Modern Rendition Of Selected Old Chinese Cipoems:

A History of Contemporary Chinese Literature Zicheng Hong, 2007-10-15 This groundbreaking book by the eminent Peking University professor Hong Zicheng covers the literary scene in China during the 1949-1999 period primarily focusing on fiction poetry drama and prose writing Reprinted sixteen times since its publication in the PRC in 1999 it is now available in English translation at last The first section of the book deals with the 1949-1976 period Often derided and ignored as an arid era for literature by both Chinese and overseas critics Professor Hong describes the literature that was popular and officially acceptable at the time and the cultural policies and political campaigns that shaped the tastes of readers and the literary creativity of writers during the period This part of the book is remarkable for Professor Hong's candidness and open mindedness qualities that would have made this text difficult to publish at an earlier date in China Furthermore the platform that the first part of the text provides renders the second part even more understandable to readers unfamiliar with the post 1976 literary scene and offers new insights to those who are familiar with it demonstrating as it does the close links between the two distinctive eras These links are provided by the resumption of literary traditions that had been more or less abandoned during the preceding ten year period as well as reactions against literature nurtured and guided by the state cultural apparatus The second part of the book consists of a comprehensive description of developments and insightful explanations of those developments in the literary arts and literary criticism since 1976 A unique and much needed accomplishment in contemporary literary studies Also available in paperback

A Hundred and Seventy Chinese Poems Anonymous, 2019-11-19 A Hundred and Seventy Chinese Poems serves as a comprehensive anthology that delves into the rich tapestry of Chinese poetic tradition encompassing various dynasties and styles The collection showcases the exquisite craftsmanship of Chinese poets from the terse elegance of Classical verse to the evocative imagery characteristic of Tang poetry With meticulous attention to the nuances of language the poems illustrate not only the aesthetic beauty of their form but also the philosophical depth of themes like nature love and mortality The anthology's annotations provide essential context making the work accessible to both scholars and novices alike while preserving the musicality and rhythm inherent in the original texts The decision to remain anonymous speaks to the collective nature of Chinese literature where individual accolades often become secondary to the voice of the community This anonymity invites readers to appreciate the poems as universal experiences rather than solely personal testimonies It also echoes the historical context in which many poets labored often writing under the constraints of social expectation and cultural norms This anthology comes highly recommended for anyone interested in exploring the depth and diversity of Chinese literature It is a vital portal to understanding the emotional and intellectual landscape from which these poems emerged providing timeless insights that resonate across cultures and ages
