

The background of the book cover is a painting. It depicts a winged figure, possibly a fairy or a spirit, with large, translucent, golden-brown wings. The figure is riding a dark, bat-like creature with large, spread wings. They are flying over a landscape with rolling hills and a small, reddish-brown structure in the foreground. The sky is a deep blue with a large, white, fluffy cloud. The overall style is reminiscent of a classical painting.

Crime and Punishment in the Middle Ages and Early Modern Age Albrecht Classen, Connie Scarborough, 2012-10-30 All societies are constructed based on specific rules norms and laws Hence all ethics and morality are predicated on perceived right or wrong behavior and much of human culture proves to be the result of a larger discourse on vices and virtues transgression and ideals right and wrong The topics covered in this volume addressing fundamental concerns of the premodern world deal with allegedly criminal or simply wrong behavior which demanded punishment Sometimes this affected whole groups of people such as the innocently persecuted Jews sometimes individuals such as violent and evil princes The issue at stake here embraces all of society since it can only survive if a general framework is observed that is based in some way on justice and peace But literature and the visual arts provide many examples of open and public protests against wrongdoings ill conceived ideas and concepts and stark crimes such as theft rape and murder In fact poetic statements or paintings could carry significant potentials against those who deliberately transgressed moral and ethical norms or who even targeted themselves
