Policing Britain Risk Security And Governance:

Policing and the Condition of England Ian Loader, Aogán Mulcahy, 2003 Citizens it is said have lost faith in the English police Opinion polls repeatedly show that trust in and respect for the police have declined precipitously from the historically high levels achieved during the golden age of the 1950s Successive decades of rising crime political violence and urban disorder miscarriages of justice and declining effectiveness have left the police in what seems like a permanent crisis of legitimation A once revered national institution has become thoroughly profane In this major new work on the relationship between English policing and culture Ian Loader and Aogán Mulcahy reassess and revise this received sociological and popular wisdom on the fate that has befallen the English police Paying close attention to the symbolic and cultural significance of the police Loader and Mulcahy document the mix of profane and sacred sensibilities that struggle with one another to determine the contours of what they call English policing culture They draw on documentary analysis of official representations of policing and oral historical research with citizens police officers former government ministers and civil servants to show that far from being demystified policing is a cultural institution that remains deeply entangled with questions of subjectivity recognition belonging and collective identity This cultural sociology of English policing sheds new light on the social changes and conflicts that have called police authority into question in the decades since 1945 and offers an important appraisal of what is at stake in the contemporary cultural politics of policing

Global Environment of Policing Darren Palmer, Michael M. Berlin, Dilip K. Das, 2012-06-05 Police organizations across the globe are experiencing major changes Many nations cope with funding constraints as pressures within their societies terrorism and transnational crime and social and political transformations necessitate a more democratic form of policing Drawn from the proceedings at the International Police Executive Symposium in Prague and other IPES projects Global Environment of Policing is composed of case studies from more than fourteen countries and six continents Divided into four sections the book presents contributions from high level police executives practitioners and academics Policing Crime Control and the Community explores community policing in Latin America and the United States and describes the effectiveness of a zero tolerance policy in New York City It also presents a historical case study of policing in Portugal Policing Politics and Democracy examines challenges confronting developing countries policing in Brazil police accountability mechanisms in India and concerns regarding the democratization of policing Policing Global Challenges considers a range of contemporary issues within the policing environment including policing cyberspace police agencies striving for legitimacy how law enforcement policies travel worldwide and the problems of organized crime and people smuggling Police Leadership Management Education and Organization reflects on the growing issue of police reform It discusses the infusion of private sector thinking into state police organizations conflicts between police unions and management training and models for police education and police accountability in Bangladesh The final chapter draws conclusions about the research presented in the book and
