Marshak,Judith Mosinger Ogilvie,Chai-An Mao,Christophe P. Ribelayga,2024-09-19 This is a remarkable time to study the vertebrate retina either as a model for the brain or to understand the first steps in vision We have known about the diversity of retinal neurons and glia for more than one hundred years and we are now extending these findings and making new discoveries about retinal cell types by analyzing gene expression in single cells We have made significant progress toward our ultimate goals of describing the neural circuits in the retinas at the level of connections between identified populations of neurons and understanding neuronal and glial cell function at the molecular level We have also made great strides toward understanding retinal development and the etiology of retinal diseases Physiologists are now using more realistic stimuli and modern analytical methods to analyze the mechanisms underlying light responses of retinal neurons and this has led to more accurate computational models of neural circuits in the retina My colleague at the McGovern Medical School in Houston Steve Massey has made many important contributions to this field both as a researcher and as a mentor and he is planning his retirement Judith Ogilvie Christophe Ribelayga Chai an Mao and I will dedicate this
