Salama,2011-03-30 Debates on the relationship between Islam and the West rage on from talk of clashing civilizations to political pacification from ethical and historical perspectives to distrust xenophobia and fear Here Mohammad Salama argues that the events of 9 11 force us to engage ourselves fully without preconditions in understanding not just the history of Islam as a religion but of Islam as a historical condition that has existed in relationship to the West since the seventh century Salama compares the Arab Islamic and European traditions of historical thought since the early modern period focusing on the watershed moments that informed the two traditions ideas of intellectual history and perceptions of one another He draws attention to European intellectual history s entangled links with the Islamic philosophy of history especially the complexities of orientalism and modernity Recent critical reflections on the work of Ibn Khald n confirm this intertwined and troubled relationship reflecting major disparities and contradictions At the same time recent Arab writings on Europe s intellectual history reveal a struggle against erasure and intellectual superiority Calling for a new understanding of the relationship between Islam and the West Salama argues that Islam has played a major role in enabling and positioning various paths of Western historiography at crucial moments of its development leaving palpable imprints on Islamic historiography in the process He proposes an answer to a fundamental question how to make sense of the mechanics of production in Arab Islamic and Western historiographies or how to identify the ways in which they have both failed to make sense of themselves and of each other in an increasingly disenchanted postnationalist world Spanning an impressive array of recent writings on these themes as well as older foundational texts in both traditions including al Tabar Ibn Khald n Hegel al Jabart Toynbee Foucault Edward Said and Hourani this book is both timely and crucial for all those interested in Islamic and Middle Eastern studies Western and Islamic philosophies of history modernity and the relationship between Islam and the West Ismailis in Medieval Muslim Societies Farhad Daftary,2005-12-20 I B Tauris in association with the Institute of Ismaili Studies A comprehensive treatment of Ismaili medieval history in its entirety It will have great appeal to all scholars of medieval Islam Farhad Daftary is one of the world s leading authorities on Ismaili history and literature This important book by an internationally acknowledged expert in Ismaili studies introduces Ismaili history and thought in medieval times Discussing the different phases in Ismaili history it describes both the early Ismailis as well as the contributions of the later Ismailis to Islamic culture A number of chapters deal with key Ismaili individuals such as

European Modernity and the Arab Mediterranean Karla Mallette, 2011-06-06 Over the past decade scholars have vigorously reconsidered the history of Orientalism and though Edward Said s hugely influential work remains a touchstone of the discussion Karla Mallette notes it can no longer be taken as the final word on Western perceptions of the Islamic East The French and British Orientalisms that Said studied in particular were shaped by the French and British colonial projects in Muslim regions nations that did not have such investments in the Middle East generated significantly different perceptions of Islamic and Arabic culture European Modernity and the Arab Mediterranean examines Orientalist philological scholarship of southern Europe produced between the mid nineteenth and mid twentieth century In Italy Spain and Malta Mallette argues a regional history of Arab occupation during the Middle Ages gave scholars a focus different from that of their northern European colleagues in studying the Arab world they were not so much looking on a distant and radically different history as seeking to reconstruct the past of their own nations She demonstrates that in specific instances Orientalists wrote their nations Arab history as the origin of modern national identity depicting Islamic thought not as exterior to European modernity but rather as formative of and central to it Joining comparative insights to the analytic strategies and historical genius of philology Mallette ranges from the complex manuscript history of the Thousand and One Nights to the invention of the Maltese language and Spanish scholarship on Dante and Islam Throughout she reveals the profound influences Arab and Islamic traditions have had on the development of modern European culture European Modernity and the Arab Mediterranean is an engaging study that sheds new light on the history of Orientalism the future of philology and the postcolonial Middle Ages
