1930s George S Schuyler revised Burroughs normative SF triangle of white author white audience and white protagonist and promoted an individualistic highly variable concept of race instead While both Burroughs and Schuyler wrote SF focusing on racial identity the largely separate genres of science fiction and African American literature prevented the similarities between the two authors from being adequately acknowledged and explored Beginning in the 1960s Samuel R Delany more fully joined SF and African American literature Delany expands on Schuyler s racial constructionist approach to identity including gender and sexuality in addition to race Critically intertwining the genres of SF and African American literature allows a critique of the racism in the science fiction and a more accurate and positive portrayal of the scientific connections in the African American literature Connecting the popular fiction of Burroughs the controversial career of Schuyler and the postmodern texts of Delany illuminates a gradual change from a stable essentialist construction of racial identity at the turn of the century to the variable social construction of poststructuralist subjectivity today Secrecy and Community in 21st-Century Fiction María J. López, Pilar Villar-Argáiz, 2021-01-14 Secrecy and Community in 21st Century Fiction examines the relation between secrecy and community in a diverse and international range of contemporary fictional works in English In its concern with what is called communities of secrecy it is fundamentally indebted to the thought of Jacques Derrida Jean Luc Nancy and Maurice Blanchot who have pointed to the fallacies and dangers of identitarian and exclusionary communities arguing for forms of being in common characterized by non belonging singularity and otherness Also drawing on the work of J Hillis Miller Derek Attridge Nicholas Royle Matei Calinescu Frank Kermode and George Simmel among others this volume analyses the centrality of secrets in the construction of literary form narrative sequence and meaning together with their foundational role in our private and interpersonal lives and the public and political realms In doing so it engages with the Derridean ethico political value of secrecy and Derrida s conception of literature as the exemplary site for the operation of the unconditional secret
