Identity and Ritual in a Japanese Diving Village D. P. Martinez,2004-04-30 Through her detailed description of a particular place Kuzaki cho at a particular moment in time the 1980s D P Martinez addresses a variety of issues currently at the fore in the anthropology of Japan the construction of identity both for a place and its people the importance of ritual in a country that describes itself as nonreligious and the relationship between men and women in a society where gender divisions are still very much in place Kuzaki is for the anthropologist both a microcosm of modernity and an attempt to bring the past into the present But it must also be understood as a place all of its own In the 1980s it was one of the few villages where female divers ama still collected abalone and other shellfish and where some of its inhabitants continued to make a living as fishermen Kuzaki was also a kambe or sacred guild of Ise Shrine the most important Shinto shrine in modern Japan home to Amaterasu the sun goddess Kuzaki s rituals affirmed a national identity in an era when attitudes to modernity and Japaneseness were being challenged by globalization Martinez enhances her fascinating ethnographic description of a single diving village with a critique of the way in which the anthropology of Japan has developed The result is a sophisticated investigation by a senior scholar of Japanese studies that while firmly grounded in empirical data calls on anthropological theory to construct another means of understanding Japan both as a society in which the collective is important and as a place where individual ambitions and desires can be expressed Unwrapping Japan Eyal Ben-Ari,Brian Moeran,Jim
