The Army Modernization Imperative Andrew Hunter, Rhys McCormick, 2017-06-16 The U S Army currently faces a difficult truth without changes to its modernization strategy the Army risks losing qualitative tactical overmatch A lost procurement decade and recent significant modernization funding declines have resulted in an Army inventory that remains heavily leveraged on the Big Five programs originally procured in the 1970s and 1980s Meanwhile technology proliferation has made potential state and nonstate adversaries increasingly capable shrinking the U S overmatch advantage and in some cases surpassing it While current and projected future Army modernization funding is below historical averages necessitating increased modernization funding to ensure continued U S qualitative tactical overmatch the Army s modernization problem cannot be fixed only by increasing modernization funding Additional funds also need to be accompanied by an updated Army modernization strategy that presents a compelling case for modernization funding and sets clear priorities for fulfilling future operational requirements Green States and Social Movements John S. Dryzek, David Downes, Christian Hunold, David Schlosberg, Hans-Kristian Hernes, 2003-02-20 Social movements take shape in relation to the kind of state they face while over time states are transformed by the movements that they both incorporate and resist Green States and Social Movements is a comparative study of the environmental movement s successes and failures in four very different states the USA UK Germany and Norway The history covers the entire sweep of the modern environmental era that begins in 1970 The end in view is a green transformation of the state and society on a par with earlier transformations that gave us first the liberal capitalist state and then the welfare state The authors explain why such a transformation is now most likely in Germany and why it is least likely in the United States which has lost the status of environmental pioneer that it gained in the early 1970s Their comparative analysis also explains the role played by social movements in making modern societies more deeply democratic and yields insights into the strategic choices of environmental movements as they decide on what terms to engage enter or resist the state Sometimes it makes sense for a movement to act conventionally as a green party or set of interest groups But sometimes inclusion can mean co optation in which case a movement can instead emphasize action in and through civil society

The Reforming Organization Nils Brunsson, Johan P. Olsen, 2018-04-17 Originally published in 1993 Organizations have become larger more professionalized more differentiated and wealthier At the same time they are often subject to large scale changes either as a result of mergers and acquisitions or simply in response to changed market conditions or new technologies In this climate the people who run organizations frequently find themselves acting as reformers The central concern of this study is to analyze the reforming process within organizations and assess its impact The authors define reform as the process by which individuals seek to achieve desired goals by changing the structure of their organization the administrative procedures chains of command and lines of communication Drawing on empirical case studies from a range of different sectors The Reforming Organization questions the relationship between the changes that can be seen occurring in organizations all the time and these conscious internal attempts at reform This is a different approach to some of the central concerns in organizational theory The relationship between individuals and structures and the learning capacity of organizations This title will be of interest to students of Business Studies and Management
