Resurrection Of Philip Clairmont:

The Resurrection of Philip Clairmont Martin Edmond, 2013-11-01 This is the record of the author's powerful and moving search for the artist Philip Clairmont which mingles elements of biography and art history with a personal quest. It is an unusual and brilliant piece of writing by the author of The Autobiography of My Father which transcends categorization.

The Work of Art Michael D. Jackson, 2016-10-25 How are we to think of works of art? Rather than treat art as an expression of individual genius, market forces or aesthetic principles, Michael Jackson focuses on how art effects transformations in our lives. Art opens up transitional, ritual or utopian spaces that enable us to reconcile inward imperatives and outward constraints, thereby making our lives more manageable and meaningful. Art allows us to strike a balance between being actors and being acted upon. Drawing on his ethnographic fieldwork in Aboriginal Australia and West Africa, as well as insights from psychoanalysis, religious studies, literature and the philosophy of art, Jackson deploys an extraordinary range of references from Bruegel to Beuys, Paleolithic art to performance art, Michelangelo to Munch to explore the symbolic labor whereby human beings make themselves both individually and socially out of the environmental, biographical and physical materials that affect them: a process that connects art with gestation, storytelling and dreaming and illuminates the elementary forms of religious life.

Tony Fomison Mark Forman, 2025-03-13 he wanted to make room at the back of our heads. From the introduction by the author. In a career spanning three decades, Tony Fomison (1939) – activist, archaeologist and scholar, trickster, addict and disrupter and above all else an artist – shed light on the human condition and reimagined life in Aotearoa. In this compelling biography developed over more than a decade, Mark Forman draws on archival material and interviews with more than 150 people, including Fomison's family and close friends, leading contemporary artists, political activists and art professionals. The result is a comprehensive yet lively and accessible biography that reveals the man and his art to a new generation of readers.

Marti Friedlander: Portraits of the Artists Leonard Bell, 2020-08-27 For fifty years, Marti Friedlander (1928–2016) was one of New Zealand's most important photographers; her work singled out for praise and recognition here and around the world. Friedlander's powerful pictures chronicled the country's social and cultural life from the 1960s into the twenty-first century. From painters to potters, film makers to novelists and actors to musicians, Marti Friedlander was always deeply engaged with New Zealand's creative talent. This book, published to coincide with an exhibition at the National Portrait Gallery in Wellington, brings together those extraordinary people and photographs: Rita Angus and Ralph Hotere, C. K. Stead and Maurice Gee, Neil Finn and Kapka Kassabova, Ans Westra and Kiri Te Kanawa and many, many more. Marti Friedlander's Portraits of the Artists chronicles the changing face of the arts in New Zealand while also addressing a central theme in Marti Friedlander's photography. Featuring more than 250 photographs, many never previously published, the book is an illuminating chronicle of the cultural life of Aotearoa New Zealand.

photographs makes extensive use of Battarbee's diaries for the first time to throw new light on Namatjira's life and to bring Battarbee who has been largely ignored by biographers back into focus. Some of its findings will be controversial. By moving between the artists and their backgrounds and looking closely at the nature of their friendship, Edmond is able to portray the personal and social complexities the two men faced while at the same time illuminating larger cultural themes: the treatment of the Arrernte and Indigenous people generally, the influence of the Lutheran church, the development of anthropology and the evolution of Australian art.

Crosscurrents in Australian First Nations and Non-Indigenous Art Sarah Scott, Helen McDonald, Caroline Jordan, 2023-08-11. This edited collection examines art resulting from cross-cultural interactions between Australian First Nations and non-Indigenous people from the British invasion to today. Focusing on themes of collaboration and dialogue, the book includes two conversations between First Nations and non-Indigenous authors and an historian's self-reflexive account of mediating between traditional owners and an international art auction house to repatriate art. There are studies of reverse appropriation by early nineteenth-century Aboriginal carvers of tourist artefacts and the production of enigmatic toa. Cross-cultural dialogue is traced from the post-war period to Aboriginalism in design and the First Nations fashion industry of today. Transculturation, conceptualism and collaboration are contextualised in the 1980s, a pivotal decade for the growth of collaborative First Nations exhibitions. Within the current circumstances of political protest in photographic portraiture and against the mining of sacred Aboriginal land, Crosscurrents in Australian First Nations and Non-Indigenous Art testifies to the need for Australian institutions to collaborate with First Nations people more often and better. This book will appeal to students and scholars of art history, Indigenous anthropology and museum and heritage studies.

Barefoot Years Martin Edmond, 2014-09-29. The myriad of the living in all of their many forms, defunct, mutant, revenant or otherwise, traversing memory's infinite field. Martin Edmond's Barefoot Years is a memoir in which the author attempts to re-inhabit the lost domain of childhood. It is evocative and poignant, detailed yet fragmentary, full of half-forgotten things, what may be recovered also reveals that which is gone forever. These remembered beginnings, both familiar and strange, take us back to when a world was being made. This BWB Text forms the first part of a full memoir by Martin Edmond to be published by Bridget Williams Books in 2015.

Chronicle of the Unsung Martin Edmond, 2013-11-01. The development of the artistic identity is revealed in this autobiography of an award-winning screenwriter. Anecdotes of travels and relationships with friends, roommates and lovers are balanced with aesthetic encounters with artists such as Van Gogh, Gauguin and Rimbaud. Episodes in Amsterdam, London, Sydney, Fiji and New Zealand demonstrate the impact of place on the author's personal life. The nature of the creative personality and the process of writing an autobiography are explored in this artistic and personal revelation.
