Tragic

- Response to modernist literature's emphasis on a quest for meaning
- Human rights violations during and after WW2 (Holocaust), bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, & Japanese internment in the US led writers to believe that the quest to find meaning was futile
- Only way to move forward = fully embrace meaninglessness
 - Shattered meaning
 - Introspect & celebrated disorder
 - Major shift in literary traditions

Characteristics

Use of:

- ✓ Metanarration (draws attention to work's artifice; reminds audience that author isn't an authority figure)
- ✓ Unreliable narration
- ✓ Self-reflexivity
- ✓ Intertextuality (written in dialogue with other texts, imitates other authors' styles)
- ✓ Historical & political issues
- ✓ Anti-authoritarianism
- ✓ Rejected outright meaning of texts
 - Highlighted multiple meanings for texts

Modernism In Practice An Introduction To Post:

Modernism in Practice Leith Morton, 2004-02-28 Postwar modernist verse has been rarely discussed in English language works on Japanese literature despite the fact that it has been the dominant mode of poetic expression in Japan since World War II. Now readers of modern Japanese poetry in translation have gained an impressive intellectual and linguistic companion in their enjoyment of modern Japanese verse. Modernism in Practice combines close readings of individual Japanese postwar poets and poetry with historical and critical analysis. Five of the seven chapters concentrate on the life and work of such outstanding poets as Soha Sakon, Ishigaki Rin, Ito Hiromi, Asabuki Ryoji, and Tanikawa Shuntaro. Several of these writers have only come into prominence in recent decades, so this work also serves to acquaint readers with contemporary Japanese verse. A significant dimension of this volume is the detailed and extensive treatment afforded two important areas of postwar Japanese verse: the poetry of women and of Okinawa. Modernism in Practice is noteworthy not only as an introduction to postwar Japanese poets and their times but also for the numerous poems that appear in translation throughout the volume, many for the first time in book form. Routledge Revivals: Painting, Language and Modernity (1985) Michael Phillipson, 2016-11-10 First published in 1985, this book draws together the author's artistic with analytical practices which had been developed over many years of sociological enquiry. It interprets a work of art as a site on which a viewer or critic is invited to share in questioning celebration of the painting itself. The author reassesses modern painting's relation to its own origins and to tradition in light of the emergence of postmodern practice, exploring its engagement of fundamental questions about language and being. Also assessed is the relevance of the metaphors of writings and reading to an understanding of painting and viewing practices, looking at painters' writings as well as phenomenological and post-structuralist writers.

Recovering from Psychosis Stephen Williams, 2015-11-19 The use of first-hand service user accounts of mental illness is still limited in the professional literature available. This is however beginning to change with a new recovery focus in mental health services, meaning that the voices of service users are finally being heard. Recovering from Psychosis: Empirical Evidence and Lived Experience synthesises a narrative approach alongside an evidence-based review of current treatment by including Stephen Williams' own personal experience as it relates to psychosis recovery and treatment. A mental health professional himself, the author's account of his own recovery from severe mental health difficulties without sustained intervention challenges the orthodoxy of representation of service users in mental health. Recovering from Psychosis critically explores and reviews the current state of the art of research and knowledge about the nature and treatment of psychosis. Working simultaneously from empirical lived experience and philosophical perspectives, Stephen Williams evaluates political and power-related issues in professional understanding, knowledge creation and treatment of people with psychosis. Introduces the current recovery movement, unpacking its origins and implications for the future development of recovery-oriented services. Reviews, summarizes and critiques the current state of recovery research, looking at the advantages and disadvantages of such an approach examining how this is influencing the transformation of UK mental health services Analyses the difficulties in organisational implementation of recovery approaches summarises the most empirically robust approaches to practice personal and service delivery measurement Reviews current models of psychosis and how various professional scientific groups explain the experience and nature of psychosis Uses lived experience accounts taken from the scientific literature portraying the nature of such experiences and analysing them in the face of contemporary psychological models Recovering from Psychosis is an essential comprehensive guide for mental health professionals psychologists social workers and carers who are working with people with severe and enduring mental health difficulties diagnosed as psychosis It addresses the practical implications of working with such difficult conditions and serves as a hopeful story of recovery for service users

Metamodernism and the Postdigital in the Contemporary Novel Spencer Jordan, 2024-10-03 Drawing on a range of authors that includes Zadie Smith Sally Rooney Ben Lerner Ali Smith Tom McCarthy Jennifer Egan and Kazuo Ishiguro this book provides an innovative and original analysis of the interdependencies between digital technology and metamodernism through a detailed study of the contemporary novel We are currently living through a period of profound rupture in which the way the world is perceived is undergoing significant change Just as the interplay between capitalism and technology hastened the evolution of modernism and postmodernism then so too are those same forces now taking us into uncharted waters In an increasingly fragile world in which the very existence of humankind is threatened it is vital that we begin to understand this new landscape

The New Modernist Novel Elizabeth Pender, 2024-09-30 Considers relationships between modernist literature and literary criticism and argues that new modernist fiction can bring with it new modes of reading Considers how close reading may change as the study of modernism changes to include recently recovered fiction Asks what reading meant for selected critics of modernist literature around 1930 and around 1960 Offers readings of three new modernist novels Djuna Barnes s Nightwood John Rodker s Adolphe 1920 and Mina Loy s Insel Considers key cultural moments of the novels composition and reception Extends the questions about reading raised by these novels to Samuel Beckett s Comment c est How It Is and Jean Rhys s short stories Since the late twentieth century new understandings of modernism have come with new attention to a range of writers Yet if the academic study of modernism took shape around an older narrower selection of writers and works how can its modes of reading be relevant to newly recovered modernist writing This book considers how close reading may change as the subjects of literary study change Elizabeth Pender asks what reading meant for critics of modernist literature around 1930 and around 1960 and then what close reading might look like now for three new modernist novels Djuna Barnes s Nightwood John Rodker s Adolphe 1920 and Mina Loy s Insel tend to resist some of the strategies of reading that helped construct a narrowed modernist canon at mid century such as the pursuit of coherence These novels offer new thinking about the temporality of reading style and the ethics of narration Reading these novels now suggests that other new modernist fiction too may require revisions to vocabularies with which modernist literature has sometimes been read
