

Modern philosophy from Descartes onward has asked itself the question: How can the subject really know the object?

Modern Subject:

The Modern Subject Karl Ameriks, Dieter Sturma, 1995-12-07 Provides a thorough background study of the postmodern assault on the standpoint of the subject as a foundation for philosophy and assesses what remains today of the philosophy of subjectivity

Trauma and the Ontology of the Modern Subject John L. Roberts, 2017-09-11 Recent scholarship has inquired into the socio historical discursive genesis of trauma Trauma and the Ontology of the Modern Subject however seeks what has not been actualized in trauma studies that is how the necessity and unassailable intensity of trauma is fastened to its historical emergence We must ask not only what trauma means for the individual person's biography but also what it means to be the historical subject of trauma In other words how does being human in this current period of history implicate one's lived possibilities that are threatened and perhaps framed through trauma Foucauldian sensibilities inform a critical and structural analysis that is hermeneutically grounded Drawing on the history of ideas and on Lacan's work in particular John L. Roberts argues that what we mean by trauma has developed over time and that it is intimately tied with an ontology of the subject that is to say what it is to be and means to be human He argues that modern subjectivity as articulated by Heidegger Levinas and Lacan is structurally traumatic founded in its finitude as self withdrawal in time its temporal self absence becoming the very conditions for agency truth and knowledge The book also argues that this fractured temporal horizon as an effect of an interrupting Otherness or alterity is obscured through the discourses and technologies of the psy disciplines psychiatry psychology and psychotherapy Consideration is given to social political and economic consequences of this concealment Trauma and the Ontology of the Modern Subject will be of enduring interest to psychoanalysts and psychotherapists as well as scholars of philosophy and cultural studies

The Early Modern Subject Udo Thiel, 2011-09-29 The Early Modern Subject explores the understanding of self consciousness and personal identity two fundamental features of human subjectivity as it developed in early modern philosophy Udo Thiel presents a critical evaluation of these features as they were conceived in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries He explains the arguments of thinkers such as Descartes Locke Leibniz Wolff and Hume as well as their early critics followers and other philosophical contemporaries and situates them within their historical contexts Interest in the issues of self consciousness and personal identity is in many ways characteristic and even central to early modern thought but Thiel argues here that this is an interest that continues to this day in a form still strongly influenced by the conceptual frameworks of early modern thought In this book he attempts to broaden the scope of the treatment of these issues considerably covering more than a hundred years of philosophical debate in France Britain and Germany while remaining attentive to the details of the arguments under scrutiny and discussing alternative interpretations in many cases

Music and the Crises of the Modern Subject Michael L. Klein, 2015-07-06 Departing from the traditional German school of music theorists Michael Klein injects a unique French critical theory perspective into the framework of music and meaning Using primarily Lacanian notions of the symptom that unnamable

jouissance located in the unconscious and the registers of subjectivity the Imaginary the Symbolic Order and the Real Klein explores how we understand music as both an artistic form created by the subject and an artistic expression of a culture that imposes its history on this modern subject By creatively navigating from critical theory to music film fiction and back to music Klein distills the kinds of meaning that we have been missing when we perform listen to think about and write about music without the insights of Lacan and others into formulations of modern subjectivity Composing the Modern Subject: Four String Quartets by Dmitri Shostakovich Sarah Reichardt, 2017-07-05 Since the publication of Solomon Volkov's disputed memoirs of Dmitri Shostakovich the composer and his music has been subject to heated debate concerning how the musical meaning of his works can be understood in relationship to the composer's life within the Soviet State While much ink has been spilled very little work has attempted to define how Shostakovich's music has remained so arresting not only to those within the Soviet culture but also to Western audiences even though such audiences are often largely ignorant of the compositional context or even the biography of the composer This book offers a useful corrective setting aside biographically grounded and traditional analytical modes of explication Reichardt uncovers and explores the musical ambiguities of four of the composer's middle string quartets especially those ambiguities located in moments of rupture within the musical structure The music is constantly collapsing reversing inverting and denying its own structural imperatives Reichardt argues that such confrontation of the musical language with itself though perhaps interpretable as Shostakovich's own unique version of double speak also poignantly articulates the fractured state of a more general form of modern subjectivity Reichardt employs the framework of Lacanian psychoanalysis to offer a cogent explanation of this connection between disruptive musical process and modern subjectivity The ruptures of Shostakovich's music become symptoms of the pathologies at the core of modern subjectivity These symptoms in turn relate to the Lacanian concept of the real which is the empty kernel around which the modern subject constructs reality This framework proves invaluable in developing a powerful original hermeneutic understanding of the music Read through the lens of the real the riddles written into the quartets reveal the arbitrary and contingent state of the musical subject's constructed reality reflecting pathologies ended The Subject

Medieval/Modern Peter Haidu, 2004 This work presents a thorough historicist account of the development of subjectivity in the medieval period as traced in medieval literature and historical documentation Foucault, Subjectivity, and Identity Robert M. Strozier, 2002 An examination of the notions of subject and self from the Sophists to Foucault Although the writings of Foucault have had tremendous impact on contemporary thinking about subjectivity notions of the subject have a considerable history In Foucault Subjectivity and Identity Robert Strozier examines ideas of subject and self that have developed throughout western thought He expands Foucault's idea of the subject as historically determined into a wide ranging treatment of ideas of subjectivity extending from those expressed by the ancient Sophists to notions of the subject at the end of the twentieth century Strozier examines these traditions against the background of Foucault's work especially

Foucault's later writings on the history of self relation and the subject and his idea of historical subjectivity in general Strozier explores various periods of western thought notably the Hellenistic era the early Italian Renaissance and the seventeenth century to show that almost every treatment of subjectivity is related to the Sophist idea of the originating Subject Drawing on a wide spectrum of writings by Epicurus and Seneca Petrarch and Montaigne Dickens and Conrad Fr

Late Modern Subjectivity and its Discontents Kieran Keohane, Anders Petersen, Bert van den Bergh, 2017-03-16 This book analyses three of the most prevalent illnesses of late modernity anxiety depression and Alzheimer's disease in terms of their relation to cultural pathologies of the social body Usually these conditions are interpreted clinically in terms of individualized symptoms and responded to discretely as though for the most part unrelated to each other However these diseases also have a social and cultural profile that transcends their particular symptomologies and etiologies Anxiety depression and Alzheimer's are diseases related to disorders of the collective esprit de corps of contemporary society Multidisciplinary in approach the book addresses questions of how these conditions are manifest at both the individual and collective levels in relation to hegemonic biomedical and psychologistic understandings Rejecting such reductive diagnoses the authors argue that anxiety depression and Alzheimer's disease as well as other contemporary epidemics are to be analysed in the light of individual and collective experiences of profound and radical changes in our civilization A diagnosis of our times Late Modern Subjectivity and its Discontents will appeal to a broad range of scholars with interests in health and illness the sociology of medicine and contemporary life

Queer/Early/Modern Carla Freccero, 2006-01-16 In Queer Early Modern Carla Freccero a leading scholar of early modern European studies argues for a reading practice that accounts for the queerness of temporality for the way past present and future time appear out of sequence and in dialogue in our thinking about history and texts Freccero takes issue with New Historicist accounts of sexual identity that claim to respect historical proprieties and to derive identity categories from the past She urges us to see how the indeterminacies of subjectivity found in literary texts challenge identitarian constructions and she encourages us to read differently the relation between history and literature Contending that the term queer in its indeterminacy points the way toward alternative ethical reading practices that do justice to the aftereffects of the past as they live on in the present Freccero proposes a model of fantasmatic historiography that brings together history and fantasy past and present event and affect Combining feminist theory queer theory psychoanalysis deconstruction and literary criticism Freccero takes up a series of theoretical and historical issues related to debates in queer theory feminist theory the history of sexuality and early modern studies She juxtaposes readings of early and late modern texts discussing the lyric poetry of Petrarch Louise Labé and Melissa Ethridge David Halperin's take on Michel Foucault via Apuleius's The Golden Ass and Boccaccio's Decameron and France's domestic partner legislation in connection with Marguerite de Navarre's Heptameron Turning to French cleric Jean de Lery's account published in 1578 of having witnessed cannibalism and religious rituals in Brazil some twenty years earlier and to the twentieth century Brandon Teena case Freccero draws on Jacques Derrida's concept of spectrality to propose both an ethics and a mode of interpretation that acknowledges and is inspired by the haunting of the present by the past

Ethical Politics and Modern Society James Jia-Hau Liu, 2019-09-19 Ethical Politics and Modern Society introduces and critically examines British idealist philosopher Thomas Hill Green's practical philosophy and its reception in China between the late nineteenth century and the early twentieth century. As a response to the modernity issue in Great Britain, Green's philosophy, in particular his ethical politics, anticipated a practical solution to the individual alienation issue in modern society. Witnessing the resemblance between Green's ethical politics and classical Chinese ethical and political thought, some Chinese scholars became inclined to take Green's thought as an intellectual approach to assimilate Western modernity. While Green and the Chinese scholars both intended to articulate an ethical conception of modern politics in response to the issue of modernity, their results were very different. In this book, James Jia-Hau Liu analyses why modern Chinese scholars introduced Green's philosophy to China and why the studies of Green's philosophy in China have since faded away. Modern Chinese scholars such as Gao Yi, Han Chin Yueh Lin, Tang Jun Yi, Chang Fo Chuan, and Yin Hai Guang are explored in greater detail. The contradictory standings towards modernity between Green and Chinese scholars illustrate how to understand the difference forms of modernity that can be embodied therein. Ethical Politics and Modern Society is a valuable resource to scholars of political philosophy, political theory, history of social and political thought, British idealism, and the work of Thomas Hill Green

Unbecoming Modern Saurabh Dube, Ishita Banerjee-Dube, 2019-06-14 In this volume, well-known scholars from India and Latin America, Enrique Dussel, Madhu Dubey, Walter D Mignolo, and Sudipta Sen, to name a few, discuss the concepts of modernity and colonialism and describe how the two relate to each other. This second edition to the volume comes with a new introduction which extends and critically supplements the discussion in the earlier introduction to the volume. It explores the vital impact of the colonial pasts of India, Mexico, China, and even the United States on the processes through which these countries have become modern. The collection is unique as it brings together a range of disciplines and perspectives. The topics discussed include the Zapatista movement in Southern Mexico, the image of the South in recent African American literature, the theories of Andre Gunder Frank about the early modernization of Asian countries, and the contradictions of the colonial state in India.

Reading the Early Modern English Diary Miriam Nandi, 2021-02-27 Reading the Early Modern Diary traces the historical genealogy, formal characteristics, and shifting cultural uses of the early modern English diary. It explores the possibilities and limitations the genre held for the self-expression of a writer at a time which considerably predated the Romantic cult of the individual self. The book analyzes the connections between genre and self-articulation. How could the diary come to be associated with emotional self-expression given the tedium and repetitiveness of its early seventeenth-century ancestors? How did what were once mere lists of daily events evolve into narrative representations of inner emotions? What did it mean to write on a daily basis when the proper use of time was a heavily contested issue? Reading the Early Modern Diary addresses

these questions and develops new theoretical frameworks for discussing interiority and affect in early modern autobiographical texts
