Handbook of Research on Resident and Tourist Perspectives on Travel Destinations Pinto, Patrícia, Guerreiro, Manuela, 2020-06-19 Tourism is an economic and social phenomenon that is centered on a tourist's experience and is dependent on the experiences that are co-created and provided to tourists. Tourism destination managers must understand what tourists perceive as engaging, intense and memorable in order to remain successful. However, care must also be given to the residents' perception of local tourism development and how it impacts their community. This is a fundamental aspect for tourism development since host communities that support tourism development tend to be more hospitable with tourists, which influences their satisfaction and loyalty. Moreover, the interaction with residents of host communities is a crucial component of the quality of the tourist experience contributing to the long-term success and sustainability of destinations. The Handbook of Research on Resident and Tourist Perspectives on Travel Destinations is a collection of innovative research that examines travel destinations from the resident and tourist perspectives in order to better support and inform the tourism development process and to make the destinations attractive to visitors while at the same time contributing to resident quality of life and happiness. While highlighting topics including sustainable development, hotel management and customer satisfaction, this book is ideally designed for government officials, tour developers, travel agencies, brand managers, advertising agencies, restaurateurs, public administrators, hotel managers, tourist industry professionals, academicians, researchers and students. Route 101 Construction (PM 30.8136.1, Forsythe Creek), Mendocino County, 1982 OCS (Outer Continental Shelf) Oil and Gas Leasing Program, Proposed 5-year Plan, Mid-1987 to Mid-1992, 1987 Urban Regeneration & Sustainability C.A. Brebbia, A. Galiano-Garrigos, 2016-12-28 Including papers presented at the 11th International Conference on Urban Regeneration and Sustainability held in Alicante, Spain, this book addresses the multidisciplinary aspects of urban planning as a result of the increasing size of cities, the amount of resources and services required and the complexity of modern society. Most of the earth's population live in cities and the process of urbanisation continues generating problems originating from the drift of the population towards them. These problems can be resolved by cities becoming efficient habitats, saving resources in a way that improves the standard of living. The process faces a number of challenges related to reducing pollution, improving main transportation and infrastructure systems and these challenges can contribute to the development of social and economic imbalances and require the development of new solutions. Large cities are probably the most complex mechanisms to manage; nevertheless, they represent a productive ground for architects, engineers, city planners, social and political scientists able to conceive new ideas and time them according to technological advances and human requirements The papers in this book cover such topics as Appropriate technologies for smart cities Architectural issues Case studies sustainable practices Cultural quarters and interventions Disaster and emergency response Eco town planning Environmental management Landscape planning and design Planning for resilience Quality of life Socio economic and political considerations Pedestrians behaviour in different situation of traffic modelling and safety Sustainable urban regeneration and public space City and beach Sustainability and the built environment Sustainable energy and the city The community and the city Transportation Urban conservation and regeneration Urban development and management Urban infrastructure Urban metabolism Urban planning and design Urban safety and security Urban strategies Waterfront development
