Nature and Nation Jeyamalar Kathirithamby-Wells,2005-10-31 Nature and Nation explores the relations between people and forests in Peninsular Malaysia where the planet s richest terrestrial eco system met head on with the fastest pace of economic transformation experienced in the tropical world It engages the interplay of history culture science economics and politics to provide a holistic interpretation of the continuing relevance of forests to state and society in the moist tropics

Malaysia has long been singled out for emulation by developing nations an accolade contradicted in recent years by concerns over its capital rather than poverty driven forest depletion The Malaysian case supports the call for re appraisal of entrenched prescriptions for development that go beyond material needs Book cover Waves Across the South Sujit Sivasundaram, 2021-05-07 This is a story of tides and coastlines winds and waves islands and beaches It is also a retelling of indigenous creativity agency and resistance in the face of unprecedented globalization and violence Waves Across the South shifts the narrative of the Age of Revolutions and the origins of the British Empire it foregrounds a vast southern zone that ranges from the Arabian Sea and southwest Indian Ocean across to the Bay of Bengal and onward to the South Pacific and the Tasman Sea As the empires of the Dutch French and especially the British reached across these regions they faced a surge of revolutionary sentiment Long standing venerable Eurasian empires established patterns of trade and commerce and indigenous practice also served as a context for this transformative era In addition to bringing long ignored people and events to the fore Sujit Sivasundaram opens the door to new and necessary conversations about environmental history the consequences of historical violence the legacies of empire the extraction of resources and the indigenous futures that Western imperialism cut short The result is nothing less than a bold new way of understanding our global past one that also helps us think afresh about our shared future Singapore River Stephen Dobbs, 2013-11-11 For most of its modern history to speak of Singapore was to speak of the Singapore River physical centre of the city and site of the greater part of the colony s entrepot trade The river has been transformed over the last 25 years from a polluted industrial sewer choked with traffic to a clean placid waterway that forms the centrepiece of Singapore s financial civic and entertainment districts This transformation symbolizes the city state s efforts to remake itself for the 21st century Stephen Dobbs sets out the history of this waterway and of the people who made it their home and workplace He describes the tidal swamp in the early days of the British settlement where merchants ignored Raffles much vaunted city plan and built their businesses on the limited high ground along the marshy riverbanks Later even as the long distance shipping moved to new port facilities elsewhere on the island the river remained the base for a large regional trade and boatmen and businessmen struggled to cope with silting over crowding and bridges that were too low to be passed at high tide Looking at the post war years Dobbs zeros in on the boatmen who carried goods between the godownse or warehouses along the river and the freighters lying at anchor in the roads Despite its pollution the river remained home to a vital community of coolies and tally clerks and the tumultuous urban life that swirled around them Today the waterfront community has been relocated The shophouses and warehouses along the river are now chic cafes and upmarket restaurants fish have returned to the Singapore River and urban dwellers stroll on walks along the river s edge Blending social history geography economic history and urban studies this book will be of interest to anyone wishing to understand Singapore s many transformations during the past two centuries Dictionary Of British And Irish Botantists And Horticulturalists Including plant collectors, flower painters and garden designers Ray Desmond, 2020-12-23 Over the past four centuries botanists and gardeners in the British Isles have gathered maintained and propagated many varying species of plants Their work has been documented in innumerable books and articles which are often difficult to trace The Dictionary of British and Irish Botanists and Horticulturalists represents a time saving reference source for those who wish to discover more about the lives and achievements of the horticulturalists listed The dictionary s utility comes not only from indicating the major publications of the named authors but also the location of their herbaria and manuscripts The previous 1977 edition of the Dictionary has for many years been a much used source of information for botanists botanic artists and archivists In this revised edition the scope has been expanded to include among its 13 000 entries flower painters in addition to botanical artists over 1400 entries and for the first time garden designers Finally the Dictionary should have international appeal since so many botanists and gardeners worked on collective plants overseas in particular in North America and the British Commonwealth Each entry gives wherever possible details of dates and places of birth and death educational qualifications professional posts honours and awards publications location of plant collections manuscripts drawings and portraits Its main function however is to provide further biographical references to books and periodicals Comprehensive classified indices facilitate access by professions and activities countries and plant interests

The First Contest for Singapore 1819-1824 Harry J. Marks, 2014-10-22 Of Merchants and Missions Andrew Peh, 2019-11-15 It has often been held that missions rode on the coattails of colonialism In the case of the British administered island of Singapore the pluriform missions of the Methodist missionaries demonstrated industry innovation and integrity which in many ways question the charge of compromise and complicity between missions and colonialism This historical survey presents the case that the Methodist missionaries collaborated with the colonial administration insofar where benefits might be gleaned from cooperation but were intuitively commandeered by a different commander in chief and whose primary motivation of love for the Lord for the people and for the land were objectively evident

The first contest for Singapore, 1819-1824 Joe Marks, 2014-11-14 Asianism and the Politics of Regional Consciousness in Singapore Leong Yew, 2013-11-20 Over the last two decades Singapore has undergone a substantial degree of Asianization Apart from participating in the Asian values debate of the 1990s re visioning itself as New Asia and a global Asian hub and establishing Asian identities for the commodities it consumes and produces Singapore has also repurposed its modernity cultures and ethos along similar regionalist precepts However even in recent times Singapore continues to vacillate ambivalently between identifying with and differentiating itself from Asia Responding to the challenges Singapore faces in coming to terms with its Asian identity this book examines the complex cultural social and political underpinnings that have shaped Singapore s mainstream discourse on Asia Indeed it argues that its legacy as a colonial port city the exigencies of managing the post independence nation state and the larger forces of imperialism and capitalism all contribute to its politics of Asianism Taking a thoroughly interdisciplinary approach that spans history cultural studies postcolonialism and cultural geography Leong Yew reveals how Asia has been used to narrate Singapore's beginnings revalidate Singaporean ethnic culture and to consolidate its practices of consumption and commodification This book will be welcomed by students and scholars working across a range of fields including Asian culture and society Asian politics cultural theory and postcolonial studies
