Path Dependence and New Path Creation in Renewable Energy Technologies James Simmie, 2016-01-08 Why are old technologies persisted with after better alternatives have been invented This book examines this question a central concern of evolutionary economics specifically focusing on renewable energy technologies The concept of path dependence is used to analyse why and how technological development can become locked in to inefficient ways of doing things This book shows how lock in can be avoided by the creation of new technological pathways The chapters focus on the comparatively recent introduction of new wind turbine technologies for the generation of carbon free electricity This case study provides valuable lessons in understanding the issues confronting inventors attempting to commercialise their new ideas in the form of innovations in the face of historically established conventional technologies It is also set within the critical debate on climate change and the need to de carbonise energy supplies in order to stop further man made deterioration in the global environment This book was originally published as a special issue of European Planning Studies Remaking the Global Economy Jamie Peck, Henry Wai-Chung Yeung, 2003-08-21 With a bibliography pp 231 252

Tourism and Innovation C. Michael Hall, Allan M. Williams, 2008-02-19 Tourism is often described as an industry with high growth rates and it is subject to radical change in how it is produced and consumed However there is still a relatively poor understanding of how such changes are brought about that is through innovation This book is the first to provide a comprehensive review of innovation in tourism while also considering how tourism itself contributes to innovative local regional and national development strategies This timely book places tourism innovation in the context of current academic and policy concerns relating to knowledge competition and the management of change A substantial introductory chapter provides an overview of what makes innovation in tourism both distinctive from and similar to innovation in other economic sectors This is followed by three general scene setting chapters which explore how competition and the search for competitiveness drive tourism innovation how knowledge transfers and knowledge creation lead the process and how institutions shape innovation These provide a coherent theoretical framework for understanding the roles of different agencies in innovation ranging from the state to the firm to the consumer The next four chapters analyze innovation at different scales Two chapters review the territorial dimensions of innovation through the fresh perspectives of the national and regional innovation systems followed by reviews of the determinants of innovation in the firm and the contested and complex role of entrepreneurship The final chapter summarises the importance of understanding tourism innovation This is a groundbreaking volume which provides an accessible introduction to a key but neglected topic It provides a readable account of the multidisciplinary research on innovation and relates the emerging theoretical framework to tourism A clear conceptual framework is complemented by fifty boxes which provide a range of illustrative international case studies This book will be a useful guide for researchers and students of tourism studies management and business and geography Procuring

Complex Performance Nigel Caldwell, Mickey Howard, 2010-09-13 This book examines the management of Procuring Complex Performance PCP in large scale programmes that includes the downstream support phase in sectors such as construction healthcare transport aerospace marine and defence It brings together a series of edited chapters to explain why the traditional combination of linear project management and highly detailed contracts are now unsuited to the dynamics of emerging customer requirements based on performance and outcome Working with leading business professors across the UK and Europe Caldwell and Howard present the case for why large scale programmes of world class organizations often represent a shifting frontier between the boundaries of public private provision and silos of operations expertise Adopting a procurement perspective the authors explain how complex performance means not just coping with the dynamics of buyer supplier relationships but incorporates the shift from production orientation towards availability of bundled services such as maintenance and upgrade delivered over extended often multi decade timeframes The strength of PCP is its empirical case based support for new business models based on through life management availability contracting and service support which challenge simplistic notions of dyadic hierarchical relationships and transfer of risk to the supply base This unique publication is essential reading for scholars and practitioners seeking to understand the context of innovation and supply as a coordinated and integrated approach to managing and procuring complex performance

Keys to the City Michael Storper, 2013-07-21 Why do some cities grow economically while others decline Why do some show sustained economic performance while others cycle up and down In Keys to the City Michael Storper one of the world's leading economic geographers looks at why we should consider economic development issues within a regional context at the level of the city region and why city economies develop unequally Storper identifies four contexts that shape urban economic development economic institutional innovational and interactional and political The book explores how these contexts operate and how they interact leading to developmental success in some regions and failure in others Demonstrating that the global economy is increasingly driven by its major cities the keys to the city are the keys to global development In his conclusion Storper specifies eight rules of economic development targeted at policymakers Keys to the City explains why economists sociologists and political scientists should take geography seriously

The Social Dynamics of Innovation Networks Roel Rutten, Paul Benneworth, Dessy Irawati, Frans Boekema, 2014-06-27 The social dynamics of innovation networks captures the important role of trust social capital institutions and norms and values in the creation of knowledge in innovation networks In doing so this book connects to a long standing debate on the socio spatial context of innovation in economic geography which is usually referred to as the Territorial Models of Innovation TIMs literature This present volume breaks with the TIM literature in several important ways In the first place this book emphasizes the role of individual agency because individuals and their networks are increasingly recognized as the principal agents of knowledge creation Secondly this volume looks at space as a continuous field of opportunity rather than as bounded territory with a set of endowments such as knowledge base and social capital Although individually these elements are not new to the TIM literature it has thus far failed to grasp their critical implication for studying the social dynamics of innovation networks The approach to the socio spatial context of innovation in this volume is summarized as Knowledge Economy 2.0 It emphasizes that human creativity is now the main source of economic value and that human creativity and knowledge creation is not an organized process within organizations but happens bottom up in formal and informal professional and social networks of individuals that cut across multiple organizations Milieus of Creativity Peter Meusburger, Joachim Funke, Edgar Wunder, 2009-03-10 Milieus of Creativity is the second volume in the book series Knowledge and Space This book deals with spatial disparities of knowledge and the impact of environments space and contexts on the production and application of knowledge The contributions in this volume focus on the role of places environments and spatial contexts for the emergence and perpetuation of creativity Is environment a social or a spatial phenomenon Are only social factors relevant for the development of creativity or should one also include material artefacts and resources in its definition How can we explain spatial disparities of creativity without falling victim to geodeterminism This book offers insights from various disciplines such as environmental psychology philosophy and social geography It presents the results of a research conference at Heidelberg University in September 2006 which was supported by the Klaus Tschira Foundation Innovation in Multinational Companies Jannika Mattes, 2010 This study deals with the organisation of innovation projects of multinational companies The focus is on learning processes which occur within the company group as well as those taking place between the company and its regional environment This work establishes a bridge between organisational and regional learning Government Incentives for Innovation and Entrepreneurship Mahmoud M. Abdellatif, Binh Tran-Nam, Marina Ranga, Sabina Hodžić, 2022-11-30 This book examines the role of government fiscal and non fiscal incentives in spurring innovation and entrepreneurship in developed and developing economies It explores and examines the role of government programs in different stages of firm growth pre startup startup and scale up By developing a theoretical framework and reviewing international evidence the book identifies the best combination of government incentives to stimulate innovation and entrepreneurship and provides concrete policy recommendations for decision makers Some of the issues tackled in this book include national innovation policy innovation support programs effectiveness of the support challenges associated with the programs risk sharing and partnerships for innovation This book is of interest to academics students practitioners policymakers governmental and non governmental organizations as well as other stakeholders who wants to be informed about the challenges progress and current trend in stimulating innovation and entrepreneurship Regional Helix Ecosystems and Sustainable Growth Luís Farinha, Domingos Santos, João J. Ferreira, Marina Ranga, 2020-08-29 This book discusses the importance of innovation and entrepreneurial ecosystems in supporting regional competitiveness It also encourages academics business professionals and policy makers to rethink innovation ecosystems as drivers of regional competitiveness demonstrating the complex interactions between regional economic and social actors and their impact on regional competitiveness Further the book examines the role of entrepreneurship and innovation policies in different regions e g lagging regions rural regions etc and describes critical success factors in multi level technologies and innovation policies and strategies Spatial Dynamics in the Experience Economy Anne Lorentzen, Karin Topsø Larsen, Lise Schrøder, 2015-05-22 This book explores the dynamics of place location and territories from the perspective of an experience based economy It offers a valuable contribution to this new approach and the planning and management challenges it faces This book emphasises three key avenues to understanding the experience economy First the book reconsiders innovation processes and the relationship between the consumption and production of experience value Second it considers emerging forms of governance related to experience based development in businesses and cities Third it examines the role of place as a value resource and outcome of experiential innovation and planning This book will be of interested to researchers concerned with urban and regional development

Business Process Management Michael Glykas,2012-09-18 Business Process

Management BPM has been in existence for decades. It uses, complements, integrates and extends theories, methods and tools from other scientific disciplines like strategic management, information technology, managerial accounting, operations management etc. During this period, the main focus themes of researchers and professionals in BPM were business process modeling, business process analysis, activity based costing, business process simulation, performance measurement, workflow management, the link between information technology and BPM for process automation etc. More recently, the focus moved to subjects like Knowledge Management, Enterprise Resource Planning, ERP Systems, Service Oriented Architectures, SOAs, Process Intelligence, PI and even Social Networks. In this collection of papers, we present a review of the work and the outcomes achieved in the classic BPM fields as well as a deeper insight on recent advances in BPM. We present a review of business process modeling and analysis and we elaborate on issues like business process quality and process performance measurement as well as their link to all other organizational aspects like human resources management, strategy, information technology, being SOA, PI or ERP, other managerial systems, job descriptions etc. We also present recent advances to BPR tools with special focus on information technology, workflow, business process modeling and human resources management tools. Other chapters elaborate on the aspect of business process and organizational costing and their relationship to business process analysis, organizational change and reorganization. In the final chapters, we present some new approaches that use fuzzy cognitive maps and a recently developed software tool for scenario creation and simulation in strategic management, business process management, performance measurement and social networking. The audience of this book is quite wide. The first chapters can be read by professionals, academics and students who want to get some basic insight into the BPM field, whereas the remaining present more elaborate and state of the art concepts, methodologies and tools for an audience of a more advanced level.

The Routledge Handbook to Regional Development in Central and Eastern Europe Gábor Lux, Gyula Horváth, 2017-07-06. Twenty five years into transformation, Central and Eastern European regions have undergone substantial socio-economic restructuring, integrating into European and global networks and producing new patterns of regional differentiation and development. Yet post-socialist modernisation has not been without its contradictions, manifesting in increasing social and territorial inequalities. Recent studies also suggest there are apparent limits to post-socialist growth models accompanying a new set of challenges within an increasingly uncertain world. Aiming to deliver a new synthesis of regional development issues at the crossroads between post-socialism and post-transition, this book identifies the main driving forces of spatial restructuring in Central and Eastern Europe and charts the different regional development paths which take shape against the backdrop of post-crisis Europe. A comparative approach is used to highlight common development challenges and the underlying patterns of socio-economic differentiation alike. The issues investigated within the Handbook extend to a discussion of the varied economic consequences of transition, the social structures and institutional systems which underpin development processes and the broadly understood sustainability of Central and Eastern Europe's current development model This book will be of interest to academics and policymakers working in the fields of regional studies economic geography development studies and policy
