Regionalisation and Global Governance Andrew F. Cooper, Christopher W. Hughes, Philippe De Lombaerde, 2007-12-21 This book explores the relationship between regionalization and global governance surveying the theoretical debates economic dimensions security considerations and governing structures Positivist and Political-Economic Theories of International Relations Amartya Mukhopadhyay, 2023-10-20 This book provides an introduction to positivist pluralist theories of international relations IR which emerged during the early and mid 1950s along with Marxist political economic and non Marxist economic theories of IR Positivist and Political Economic Theories of International Relations is an in depth critical study of texts and literature which highlight IR's methodological pluralism even after it gained maturity It examines how pluralist political status quo and radical economic criticism coexist in discrete areas of the discipline Insights are provided into key positivist liberal pluralist theories namely decision making approaches and theories of integration regionalism interdependence and regime It discusses the four political economic and critical theories of Marxism dependency world systems and international political economy The book as an advanced supplementary reader will be of great interest to researchers and students of international relations history law and the multidisciplinary social scientific field of political economy The Rise of International Capital Faris Al-Fadhat, 2019-01-09 This book analyzes the social forces and political coalitions driving regional integration projects in Asia with a focus on ASEAN and Indonesian conglomerates It asks which social forces within the domestic political economy of Asian states are driving governments to seek regional arrangements for economic governance In particular the book asks how the emergence reorganization and expansion of capitalist class have conditioned political support for regional economic integration By addressing these issues the book emphasizes that the wellspring of regional economic institution projects stem from the process of capitalist development and the social forces it has unleashed The book's aims place the social and class relations that underpin regional projects rather than the institutions which result from them at the centre of the analysis of regional integration The research for this account draws primarily on primary documents from archival and field research conducted by the author including company documents and in depth interviews government reports and policies and trade publications and data sources which is supplemented with secondary sources where relevant International Relations Theory and Regional Transformation T. V. Paul, 2012-02-23 Regional transformation has emerged as a major topic of research during the past few decades much of it seeking to understand how a region changes into a zone of conflict or cooperation and how and why some regions remain in perpetual conflict Although the leading theoretical paradigms of international relations have something to say about regional order a comprehensive treatment of this subject is missing from the literature This book suggests that cross paradigmatic engagement on regional orders can be valuable if it can generate theoretically innovative testable propositions and policy relevant ideas The book brings together scholars from the dominant IR perspectives aiming to explain the regional order issue through multidimensional and multi causal pathways and seeking meeting points between them Using insights from IR theory the contributors offer policy relevant ideas which may benefit conflict ridden regions of the world

The Rise of Post-Hegemonic Regionalism Pía Riggirozzi,Diana Tussie,2012-01-06 This book offers a timely analysis and a novel and nuanced argument about post neoliberal models of regional governance in non European contexts It provides the first in depth empirically driven analysis of current models of regional governance in Latin America that emerged out of the crisis of liberalism in the region It contributes to comparative studies of the contemporary global political economy as it advances current literature on the topic by analysing distinctive overlapping and conflicting trajectories of regionalism in Latin America The book critically explores models of transformative regionalism and specific dimensions articulating those models beyond neoliberal consensus building As such it contests the overstated case of integration as converging towards global capitalism It provides an analytical framework that not only examines the what how who and why in the emergence of a specific form of regionalism but sets the ground for addressing two relevant questions that will push the study of regionalism further What factors enable or constrain how transformative a given regionalism is or can be with respect to the powers and policies of states encompassed by it and What factors govern how resilient a given regionalism is likely to be under changing political and economic conditions

Advancing East Asian Regionalism Melissa Curley,Nicholas Thomas,2012-10-12 Developments in East Asia have progressed rapidly in terms of regionalism since the 1997 crisis The end of the Asian miracle called into question not only the capacity of regional states to meet the needs of their attendant peoples but also challenged the viability of regional organizations such as ASEAN to adapt and respond to the changing circumstances Advancing East Asian Regionalism looks at the ways in which ASEAN has expanded since the crisis and evaluates the potential of East Asia to come together in a regional formation one capable of representing the region as a whole akin to the European Community It draws upon the knowledge and perspectives of academics and policy makers actively engaged in the contradictory issues of regionalism Coupling case study material on regionalism institutions and sectoral cooperation with theoretical debates on regionalization this book is an invaluable resource that pushes our understanding of East Asian regionalism forward

The Geopolitics of Region Building in the Black Sea Yannis Tsantoulis,2020-12-17 Offering theoretical insights on region building this book explores the attempts to formulate a political and institutional vision for the Black Sea region in the post 9 11 era and in the context of the enlargements of the EU and NATO It investigates in depth these attempts viewed as a failure by the key actors involved in order to understand how regions emerge in international politics as well as how and why they may fail to come into being To this end the book explores a range of factors that impacted region building in the Black Sea considering the role of region builders involved their practices and the context of their actions and the spatial representations and security discourses that were integral to the region building process Hence attention is paid to how these factors both enabled and constrained the discursive

Early Warning and Conflict Prevention Klaas van Walraven, 2024-01-15 The end of the cold war did not begin an era of world peace The forces of marginalization civil war and genocide have uprooted whole societies in Africa the Balkans and the Caucasus In fact the end of superpower competition means that the world now lacks external actors powerful enough to intervene successfully in local conflicts The early 1990s saw the beginning of a search for possibilities for conflict prevention This work is one of the first to set the analysis of early warning and conflict prevention firmly in the context of the changes and continuities in the structures of post Cold War politics Early Warning and Conflict Prevention proceeds from the position that sufficient early warning could enable governments and international organizations to intervene at an early stage rather than waiting until disputes erupt into violence It analyses the theoretical and practical complexities of timely warning and effective response in conflict resolution It also investigates the extent to which conflict prevention has become a concrete element in the policies of governments non governmental organizations and international organizations The result of an international symposium on early warning and conflict prevention in November 1996 this work examines this significant issue in international relations within the unique political framework of post Cold War developments making it an important resource for academics policymakers government officials and others interested in the present and future state of conflict resolution US Foreign Policy in a Challenging World Marco Clementi, Matteo Dian, Barbara Pisciotto, 2017-07-18 This book examines how the US is dealing with the challenge of reconciling its global interests with regional dynamics and how it is able to produce and sustain order at the system level and within regional subsystems The book comprises four parts the first of which addresses global issues such as nonproliferation trade and freedom of the seas US policies in these areas are carefully analyzed considering whether and how they have been differently implemented at the regional level The remaining parts of the book focus on the US posture toward specific regions Europe the Middle East and East Asia The policies adopted by the US to confront the most relevant challenges in each region are identified and the ways in which policies in a specific region influence or are influenced by challenges in another region are explored The book is a rich source of knowledge on the nature of the balance that the US has pursued between global and regional interests It will be of much interest to scholars to practitioners to postgraduate PhD students of international relations theory and American foreign policy and to all with an interest in the ability of the US to produce international order Social Emergence in International Relations Maren

Wagner, 2016-10-03 This book presents a conceptualization of social emergence in international relations as a novel angle to analyse institutional dynamics in East Asia introducing the concept of emergence from a critical realist perspective The author examines East Asia s characteristic mesh work of regional institutions that affect integrative processes and regional policies exploring how such institutions emerge and acquire their own nature and why this pattern persists over time an unresolved and contested subject in the field of International Relations This book suggests that regional institutions are emergent entities of the international system that arise as forms of self organization by states to achieve certain emergent properties and powers The author s approach sheds light on the particular emergent properties and powers of regional institutions and identifies discourse as a key mechanism of social emergence Besides engaging in relevant questions of the philosophy of science and its methodological implications for studying social emergence in world politics the book also analyses the concrete case of two East Asian regional institutions ASEAN Plus Three and the East Asia Summit This book will engage scholars and postgraduate students of Asian Studies and International Relations International Relations in Latin America Andrea Oelsner, 2013-10-11 This work studies the development of bilateral relations in two pairs of states dyads Argentina Brazil and Argentina Chile It takes on a moderate constructivist approach that incorporates into the analysis of international relations the role of identities ideas and perceptions as well as of material forces and understands that the former are affected and changed during interaction It also uses to securitization theory to explain how issues come or cease

Region-Building in Africa Daniel H. Levine, Dawn Nagar, 2016-05-19 This landmark book is the first of its kind to assess the challenges of African region building and regional integration across all five African sub regions and more than five decades of experience considering both political and economic aspects Leading scholars and practitioners come together to analyze a range of entwined topics including the theoretical underpinnings that have informed Africa s regional integration trajectory the political economy of integration including the sources of different waves of integration in pan Africanism and the reaction to neo liberal economic pressures the complexities of integration in a context of weak states and the informal regionalization that often occurs in borderlands the increasing salience of Africa s relationships with rising extra regional economic powers including China and India and comparative lessons from non African regional blocs including the EU ASEAN and the Southern Common Market A core argument of this book running through all chapters is that region building must be recognized as a political project as much as if not more than an economic one successful region building in Africa will need to include the complex political tasks of strengthening state capacity including states capacity as developmental states that can actively engage in economic planning resolving long standing conflicts over resources and political dominance improving democratic governance and developing trans national political structures that are legitimate and inclusive

Foreign Policy Responses to the Rise of Brazil G. Gardini, M. Tavares de Almeida, 2017-03-22 Brazil has risen Its economic might and international activism are remarkable but the limitations to its capacity and will to turn potential power into concrete international influence are equally significant This book assesses the real impact of the rise of Brazil on other Latin American countries and how these countries have responded

The Making of Southeast Asia Amitav Acharya, 2013-02-22 Developing a framework to study what makes a region Amitav Acharya investigates the origins and evolution of Southeast Asian regionalism and international relations He views the Association of Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN from the bottom up as not only a U S inspired ally in the Cold War struggle against communism but also an organization that reflects indigenous traditions Although Acharya deploys the notion of imagined community to examine the changes especially since the Cold War in the significance of ASEAN dealings for a regional identity he insists that imagination is itself not a neutral but rather a culturally variable concept The regional imagination in Southeast Asia imagines a community of nations different from NAFTA or NATO the OAU or the European Union In this new edition of a book first published as The Quest for Identity in 2000 Acharya updates developments in the region through the first decade of the new century the aftermath of the financial crisis of 1997 security affairs after September 2001 the long term impact of the 2004 tsunami and the substantial changes wrought by the rise of China as a regional and global actor Acharya argues in this important book for the crucial importance of regionalism in a different part of the world
