Bosworth, 2016-06-20 Those who have spent time within earshot of a crying baby know the stress this sound can induce Considerable scientific research has been devoted to the causes and consequences of infant crying because it is a public health concern implicated in parental frustration and infant abuse Infant Weeping seeks to draw on the extensive research on infant crying in order to understand better the motif of infant weeping in ancient literature The present book contributes to the growing interest in correlating scientific and humanities scholarship Scientific research can help bridge the cultural distance that separates modern readers from ancient texts For example the Akkadian incantations for soothing infants may appear to be strange magical texts from a foreign world which they are but they also reflect common human realities that have been part of the parent infant relationship in all times and cultures The incantations reflect and evoke emotions and responses familiar to anyone who has cared for a baby Fuller understanding of the dynamics of the parent child relationship can help us see commonalities across differences and make foreign texts more interesting and relevant David Bosworth draws on the natural sciences to develop a theory for analyzing infant weeping in literature He then analyzes ancient Akkadian magical incantations for soothing crying babies as well as portions of the Babylonian Creation and Flood stories in the Hebrew Bible he explores two infant abandonment stories Genesis 21 and Exodus 2 and the many parallels between them that have been overlooked finally he examines a select corpus of Greek infant abandonment stories including stories found in Herodotus Sophocles and Diodorus among other authors He ultimately places these textual corpuses in comparison with one another The Art of Science in the Canadian Justice System David Milward, Charles Ferguson, 2017-04-07 Part autobiography part thought piece part references the book takes an insightful look at the experience and cases of renowned paediatrician and forensic expert witness Dr Charles Ferguson The book presents the interaction of science and law as it applies specifically the Canadian courts but the justice process as a whole Dr Ferguson's experience from a scientist and medical professional's perspective in dealing with lawyers judges and the process of testifying in numerous court offers a unique glimpse into how the two worlds of science and law don't always mesh In some cases the evidence is compelling and definitive In others far from it Ultimately the book presents the important role of the forensic expert and expert witness as a vital and deciding factor as the courtroom proceedings play out The cases presented in the book cases Dr Ferguson was personally involved with are interesting the conclusions and results arrived at by Dr Ferguson are well thought out and backed by his scientific expertise The results and conclusions arrived at by the courts is often expected sometimes surprising in specific cases even controversial Throughout all Dr Ferguson casts an independent and sometimes critical eye on the process presenting a compelling argument and heartfelt recommendation for science objectivity and justice to be served based on truth truth insofar as the facts of the cases presented through evidence and the testimony provided within the judicial process A fascinating read for university students experts and witnesses lawyers and judges and anyone involved in the forensic process in the trying of criminal and civil cases
