Skalsky,2014-12-24 Children with disabilities represent a unique population within pediatrics Pediatric rehabilitation focuses on maximizing the function and enhancing the lives of children with a wide range of conditions such as cerebral palsy spina bifida stroke brain injury genetic abnormalities and other developmental disabilities Psycho-Legal Concepts for Parenting in Child Custody and Child Protection Vol. 3 Don Tustin,2024-12-02 This book identifies a number of topics that arise in child protection where assessments of individual families are required The author opines that it is essential to use structured instruments when making assessments on complex topic about risk to reduce bias and to maximise objectivity The author summarises criteria that are required for an assessment instrument to be viewed by scientists as being objective The book proposes that introducing more objective assessment instruments into the field of child protection will improve the focus and brevity of assessment reports and enable setting of thresholds that distinguish between families who provide good enough parenting from families who should be referred for parenting education and from parents who are unfit parents The author identifies a number of topics that commonly arise in cases where maltreatment of children is alleged reviews literature and proposes checklists that can be used to gather data and to form a basis for developing validated assessment instruments for use in child protection The topics identified are relevant both to therapists as parenting practices can be changed using focused therapy and for legal assessment purposes as topics have been shown to be related to legal concerns about the safety and welfare of children The overall aim of this book is to encourage greater use of scientific assessment approaches in the field of child protection Practices of Child Rearing Mr. Rohit Manglik,2023-03-23 Analyses traditional and modern child rearing methods Psychological and Behavioral Aspects of Physical Disability James E. Lindemann,2012-12-06 A relationship between the disciplines of psychology and medicine is evident in writings from the beginnings of recorded history This inter action was characterized in some epochs by mutual interest and support only to be followed by periods of relative disinterest During the past century there have been several formal attempts to acknowledge this interdependence and to revive and codify on a more permanent basis the working relationships between practitioners and scientists from both psychology and medicine These twentieth century waves of interest which have also come and gone have been identified by such names as psychosomatic medicine and rehabilitation psychology For a variety of reasons notably the lack of a sufficient knowledge base in either discipline the desired partnership has not come to full flower This state of affairs seems to be changing as we enter the last two decades of the twentieth century In the American Psychologist in September 1980 I reviewed recent developments in psychology and in medicine and in federal and private funding patterns which give evidence of revitalizing this partnership between these two disciplines and their relevant subspecialties For example after six decades of spectacular biomedical scientific advances which have all but eradicated such life threatening diseases as polio myelitis and tuberculosis leaders in medicine the behavioral sciences and other segments of society reached a consensus during the 1970s that the behavior of the individual is one of today's unexplored frontiers for modern medical

Psychological Aspects of Physical Disability James F.

Garrett,1952 As workers in the field of rehabilitation we are realizing more and more that we do not rehabilitate people Rather we must be able to reach the heart and mind of the individual with whom we are dealing so he will want to avail himself of the services our program can provide for him His drive to accomplish his own rehabilitation must come from within himself and we must be sensitive too in the factors that can help or hinder establishing this indispensable primary base for rehabilitation Increasingly we are learning that human motivation is influenced by many things Especially important are the psychological and social factors of an individual s life These factors are important to consider early in our planning for the whole program of rehabilitation for the individual and in the evaluation of each step of its development This bulletin was written primarily for vocational rehabilitation counselors It is expected that it will assist them in planning better rehabilitation programs The need for awareness of the psychological adjustment mechanisms of the physically disabled is not confined to the counselor however and it is hoped that physicians social workers psychologists and placement specialists may profit from the contents of this publication The cooperation and coordination of the various specialties is the most important element today in providing rehabilitation services for the disabled whereby they may take their rightful place as contributing members of society The interest and cooperation of the authors and the organizations many of them represent is a practical demonstration of the vital nature of the material presented herein We are aware of the fact that successful rehabilitation programs depend on integrated community activity and in a sense this bulletin epitomizes that approach Foreword

Parenting is Child's Play: The Teenage Years David Coleman,2010-01-07 The popular RT series Teens in the Wild showed David Coleman doing what he does best taking families who were locked in conflict and turning things around It wasn't always easy but the results were dramatic moving and inspiring The key to a successful journey through adolescence centres on the recognition that parenting styles have to develop and progress through this period In Parenting is Child's Play The Teenage Years David Coleman explains why adolescence gets such a bad press and reassuringly why parents don't have to dread it Even if affection respect and cooperation seem to be replaced by contempt rejection and recalcitrance there is an explanation for these changes and they don't have to cause irreparable damage Parenting is Child's Play The Teenage Years provides key information about what is going on with your child and is brimming with helpful advice and down to earth strategies For parents supporting their children on one of the most important journeys they'll ever undertake the journey from childhood to adulthood it is essential reading
