Political Appointees DIANE Publishing Company,1995-10 Provides information on the periods of service for persons appointed by the President to federal Executive Schedule positions with the advice and consent of the Senate during a recent 10 year period Addresses the issue of high turnover among these appointees Tables Bibliography Political Appointees United States Accounting Office (GAO),2018-05-12 Political Appointees Turnover Rates in Executive Schedule Positions Requiring Senate Confirmation Political Appointees United States. General Accounting Office,1994 Political Appointees U S Government Accountability Office (G,U. S. Government Accountability Office (,2013-06 Pursuant to a congressional request GAO provided information on the turnover rates of political appointees who have been appointed to Executive Schedule EX PAS positions requiring senate confirmation GAO found that 1 between 1981 and 1991 the median length of appointees service in indefinite tenured EX PAS positions was 2 1 years and the turnover rate was between 2 and 3 appointees per EX PAS position 2 the number of turnovers for any one position varied from none to as many as seven 3 cabinet department appointees had higher than average turnover rates and lower than average median lengths of service 4 some agencies required significant periods of time to fill appointed positions 5 determining the median length of service for appointees in EX PAS positions would not be meaningful because there are differences in the statutorily prescribed lengths of fixed term positions and 6 term limited appointees generally served longer in their positions than their indefinite tenured counterparts Political Appointees United States. Candreva,2024-01-01 Budgeting for national defense is a complex endeavor particularly for a nation like the U S that assumes global responsibility and strives to have the most advanced and lethal force on earth It is necessary and challenging to balance the myriad requirements between current and future readiness across warfare areas and military services between having state of the art capability with sufficient capacity and among people hardware and the activities people do with that hardware As analytically difficult as that problem is it is embedded in the political budgeting processes and national security must be balanced with every other function of government and there must also be cooperation across branches of government This text explores that complex endeavor It takes the position that budgeting for defense is a particular instance of public budgeting which is a particular instance of public policy Thus this text starts with a conceptual empirical and process foundation before discussing the participants and processes that build the annual defense budget It then covers the execution of that budget and the ultimate accounting Compared to the first edition this text is updated with current figures and examples There is a new chapter on determinants of military spending in society and burden sharing within alliances The chapter on budget execution has been disaggregated and a new chapter is devoted to fiscal law The final chapter seeks to integrate all that came before it by discussing matters that integrate the stages of budgeting and which cross branches of government Following in the tradition of the first edition this is intended to be both a textbook for a course in budgeting but also a desktop reference for defense budgeting practitioners
