Modernization Of China Japan:

Tradition and Modernization in China and Japan Peter R. Moody,1995 The Modernization of China and Japan George M. Beckmann,1962 The Foundations of Japan's Modernization Yoshiie Yoda,1996 Tracing and evaluating the development in the history of Japanese culture and society that permits Japan's rapid and continuing modernization Professor Yoda provides a new and original approach to the modernization of Japan He starts from the assumption that Japan was better equipped for modernization because pre modern Japan had already started to abandon Confucian influences In his account of modernization during the Meiji period he focuses on general patterns inherent in Japanese culture and society enabling Japan to integrate foreign elements without having to follow foreign models slavishly Patterns in culture such as the Japanese preference for juxtaposing the new and the ancient are contrasted with China's preference for discarding past institutions in revolutionary processes The transferability of paradigms such as absolutism is accepted with some modifications In the major descriptive part of the work the history of economic political institutional modernization is presented on the basis of quotations from original Japanese and Chinese sources arranged within the methodological framework of universal historical concepts indigenous cultural patterns and specific conditions in both countries The book is composed of two articles previously published in Japanese and Chinese two new chapters written especially for the volume and background information provided by Professor Radtke The Course of Modernization in China, Japan and America, 1850 -- 1930 ,2009 Contrasting Factors in the Modernization of China and Japan ,1953 Naval Modernisation in South-East Asia Geoffrey Till,Jane Chan,2013-08-15 This edited volume analyses the naval arms race in South East Asia and reviews the content purposes and consequences of the naval policies and development of the main countries of the region The rise of naval capability in the countries of the Asia Pacific Region is increasingly recognised as a major indicator of the rise of Asia and its increasing importance in the world's political economic and strategic future Most coverage focusses solely on the navies of the big four the US China India and Japan however the region's other navies though much smaller are significant too Given the current focus on the South China Sea and the Obama administration's pivot to Asia naval development in South East Asia is of particular relevance This book first identifies the issues involved in defence acquisition in this area It then goes on to establish some templates of naval modernisation as a means of assessing the policies of individual countries in the region by looking at the naval policies of the big four Finally the general issue of naval modernisation in South East Asia is illustrated through a more detailed examination of some of the major issues common to all countries of the area These include the defence industrial perspective specific examinations of submarine and surface ship acquisition processes and a review of the balance to be struck between naval and coastguard forces in the area This book will be of much interest to students of naval power maritime security South East Asian politics strategic studies and IR in general

China's Japan Policy: Adjusting To New Challenges Joseph Yu-shek Cheng, 2014-07-31

China and Japan are the two most important countries in the Asia Pacific region. Their economic ties are significant not only because they are the second and third largest economies in today's world but also because their economic relationship has an important impact on regional economic co-operation and international production chains. China's Japan Policy: Adjusting to New Challenges analyzes the significance of Japan in China's foreign policy framework within the broader context of China's world view, its national objectives, and the Chinese leadership's policy adjustments in response to the changing international and domestic circumstances. It looks at China's Japan policy in recent decades since their normalization of relations in 1972. The book also examines the unique characteristics of the China-Japan bilateral relationship, especially the historical legacy, territorial disputes, and the special cultural affinities between the two nations. Readers interested in China and Japan will find this an invaluable reference with detailed insights on international relations and economic developments in the Asia Pacific region.

Chinese Foreign Policy Think Tanks and China's Policy Towards Japan Xuanli Liao, 2006. Examines Chinese foreign policy think tanks and their influence in China's foreign policy towards Japan between the late 1970s and late 1990s. Through case studies, this book demonstrates a growing pluralistic trend in post-Mao China's foreign policy making process.

Factors Explaining the Disparate Pace of Modernization in China and Japan Allan B. Cole, 1964

Contrasting Modernization in China and Japan Allan Burnett Cole, 1966

The Modernization of China Rozman, 1982-08

In The Modernization of China, an interdisciplinary team of scholars collaborate closely to provide the first systematic integrated analysis of China in transformation from an agrarian-based to an urbanized and industrialized society. Moving from the legacy of the Ming and Ch'ing dynasties to the reforms and revolutions of the 20th century, the authors seek reasons for China's inability to achieve rapid, steady growth during a 200-year-long struggle to modernize. They examine the changing shape of Chinese society, the role of the state in local politics, military affairs, economics, the development of the educational system, changes in family, population, and settlement patterns, science and technology, world views, and foreign relations. And they make frequent comparisons between China's experience with growth and that of two other latecomers to modernization, Japan and Russia. The result is a book that brings much needed clarity and perspective to our understanding of China and the way a great civilization attempts to meet the challenge of modernity.

China-Japan Relations in the 21st Century Lam Peng Er, 2017-09-05

This new collection examines the paradox of Sino-Japanese relations and the rising diplomatic antagonism between both countries despite deepening economic interdependency Offering a unique perspective on the history of bilateral ties since diplomatic normalization in 1972 it considers the growing interdependency between China and Japan in bilateral trade investment tourism and education as well as the question of nationalism and Sino Japanese rivalry in multilateral settings such as in ASEAN processes the Mekong Basin and the South China Sea Focusing on the power transition in East Asia the lack of a common enemy in the post Cold War era the clash of Chinese and Japanese nationalism and a lack of trust shared values and common identity between China and Japan this collection addresses the origins of a troubled bilateral relationship which could impact on the stability and prosperity of East Asia Japanese War Orphans Jiaxin Zhong, 2021-11-25 After Japan's defeat in August 1945 some Japanese children were abandoned in China and raised by Chinese foster parents They were unable to return to Japan even during the mass repatriation carried out by the Japanese government in the 1950s Most of them returned to Japan in the 1980s They are called Japanese war orphans They are victims of the Sino Japanese War and have been exploited and abandoned by the Japanese government They are also border people who have lived in the interstices between two nations China and Japan and are migrants who have exploited the gap in economic development between Japan and China to seek individual happiness Modern East Asia underwent drastic social change These drastic social changes affected the lives of the Japanese war orphans and their families in a variety of ways Over the years Zhong has interviewed Japanese war orphans their Chinese foster parents and Japanese volunteers The title is an interview based sociological study of the issue of Japanese war orphans The first half of the Japanese war orphans lives were spent in China and the latter half in Japan It brings to the fore the dramatic personal histories of the Japanese war orphans surviving in the interstices between two nation states Through analyzing the issue of Japanese war orphans the research on the subject makes the following three points 1 the powerlessness of civilians caught up in modern warfare and the long lasting effects of modern warfare on the life histories of individuals and their families 2 the nature of the modern nation state which exploits and abandons its citizens as though they were expendable and 3 immigration as a product of modernization gaps Scholars pursuing studies in both Japanese society Chinese society and historians of the Sino Japanese war would find this an ideal read Rethinking Sino-Japanese Alienation Barry Buzan, Evelyn Goh, 2020-01-09 Bitterly contested memories of war colonisation and empire among Japan China and Korea have increasingly threatened regional order and security over the past three decades In Sino Japanese relations identity territory and power pull together in a particularly lethal direction generating dangerous tensions in both geopolitical and memory rivalries Buzan and Goh explore a new approach to dealing with this history problem First they construct a more balanced and global view of China and Japan in modern world history Second building on this they sketch out the possibilities for a 21st century great power bargain between them Buzan puts Northeast Asia's history since 1840 into both a world historical and a systematic normative context exposing the parochial nature of the China Japan history debate in relation to what is a bigger shared story about their encounter with modernity and the West within which their modern encounter with each other took place Arguing that regional order will ultimately depend substantially on the relationship between these two East Asian great powers Goh explores the conditions under which China and Japan have been able to reach strategic bargains in the course of their long historical relationship and uses this to sketch out the main modes of agreement that might underpin a new contemporary great power bargain between them in a variety of future scenarios for the region The frameworks adopted here consciously blend historical contextualisation enduring concerns with wealth power and interest and the complex relationship between Northeast Asian states evolving encounters with each other and with global international society

Japan's International Relations Takashi Inoguchi, 2013-12-17 Japan's International Relations focuses on three major issues firstly Japan's role in relation to its place in the international structure its economic dynamism and its historical past Secondly how Japan's role is manifested in a number of key areas economic security bilateral and regional Thirdly Inoguchi analyses the Japan's role in the light of the continuing US Soviet détente an enlarged Europe continuing Pacific dynamism and global economic difficulties First published in 1991 this title is part of the Bloomsbury Academic Collections series
