Resilience For Today Gaining Strength From Adversity:

Resilience for Today Edith H. Grotberg, 2003-10-30 The increased bombardment of information on the world's dangers from imminent disasters to terror and wars reported in the media make us particularly vulnerable to stress and feelings of helplessness. This volume is unique in describing how to promote resilience in different groups under different circumstances and dealing with different adversities. Resilience is the human capacity to deal with stress, adversities, and threats and somehow emerge stronger. Today the increased bombardment of information on the world's dangers from imminent disasters to terror and wars reported in the media make us particularly vulnerable to stress and feelings of helplessness. This volume is unique in describing how to promote resilience in different groups under different circumstances and dealing with different adversities. The contributors, psychologists, medical doctors, teachers, and physical therapists among them, show how we can learn to draw on supports, build inner strength, and acquire interpersonal and problem-solving skills to deal with adversity. This volume will be useful for parents, service providers, researchers, policymakers, curriculum writers, and program developers. Research findings are applied to actions and policies so that the knowledge can be used in everyday life. Topics addressed include a basic understanding of resilience, resilience in families, the role of schools in resilience, and resilience for those needing health care. The text includes a discussion of the concern that too many children are protected from adversity, are unprepared to face future stressors, and become overly dependent upon others. Resilience for Today Edith

Henderson Grotberg, 2003 Resilience is the human capacity to deal with stress and adversity and emerge stronger for the experience. This volume contains ten contributions from members of the helping professions: e.g., psychologists, doctors, teachers dealing with the fostering of resilience, particularly in children and youth. Applications of Social Network Analysis for Building Community Disaster Resilience National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Earth Sciences and Resources, 2009-07-23 Social Network Analysis (SNA) is the identification of the relationships and attributes of members, key actors, and groups that social networks comprise. The National Research Council, at the request of the Department of Homeland Security, held a two-day workshop on the use of SNA for the purpose of building community disaster resilience. The workshop summarized in this volume was designed to provide guidance to the DHS on a potential research agenda that would increase the effectiveness of SNA for improving community disaster resilience. The workshop explored the state of the art in SNA and its applications in the identification, construction, and strengthening of networks within U.S. communities. Workshop participants discussed current work in SNA, focused on characterizing networks, the theories, principles, and research applicable to the design or strengthening of networks, the gaps in knowledge that prevent the application of SNA to the construction of networks, and research areas that could fill those gaps. Elements of a research agenda to support the design, development, and implementation of social networks for the specific purpose of strengthening community resilience against natural and human-made disasters were discussed. Developing Resilience Michael

Thinking to Transform

Jillian M. Volpe White, Kathy L. Guthrie, Maritza Torres, 2019-12-01

In an era of constant connection, it can be challenging to prioritize time for reflection. Taking time to think can feel like a luxury or even a waste of time. People facilitating complex leadership processes may feel the least able to pause and reflect. However, it is through intentional reflection that we make meaning of experiences, connect ideas, question assumptions, and generate innovative possibilities. By taking time to reflect individually and with others, learners can see the full picture of an experience, understand their thought processes, and enhance their capacity for leadership. Beyond individual reflection, by engaging in reflection on social issues with others, leaders can be empowered and enabled to create positive changes. This book is a clarion call for educators and learners to make reflection a central priority. Reflection, the process of making meaning of experience and leadership a relational process for affecting change, are enhanced by one another. Together, they strengthen the potential for leadership learning through experience. This book addresses challenges for reflection in leadership learning while also connecting it to timely topics. It begins with connections between reflection and leadership and then introduces a framework for reflection in leadership learning. Reflection is a powerful strategy for curricular and co-curricular learning for instruction and assessment. Reflection in leadership learning can benefit from both intentional framing and feedback. As socially constructed concepts, both reflection and leadership have historically lacked clarity to add to the confusion. Critical reflection is often interchanged with reflection. This book introduces a continuum of critical reflection in leadership learning. In order to facilitate reflection in leadership learning, educators must engage in the inner work of becoming reflective educators. Finally, in the face of complex social challenges, reflection, leadership, mindfulness, and resilience are juxtaposed in order to highlight how these concepts are reliant upon one another. Reflection in leadership learning is essential for anyone who wants to develop their capacity for leadership. When faced with complex social issues and challenges at a global scale, the only way to make progress is through collective action that results from critical reflection. To develop more resilient and mindful learners who can adapt to changing circumstances, educators must center reflection in leadership learning as a philosophy, pedagogy, outcome, and strategy. This book provides a balance of theory and practice to empower and enable educators to engage in reflective leadership learning.

Havens Leonard Jason,Martin Perdoux,2004-06-30 For good reasons Americans are growing concerned about the cost of health care and housing There are many reasons why people need care the addiction of a teenage child or spouse an elderly relative in need of nursing home care a psychological disorder or a chronic medical condition but even moderately successful institutional solutions for these problems are often too costly to be truly helpful The cost of healthcare is so high it can result in homelessness Leonard Jason and Martin Perdoux show us a relatively low cost and effective solution growing in neighborhoods across the country true community People are moving in together to meet each other s needs and in the process create a much higher quality of life than they would find in an institution People living together in these healing communities include the elderly recovering alcoholics and drug addicts and people suffering from mental illness Chronic Fatigue Syndrome AIDS or Multiple Chemical Sensitivity These communities offer them a way to recover the caring structure direction and respect that a strong family can provide The authors of this work show us how communities created out of necessity by their members constitute a more sustained natural means to healing In his foreword Thomas Moore points out that the communities described in this book are not only physical homes but also shelters for the soul places to find the deepest kind of security Here you will see concrete ways imaginative leaders help those in trouble find themselves rather than become dependent on institutions It is a new and promising imagination of how social healing works not by setting up more programs but by treating people in trouble as human beings with certain emotional and social needs This book teaches how to re imagine this whole process and now in an increasingly technical and lonely world we need this precious wisdom more than ever Making Enemies Evelin Lindner, 2006-06-30 When the statue of Saddam Hussein fell and Iraqis danced on the body hitting it with their shoes there was joy Moments later when an American soldier climbed the statue to place an American flag on the face there was a national gasp a moment of humiliation for the Iraqis Americans had claimed to be liberating them but the placing of the American flag was a sign of conquest The flag was quickly removed and replaced with an Iraqi flag but those tense moments were a brief example of the power and potentially far reaching volatile effects of humiliating acts even when unintentional In this fascinating work Dr Lindner examines and explains across history and nations how this little understood often overlooked emotion sparks outrage uprisings conflict and war With the insights of a seasoned psychologist and peace scholar the analytical skill of a linguist who speaks seven languages and the scholarship of a Columbia University professor Lindner explains which words and actions can humiliate how the victim perceives those words and actions what the consequences have been and how individuals and organizations can work to avoid instances in the future From acts of humiliation in Nazi Germany to intentional humiliations such as those at Abu Graib from events during the bloodbaths in Rwanda and Somalia to precursors to the attacks on the Twin Towers in New York Lindner offers vivid examples to explain how humiliation can be at the core of international conflict Terror in the Holy Land Judy Kuriansky, 2006-10-30 Israelis and Palestinians have been caught in what seems a forever war with routine terror in the promised land for more than 100 years This book is the first to bring together commentary and anguished personal insights from people on both sides of the battle Readers get a personal look at and a clearer more nuanced understanding of the psychological trauma that is common for men women and children there Psychologists in the regions as well as scholars from across disciplines tell their personal stories interwoven with academic reflections on important issues fueling the conflict such as humiliation revenge hate and the need for a homeland and identity Readers are brought face to face with controversial issues like the psychological impact of Israel's Separation Wall and unique perspectives including the stories of eight Palestinian female martyrs the insights of a young student helping to save blasted bodies after the bombing of a bus the compassion of a Jewish doctor treating suicide bombers the thinking of a Jihadist woman raised to hate Jews but now working for peace with Israelis and a doctor bringing together Palestinians and Israelis using meditation to find peace
