Political Economy Of Manufacturing Protection:

The Political Economy of Manufacturing Protection Christopher Findlay, Ross Garnaut, 2017-10-10 Protection is a persistent feature of economic policy in developed and developing countries alike. However, it is now widely accepted that high protection holds back economic growth. Why is protection so pervasive when it is widely recognised to be against the national interest of the countries which impose it? This contradiction is the focus of this important volume, first published in 1986. Economists from the Philippines, Thailand, Malaysia, Singapore and Australia have written about their countries and draw conclusions on the causes of protection from statistical analysis and from interindustry structure. The Political Economy of Manufacturing Protection in Indonesia 1975-1995 Muhammad Chatib Basri, 2001

The Political Economy of Trade Policy Devashish Mitra, 2016-03-11 The Political Economy of Trade Policy: Theory, Evidence and Applications is a collection of sole authored and co authored papers by Devashish Mitra that have been published in various scholarly journals over the last two decades. It covers diverse topics in the political economy of trade policy, ranging from the role of modeling lobby formation in the context of trade policy determination to its applications to the question of unilateralism versus reciprocity and trade agreements. It also includes the theory and the empirics of the choice of policy instruments. Finally, the book presents the empirical investigation of the Grossman Helpman Protection for Sale model as well as the Mayer Median Voter model of trade policy determination. China's Reforms and International Political Economy David Zweig, Zhimin Chen, 2007-05-07 Written by an international team of experts from the US, UK, Hong Kong, China, Korea and Canada, this important and interesting book examines and explores the relationship between the international political and economic system and China's economic and political transition. Exploring international relations theory with a China-centric view, the book addresses key and significant questions such as: Has the outside world shaped China's position within the global polity and economic and affected the way China deals with the world economy? Have Chinese leaders and foreign policy makers internalized the norms and values of the global economic activity? Who are the key players in China in this process of globalization? Giving vital insights into China's likely development and international influence in the next decade, China's Reforms and International Political Economy is an essential and invaluable read.

Indonesia's Industrial Transformation Hal Hill, 1997 Indonesia, the world's fourth most populous nation, has experienced a remarkable economic transformation over the past 30 years. In the mid 1960s it was one of the poorest countries in the developing world, but by the 1990s it had joined the group of Asian tiger economies. This set of essays examines the record of industrialization which has been central to Indonesia's rapid development. Successive sections provide an overview of the industrialization process, case studies of selected industries, the contribution of foreign investment and technological development, the role of small/medium industry and a range of industrial policy issues. Drawing on the country's much improved statistical base, this empirically oriented volume highlights both the achievements of the New Order regime and the many challenges which lie ahead. The Political Economy of U.S. Tariffs Réal P. Lavergne, 2014-05-12 The Political Economy of U S Tariffs An Empirical Analysis provides information pertinent to the political economy of trade barriers This book discusses the cross sectional regression analysis across industries to understand why some industries have been more privileged than others Organized into seven chapters this book begins with an overview of the structure of protection and identifies the primary actors or principles that condition the formation of trade policy more generally This text then evaluates the institutional and theoretical reasons why political leverage should not be expected to play a significant role in explaining tariffs Other chapters consider the notion that the structure of protection at any point in time represents some sort of equilibrium This book discusses as well the distinction between nominal and effective tariffs The final chapter deals with individual regressors and groups of regressors This book is a valuable resource for economists and specialists in quantitative analysis Pacific Basin Developing Countries Marcus Noland, 1990 Discusses eight economies located in the Pacific Basin Hong Kong Singapore Taiwan Korea Malaysia Thailand the Philippines and Indonesia Import Propensities of Industrialized Countries J. Lutz, 2016-04-30 This volume analyzes the import patterns of selected countries to determine which nations are active importers and which ones import much less than expected The majority of the work focuses on the industrialized countries which are at the center of the international trading system determining which are very active importers and which are not Controls for wealth size and membership in customs areas are included Countries importing at levels below predicted ones are the countries likely to be most effective at protecting domestic industries from foreign competition For example the results permit an evaluation of the arguments that Japan has consistently imported less than would be expected due to the presence of barriers protecting the domestic market Measuring Employment Effects in the Regulatory Process United States. National Commission for Employment Policy, 1993 Special Report , 1993
