Restoration Discovering Britains Hidden Architectural Treasures:

Architectural Restoration and Heritage in Imperial Rome Christopher Siwicki, 2020 Challenging the idea that heritage is a purely modern phenomenon this volume addresses how historic buildings were treated in Imperial Rome examining the way in which the ancients restored the monuments they inherited from earlier generations and developing our understanding of the Roman concept of built heritage The Conservation Movement: A History of Architectural Preservation Miles Glendinning, 2013-01-17 Winner of the 2016 Antoinette Forrester Downing Award presented by the Society of Architectural Historians In many cities across the world particularly in Europe old buildings form a prominent part of the built environment and we often take it for granted that their contribution is intrinsically positive How has that widely shared belief come about and is its continued general acceptance inevitable Certainly ancient structures have long been treated with care and reverence in many societies including classical Rome and Greece But only in modern Europe and America in the last two centuries has this care been elaborated and energised into a forceful dynamic ideology a Conservation Movement infused with a sense of historical destiny and loss that paradoxically shared many of the characteristics of Enlightenment modernity The close inter relationship between conservation and modern civilisation was most dramatically heightened in periods of war or social upheaval beginning with the French Revolution and rising to a tragic climax in the 20th century age of totalitarian extremism more recently the troubled relationship of heritage and global commercialism has become dominant Miles Glendinning s new book authoritatively presents for the first time the entire history of this architectural Conservation Movement and traces its dramatic fluctuations in ideas and popularity ending by questioning whether its recent international ascendancy can last indefinitely Scotland's Castles Janet Brennan-Inglis, 2014-07-07 Scotland s Castles is a beautifully illustrated celebration and account of the renaissance of Scottish castles that has taken place since 1950 Over 100 ruined and derelict buildings from tiny towers to rambling baronial mansions have been restored as homes hotels and holiday lets These restorations have mainly been carried out by new owners without any connections to the land or the family history of the buildings which they bought as ruins Their struggles and triumphs including interviews and first person accounts form the core of the book set in the context of the enormous social political and economic changes of the late twentieth century Rescue and Reuse Ian Morrison, Merlin Waterson, 2019-07-15 Historic buildings and places play an essential role in the everyday lives of the people of the UK their cultural identity and the economy They can inspire creativity and enterprise bring communities together and make people happier about where they live This book explores how historic buildings across the UK have been brought back to life through the technical and enabling skills creativity and sensitivity of architects Exemplar projects explored through richly illustrated case studies demonstrate the value to society of re using historic buildings and will inspire a new generation of architects to get involved with community heritage projects at a time of great opportunity Drawing on interviews with architects and their community clients this book explores the challenges that they face how they are overcome and the benefits that follow Conservation and Sustainability in Historic Cities Dennis Rodwell, 2008-04-15 Conservation and Sustainability in Historic Cities examines how the two key issues of urban conservation and sustainability relate to each other in the context of historic cities and how they can be brought together in a common philosophy and practice that is mutually supportive It sets out the theoretical and practical background to architectural conservation and how its perceived relevance and level of attainment can be extended when harnessed to wider agendas of sustainability and cultural identity It tests the achievement of urban conservation through examples from across Europe and further afield and relates them to the sustainability agenda A Passion for Castles Janet Brennan-Inglis, 2022-10-06 In the 1880s two Edinburgh architects began to survey measure and sketch the castles of Scotland travelling the length and breadth of the country on trains bicycles and on foot Together they produced the five magnificent volumes of The Castellated and Domestic Architecture of Scotland an unrivalled work of research that surveys more than 700 of Scotland's castellated buildings ranging from great medieval fortresses to small lairds houses with pepper pot turrets and is illustrated with thousands of sketches and plans The first part of A Passion for Castles tells the life stories of David MacGibbon and Thomas Ross and their work as Edinburgh architects before they embarked on their magisterial survey revealing interesting and previously unknown details about the two men The second part of the book sets their enormously ambitious castles project in its historical context and describes how MacGibbon and Ross managed to achieve their pioneering systematic and comprehensive survey The final part of the book provides a regional overview of the current status of all the castles surveyed by MacGibbon and Ross followed by a thematic exploration of those that have been lost those that have been transformed and those at risk of collapse before posing questions about what the future holds for the castles of Scotland Architectural Publications Index, 2003

Europe's Deadly Century Neil Forbes, Robin Page, Guillermo Pérez, 2009 In the course of Europe's twentieth century freedoms were won at the cost of terrible sacrifice The physical remains of war conflict and ideological struggle lie everywhere around us The question of what to do with this common past in which we all share an interest lies at the centre of this important book From a variety of professional backgrounds the contributors consider a wide range of conflict heritage sites in the context of international and national histories and regional and local historical narratives Questions of who owns the past the ambiguities over how people identify with the local community or nation state and whether or how to make moral judgements are central The book illustrates the challenges of documenting and describing what are often extensive contested and sometimes enigmatic and ambiguous buildings and monuments The priorities of conservation and how we ensure that documents artefacts sites and buildings can be given adequate and appropriate protection and care are also addressed This book will be of interest to a wide range of professional practitioners academics and policy makers as well as the general reader and will open the way to a deeper understanding of the significance of Europe's conflict heritage The
