Restructuring Societies Insights From The Social Sciences:

Restructuring Societies David B. Knight, Alun E. Joseph, 1999-04-23 A wide range of social scientific perspectives from anthropology geography history and Indigenous studies to politics psychology and sociology are represented here The effects of restructuring processes in Canada and New Zealand are particularly well documented and the importance of words and their manipulation is emphasized but it is the broad sweep of approach that distinguishes this work from more abstract or interdisciplinary commentaries on restructuring Feature essays one by former Ontario premier Bob Rae on conservative and radical resistance to abuses of power and two on aboriginal First Nations issues challenge important public policy trends Restructuring Societies takes crucial steps toward developing informed public debate about a process that affects us all

Landscapes of Voluntarism Christine Milligan, David Conradson, 2011 The appeal of voluntary action as a solution to growing welfare needs in advanced capitalist countries raises important questions about the social impacts and spatial equity of such provision For the first time these issues are addressed within a single book exploring the complex relationship between voluntary action society and space Geopolitics at the End of the Twentieth Century Nurit Kliot, David Newman, 2013-11-05 An excellent examination of how the collapse of the Soviet Union and the impact of globalization have brought about changes not only to the territorial configuration sovereignty of states and their boundaries but also to traditional notions of state boundaries sovereignty and social order These essays focus on the key regional and geopolitical characteristics of this global reordering with an emphasis on Eastern Europe and South Asia They discuss the territorial reordering which is taking place at the level of the state as boundaries are redemarcated in line with ethno territorial demands as borders are transversed by the movement of peoples information and finance and as the lines of territorial demarcation are perceived not only in terms of their fixed characteristics but as part of a process through which regional and ethnic identities continue to be formed and reformed Each section ends with articles which focus on literature on geopolitics and boundaries This is an invaluable addition to our understanding of contemporary world affairs The SAGE Handbook of Qualitative Research Norman K. Bowler,C.R. Bryant,C. Cocklin,2013-06-29 Economy society and environment comprise the three main dimensions of sustainable development but too often they are considered separately This book by comparison examines the interaction of the three dimensions in the context of rural systems embracing a wide range of topics including globalisation and reregulation in sustainable food production conservation and sustainability the development of sustainable rural communities and sustainable rural urban interaction An international team of geographers drawn from the International Geographical Union s Commission on The Sustainability of Rural Systems summarises the basis of unsustainable rural development in these topics the remedial policies being pursued and their own evaluations of the policies Rather than deal just with generalisations their analyses are illustrated by detailed case studies drawn from a variety of rural systems in both developed and developing countries Contingent Work, Disrupted Lives Belinda Leach,Anthony Winson,2002-11-23 Contingent Work Disrupted Lives examines the repercussions of economic globalization on several manufacturing dependent rural communities in Canada Foregrounding a distinct interest in the grassroots effects of such contemporary corporate strategies as plant closures and downsizing authors Anthony Winson and Belinda Leach consider the impact of this restructuring on the residents of various communities The authors argue that the new rural economy involves a fundamental shift in the stability and security of people s lives and ultimately it causes wrenching change and an arduous struggle as rural dweller's struggle to rebuild their lives in the new economic terrain. Beginning with broader theoretical and empirical literature on global changes in the economy and the effects of these changes on labour, the text then focuses exploration on manufacturing in Ontario with an analysis of five community case studies. Winson and Leach give considerable attention to the testimony of numerous residents they report on in depth interviews with key respondents and blue collar workers in five separate communities ranging from diverse manufacturing towns to single industry settlements. The result is an intimate contextual knowledge of the workers' lives and their attempts to adapt to the tumultuous economic terrain of 1990s rural Canada. Winner of the John Porter Prize for 2003 awarded by the Canadian Sociology and Anthropology Association.

Decolonizing Methodologies Linda Tuhiwai Smith, 2016-03-15 A landmark in the process of decolonizing imperial Western knowledge. Walter D. Mignolo, Duke University. To the colonized, the term research is conflated with European colonialism; the ways in which academic research has been implicated in the throes of imperialism remains a painful memory. This essential volume explores intersections of imperialism and research, specifically the ways in which imperialism is embedded in disciplines of knowledge and tradition as regimes of truth. Concepts such as discovery and claiming are discussed, and an argument presented that the decolonization of research methods will help to reclaim control over indigenous ways of knowing and being. Now in its eagerly awaited second edition, this bestselling book has been substantially revised with new case studies and examples and important additions on new indigenous literature, the role of research in indigenous struggles for social justice, which brings this essential volume urgently up to date. Dregs Laura McLauchlan, 2025-03-27 Girls who join dog packs, boys who gain strength from trees, men who love bodies with nobody in them. Dregs is a collection of tenderly monstrous love stories set in a shadowy small town of the same name. Based in South Canterbury, New Zealand, these lovingly disturbing fictions welcome the strange and otherworldly while keeping an ethnographic eye trained on the classed, religious, gendered, racialised, and species-based forces shaping this rural region of New Zealand's South Island. While at times grotesque, these darkly loving, richly illustrated tales offer new avenues for ethnographic research and shed new light on the region, giving voice and form to unspoken aspects of this antipodean rural idyll. Shaped by a deep respect for the monstrous feminine regardless of the gender of the bodies in which such forces appear, Dregs: Love and Monsters in Small Town New Zealand is a product of both an anthropological sensibility and a trust that naming and finding ways to live well with our monsters is a vital aspect of living well in our times. Decolonizing

Methodologies Professor Linda Tuhiwai Smith, 2021-04-08 With Decolonizing Methodologies, Linda Tuhiwai Smith made us rethink the relationship between scholarly research and the legacies of colonialism and to confront the reality that for the colonized, such research was often inextricably bound up with memories of exploitation. Offering a visionary new decolonizing approach to research methodology, her book has continued to inspire generations of decolonial and indigenous scholars. This revised and expanded new edition demonstrates the continued importance of Tuhiwai Smith's work to today's struggles.

including the growing movement to decolonize education and the university curriculum It also features contributions from both new and established indigenous scholars on what a decolonizing approach means for both the present and future of academic research and provides practical examples of how decolonial and indigenous methodologies have been fruitfully applied to recent research projects Decolonizing Methodologies remains a definitive work in the ongoing struggle to reclaim indigenous ways of knowing and being
