

English Literature: Modernism Period

Historical and Social Context

Spanning from the late 19th century to mid-20th century, this era saw a huge breakaway from traditional norms and greater emphasis on experimentation and abstraction. Literature and other art forms were greatly influenced by urbanisation, industrialisation and war.

Society changed intensely during this time, mostly due to the impact of the First World War, the Jazz Age era and the Great Depression. The Second World War is often seen as the end of the Modernist era.

In literature, traditional narrative structures were often renounced and writing witnessed more attention on differing perspectives and experiences.

Famous People

Modernism went beyond European literature, art and science with figures such as F. Scott Fitzgerald, Richard Wright and Zora Neale Hurston challenging serious issues within society. Other writers such as Joseph Conrad and Virginia Woolf also produced writings about the negative impact of imperialism and war.

'The Turn of the Screw' by Henry James
