared to undergraduates making the transition between descriptive and analytical work. Many aspects of study and writing are explored, posing a general political problem, active reading approaches to research, textual analysis, the linking of ideas and data, building an argument, sourcing styles in English and French, publishing outlets, and book reviews. An indispensable tool for beginning students and for those revisiting the field.

Capacity for Choice George Hoberg, 2002-01-01. Examines North American integration and its potential future impact on Canadian life in eight areas: trade, the labour market, the brain drain, macroeconomics, federalism, social welfare, the environment, and culture. Green European Audrone Telesiene, Matthias Gross, 2016-07-01. Green European addresses the quest for a better understanding of European types of environmentalism. This monograph focuses on public attitudes and behaviours and the culturally rooted as well as country-specific differences. The book addresses the wider issue that many European countries are rendered green or as having an advanced environmental awareness, but the question is how green are

Green Europeans really is yet to be answered The book covers a variety of unique data driven comparative studies and is divided into three parts the first addresses perceptions of environmental and technological threats and risks the second part deals with environmental activism in Europe the third discusses environmental attitudes environmental concerns and their imminent link to personal pro environmental behaviour The empirical comparative nature of the contributions is enabled by data from the International Social Survey Programme ISSP

Innovation, Science, Environment 1987-2007 James Meadowcroft, Glen B. Toner, Glen Toner, 2009 This special edition of Innovation Science Environment includes reflections from a number of Canada's leading sustainable development thinkers two decades after the 1987 publication of the seminal United Nations report Our Common Future Published by the World Commission on Environment and Development and often referred to as the Brundtland Commission Report after its Chair Gro Harlem Brundtland former Prime Minister of Norway the report popularized the concept of sustainable development which continues to influence economic environmental and social policy decisions and structures in individual countries and international organizations Contributors analyse a number of dimensions of the Canadian experience in implementing sustainable development and critically assess how the country has done over this twenty year period They discuss both the breakthroughs and disappointments of the Canadian experience and look toward the future to discuss what additional steps need to be undertaken domestically if Canada is to once again achieve a position of leadership in the world and get on a truly sustainable trajectory Contributors include David V J Bell York Serena Boutros Carleton Francois Bregha Stratos Ann Dale Royal Roads Roger Gibbons Canada West Foundation Lillian Hayward Carleton James Meadowcroft Carleton Anique Montambault Carleton Laura Smallwood Carleton Annika Tambly NRTEE Glen Toner Carleton David Wheeler Dalhousie and Mark Winfield York

Ecological Sensitivity and Global Legal Pluralism

Oren Perez, 2004-06-30 The tension between trade liberalisation and environmental protection has received remarkable attention since the establishment of the WTO It has been the subject of a wide ranging debate and is one of the central themes of the anti globalisation movement This book explores that debate It argues that by focusing on the WTO the debate has failed to recognise the institutional and discursive complexity in which the trade environment conflict is embedded A legal investigation of this nexus requires a framework of inquiry in which this complexity can be elucidated a model of global legal pluralism The first theoretical part of the book Chapters One and Two responds to this challenge by developing a pluralistic model which recognises the trade and environment conflict as the product of multiple dilemmas constituted and negotiated by a myriad of institutional and discursive networks As such this conflict cannot be understood or addressed through one dimensional models Viewing the trade environment conflict through a pluralistic perspective yields important practical insights It means that this conflict cannot be resolved by uniform economic or legal formulae Dealing with this conflict requires rather polycentric and contextual strategy The empirical part of the book Chapters Three to Seven explicates this thesis by examining several global legal domains ranging from the WTO to private transnational regimes such as transnational litigation international construction law and international financial law This part demonstrates how the different discursive and institutional structures of these domains have influenced the contours of the trade environment conflict and considers the policy implications of this diversity from a pro environmental perspective

Capacity Building in National Environmental Policy Helmut Weidner, Martin Jänicke, 2013-03-09 This book is the second collection of systematic case studies describing national environmental policies in 17 countries in terms of capacity building see Appen dix The OECD defines environmental capacity building as a society s ability to identify and solve environmental problems While various institutions including UNEP FAO World Bank and OECD have hitherto used the terms environmental capacity and capacity building almost exclusively with reference to developing countries we have extended the concepts to industrialized countries as well The first collection edited by Martin Janicke Helge Joergens both Free University Berlin and Helmut Weidner Social Science Research Center Berlin was published in 1997 under the title National Environmental Policies A Comparative Study of Capacity Building Berlin etc Springer Verlag It included 13 studies of countries As in the first volume chapter I presents the conceptual framework underlying the national case studies It is a slightly shorter version of the corresponding chapter in volume I The design of all case studies in the two volumes is largely congruent with this conceptual framework Although the various sections of the studies do not always have identical titles and subtitles the central elements of the capacity building approach have been applied in all cases

The First Green Wave Ryan O'Connor, 2014-11-15 In The First Green Wave Ryan O Connor traces the rise of the environmental movement in Toronto home to one of Canada s earliest and most dynamic communities of environmental activists from the mid 1960s to the mid 1980s At the heart of the story is Pollution Probe an organization founded in 1969 by students and faculty at the University of Toronto Living up to its motto Do it in its first year of operation Pollution Probe confronted Toronto s City Hall over its use of pesticides Ontario Hydro over air pollution and the detergent industry over pollution of the Great Lakes The organization s successes inspired the founding of other environmental organizations across Canada and led to the development of initiatives now taken for granted such as waste reduction and energy policy This book describes the heady days of Canada s early environmental movement and examines the forces that reshaped the activist landscape in the 1980s

Interdisciplinary Aspects of Climate Change Walter Leal Filho, Franziska Mannke, 2009 Climate change is a matter of great interest and worldwide concern The latest evidences from scientific studies and official documents produced by the International Panel on Climate Change IPCC show that the challenges posed by climate change need to be taken seriously if they are ever to be tackled properly It is widely acknowledged that information communication and education on climate change are important tools in the search for solutions to the social economic or political problems climate change poses But despite the fact that much has been written about climate change most works to date tend to focus on specific issues e g climate modeling forecasts as opposed to addressing the problem in an interdisciplinary way as it should be This book tries to address this perceived gap by providing a wide range of perspectives on climate change which goes over and above the traditional barriers seen among subjects It is interdisciplinary in nature and comprehensive in scope This book was prepared in the context of Climate 2008 www.klima2008.net the world's first scientific conference on climate change held on the internet and is one of the first outputs of the newly created International Climate Change Information Programme ICCIP It provides a long needed contribution to a better understanding of the interdisciplinary nature of the subject matter of climate change and offers an overview of some of the on going interdisciplinary projects and initiatives in this field taking place in different parts of the world The Struggle for Russian Environmental Policy Ilmo Massa, Veli-Pekka Tynkkynen, 2001

Sustainable Development and Canada O.P. Dwivedi, 2001-05 Canada is one of the most beautiful varied and inspiring natural environments on earth Few countries contain such topographical differences as the West Coast the mountain regions the prairies the Arctic the cityscapes close to the American border and the eastern forests The Canadian territory is the second largest in the world and it borders on three oceans its fourth border is with the United States the most powerful economy in the world This provides Canadians unique access to a large market but also raises many problems related not only to political and cultural influence but to transborder pollution This book investigates the complexities of Canadian environmental policy The text is split into three sections the political context in which decisions are made issue areas in need of engagement and perspectives on the achievement of sustainable development which colour the Canadian conceptual landscape The first section outlines the state of the Canadian environment the actors and institutions involved in environmental policy formation and a detailed history of Environment Canada and the international context of modern decision making The second section is issue specific including chapters on environmental law risk management and environmental impact assessment international treaties and conventions involving Canada and an overall assessment of Canadian policy The final section deals with values and theories from gender issues to environmental ethics The book serves as a comprehensive introduction that makes explicit recognition of the transnational character of environmental policy formation in the era of globalization and offers critical insights into the decision making process *Canadian Books in Print.
