functions mental as well as physical are proper subjects for therapeutics The present work lays emphasis upon the psychical side of life as being worth quite as much consideration as the physical It sets forth doctrines of nervous and mental hygiene reconstructive factors in social organization as applied to human ills and endeavors to present a broad front to the pessimistic nihilism in therapeutics that has been too long current in these fields because the doctor's eyes have been too closely focused on the individual examples and results of human accidents Neurology and psychiatry offer the widest possible opportunities for preventive medicine as well as for therapeutic optimism The program here presented is essentially therapeutic Planned as it has been on a broad scale the more practical issues confronting the clinician have nevertheless been fully met The editors have sacrificed philosophical views for more definite guideposts wherever in the present state of our knowledge such a course seemed wiser PsycINFO Database Record c 2005 APA all rights reserved The Modern treatment of nervous and mental diseases v.1, 1913 The Modern treatment of nervous and mental diseases v.2, 1913

Reimagining Therapy through Social Contextual Analyses Bernard Guerin, 2022-07-29 This book attempts to shake up the current complacency around therapy and mental health behaviours by putting therapy fully into context using Social Contextual Analysis showing how changes to our social discursive and societal environments rather than changes to an individual s mind will reduce suffering from the mental health behaviours Guerin challenges many assumptions about both current therapy and psychology and offers alternative approaches synthesized from sociology social anthropology sociolinguistics and elsewhere The book provides a way of addressing the mental health behaviours including actions talking thinking and emotions by taking people s external life situations into account and not relying on an imagined internal source Guerin describes the broad contexts for current Western therapies referring to social discursive cultural societal and economic contexts and suggests that we need to research the components of therapies and stop treating therapies as units He reframes different types of therapy away from their abstract jargons offering an alternative approach grounded in our real social worlds aligning with new thinking that challenges the traditional methods of therapy and also providing a better framework for rethinking psychology itself The book ultimately suggests more emphasis should be put on mental health behaviours as arising from social issues including the modern contexts of extreme capitalism excessive bureaucracy weakened discursive communities and changing forms of social relationships Practical guidelines are provided for building the reimaged therapies into clinics and institutions where labelling and pathologizing the mental health behaviours will no longer be needed By putting mental health behaviours and therapy into a naturalistic or ecological social sciences framework this book will be practical and fascinating reading for professional therapists counsellors social workers and mental health nurses as well as academics interested in psychology and the social sciences more generally
