establishes the area's importance in world history      About the House Janet Carsten, Stephen Hugh-Jones, 1995 The house is at once a physical place and a social unit and is often also a unit of production and consumption a cult group and even a political faction Inspired by Levi Strauss's suggestion that the multi functional noble houses of medieval Europe were simply the best known examples of a widespread social institution the contributors to this collection analyse house systems in Southeast Asia and South America exploring the interrelationships between buildings people and ideas They reveal some of the ways in which houses can stand for social groups and serve as images of process and order      On Centrism and Dualism. Benjamin Baumann, 2020-06-01 This book provides an overview of the anthropological debate on house societies pertaining particularly to Southeast Asian social formations The book's point of departure is a comparative model of social formations in Southeast Asia outlined by Shelly Errington Although this model features prominently in anthropological discussions of the region no detailed analysis of this comparative approach exists This might be attributed to the fact that Errington's model is theoretically dense alluding to the rather complicated anthropological field of kinship studies Errington's model combines premises of L vi Strauss Structural Anthropology with Clifford Geertz symbolic or interpretative paradigm and situates the synthesis in the anthropology of insular Southeast Asia This book traces the genealogy of this model and provides detailed explications of its basic theoretical premises before it explores the concept of house societies and how it is applied by Errington to approach and compare Southeast Asian social formations The book reveals the structuralism that speaks through Errington's comparative approach by discussing the concept of transformation and indicates the potentials and limitations a typology of different house societies has for the anthropology of Southeast Asia      Myanmar's Mountain and Maritime Borderscapes Oh Su-Ann, 2016-08-19 This edited volume adds to the literature on Myanmar and its borders by drawing attention to the significance of geography history politics and society in the construction of the border regions and the country First it alerts us to the fact that the border regions are situated in the mountainous and maritime domains of the country highlighting the commonalities that arise from shared geography Second the book foregrounds socio spatio practices economic intimate spiritual virtual of border and boundary making in their local context This demonstrates how state defined notions of territory borders and identity are enacted or challenged Third despite sharing common features Myanmar's borderscapes also possess unique configurations of ethnic political and economic attributes producing social formations and figured worlds that are more cohesive or militant in some border areas than in others Understanding and comparing these social practices and their corresponding life worlds allows us to re examine the connections from the borderlands back to the hinterland and to consider the value of border and boundary studies in problematizing and conceptualizing recent changes in Myanmar This ambitious project combines sophisticated theorization of boundary making as a form of social practice and empirical studies of Myanmar's heterogeneous borderlands both land and sea Seeing the country from its edges opens up a provocative and altogether novel vision of the contestations joining diverse peripheries and centre This volume brings together the leading scholars of the country in a collection that is a must have for anyone interested in contemporary Myanmar border studies and Southeast Asia Itty Abraham Head Department of Southeast Asian Studies National University of Singapore NUS This is the first book to attempt to bring together such a diverse range of Myanmar's land and maritime border regions for comparison In doing so it highlights the diversity of the country's demographic social economic and political make up when viewed from the margins rather than the centre It reveals how these border regions help to constitute the nation and how they shape what modern Myanmar is today they also give strong indicators of what it might become This is an essential read for anyone in the social sciences interested in borderlands as well as those requiring a broader understanding of the challenges facing the contemporary Myanmar government as it attempts to usher in social and political cohesion following decades of conflict Mandy Sadan Reader in the History of South East Asia School of Oriental African Studies SOAS
