Mexican Americans and the Question of Race Julie A. Dowling, 2014-03-15 Honorable Mention Oliver Cromwell Cox Book Award presented by the Racial and Ethnic Minorities Section of the American Sociological Association 2015 With Mexican Americans constituting a large and growing segment of U S society their assimilation trajectory has become a constant source of debate Some believe Mexican Americans are following the path of European immigrants toward full assimilation into whiteness while others argue that they remain racialized as nonwhite Drawing on extensive interviews with Mexican Americans and Mexican immigrants in Texas Dowling's research challenges common assumptions about what informs racial labeling for this population Her interviews demonstrate that for Mexican Americans racial ideology is key to how they assert their identities as either in or outside the bounds of whiteness Emphasizing the link between racial ideology and racial identification Dowling offers an insightful narrative that highlights the complex and highly contingent nature of racial identity

Ethnic Identity and Minority Protection Thomas W. Simon, 2012-03-28 In Ethnic Identity and Minority Protection Designation Discrimination and Brutalization Thomas W Simon examines a new framework for considering ethnic conflicts In contrast to the more traditional theories of justice Simon's theory of injustice shifts focus away from group identity toward group harms effectively making many problems such as how to define minorities in international law dramatically more manageable Simon argues that instead of promoting legislative devices like proportional representation for minorities it is more fruitful to seek adjudicative solutions to racial and ethnic related conflicts For example resources could be shifted to quasi judicial human rights treaty bodies that have adopted an injustice approach This injustice approach provides the foundation for Kosovo's case for remedial secession and helps to sort out the competing entitlement claims of Malays in different countries Indeed the priority of Thomas W Simon's Ethnic Identity and Minority Protection is to ensure the tales of designation and discrimination told at the beginning of the work do not become the stories of brutalization told at the end In short the challenge tackled in this text is to assure that reason reigns over hate

Subjects, Citizens, and Others Benno Gammerl, 2017-11-01 Bosnian Muslims East African Masai Czech speaking Austrians North American indigenous peoples and Jewish immigrants from across Europe the nineteenth century British and Habsburg Empires were characterized by incredible cultural and racial ethnic diversity Notwithstanding their many differences both empires faced similar administrative questions as a result Who was excluded or admitted What advantages were granted to which groups And how could diversity be reconciled with demands for national autonomy and democratic participation In this pioneering study Benno Gammerl compares Habsburg and British approaches to governing their diverse populations analyzing imperial formations to reveal the legal and political conditions that fostered heterogeneity

'Race', Sport and British Society Ben Carrington, Ian McDonald, 2002-01-04 Contrary to the popular belief that sport is an arena largely free from the corrosive effects of racism this book argues that racism is evident throughout British sport From playing fields and boardrooms of sports organisations to the offices of sports policy makers and the media this book breaks new ground in showing how discourses of race and nation continue to pervade our sporting life Looking at a range of sports including football rugby league and cricket this book covers key topics such as British nationalism and nationalist ideology racial science and the images of Asian and black physicality sport racism and the law black feminism and the issues of race gender and sport the role of the media in perpetuating and challenging racial stereotypes Challenging the prevailing liberal view that sport is one area of society where good race relations are developed this book offers a wealth of research material and a strong theoretical perspective on contemporary British sport It will therefore be of vital interest to sociologists sports studies students sport policy makers and anyone with an interest in contemporary British sport

National Colors Mara Loveman, 2014-06-06 The era of official color blindness in Latin America has come to an end For the first time in decades nearly every state in Latin America now asks their citizens to identify their race or ethnicity on the national census Most observers approvingly highlight the historic novelty of these reforms but National Colors shows that official racial classification of citizens has a long history in Latin America Through a comprehensive analysis of the politics and practice of official ethnoracial classification in the censuses of nineteen Latin American states across nearly two centuries this book explains why most Latin American states classified their citizens by race on early national censuses why they stopped the practice of official racial classification around mid twentieth century and why they reintroduced ethnoracial classification on national censuses at the dawn of the twenty first century Beyond domestic political struggles the analysis reveals that the ways that Latin American states classified their populations from the mid nineteenth century onward responded to changes in international criteria for how to construct a modern nation and promote national development As prevailing international understandings of what made a political and cultural community a modern nation changed so too did the ways that Latin American census officials depicted diversity within national populations The way census officials described populations in official statistics in turn shaped how policymakers viewed national populations and informed their prescriptions for national development with consequences that still reverberate in contemporary political struggles for recognition rights and redress for ethnoracially marginalized populations in today's Latin America

A Marginal Scribe Dennis C. Duling, 2011-11-11 A Marginal Scribe collects eight studies written over a period of two decades all of which use social scientific criticism to interpret the Gospel of Matthew It prefaces them first with a new chapter on the struggle between historians and social scientists since the Enlightenment and its parallel in New Testament studies which culminated in the emergence of social scientific criticism and second with a new chapter on recent social scientific interpretation of the Gospel of Matthew The eight more specialized studies cover a variety of themes and use a variety of models but concentrate and are held together by those that illumine social ranking and marginality The book closes with a chapter that ties together these studies
