Mohawks Over Burma:

Mohawks Over Burma Gerry Beauchamp, 1985 With the Tigers over China, 1941-1942 Jerome

Klinkowitz, 2021-12-14 In the twelve months centered around the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor a diverse group of American and British flyers fought one of the most remarkable air campaigns of WWII. Pilots including Claire Chennault, Pappy Boyington and Art Donahue bought time for an Allied regrouping against Japan's relentless assault in the China Burma India theater. In the face of the 1941 bombings, Chiang Kai-shek turned to air power to survive, which he did thanks to Chennault's rebuilding of the Chinese Air Force and the leadership of the American Volunteer Group or AVG. Formed by Chennault, the AVG also known as the Flying Tigers were contract employees working for the Chinese government. As a result, they received virtually no official American recognition for their efforts. The group was known for their romantic, reckless spirit. They performed remarkably with outdated planes and equipment in ill repair, were almost always heavily outnumbered in battle, and were seen by outsiders as hard-drinking rebels. Whatever their image, the Flying Tigers were highly effective. In the words of Air Force Major General Charlie Bond: During that first week of action, the AVG destroyed fifty-five enemy bombers and fighters while losing only five Tomahawks. Unfortunately, two of our colleagues were killed, but at the same time, two hundred enemy airmen were either killed or captured. We were shattering the myth that the Japanese Air Force was invincible. Jerome Klinkowitz, whose earlier books focused on flyers' attitudes toward the air war in Britain and Europe, continues his work with an exceptionally interesting group of Pacific warriors. He brings together not only the commanders' stories but the often more colorful and sometimes more accurate accounts of life and battle by the men who flew these planes and the women who participated on the ground.

P-36 Hawk Aces of World War 2 Lionel Persyn, Kari Stenman, Andrew Thomas, 2012-12-20 A fascinating account of a plane that served on both sides during World War 2 and in a variety of environments from Pearl Harbor to the deserts of North Africa to the barren forests of Karelia and the jungles of Burma. The Curtiss P-36 was considered a revolution in performance design in comparison to other US fighters. Yet by the time of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, the P-40 was increasingly supplanting the P-36, which the US then exported to France under the guise of the Hawk 75. Flown by the French, captured by the Germans, sold to the Finns, transferred to India and Africa, and even incorporated into the RAF, the Hawk 75 saw service in every theatre of operations and in a variety of combat environments. This book depicts the interesting life of this plane with colour artwork, photographs, and first-hand accounts.

Fighter Pilots in World War II Bruce Barrymore Halpenney, 2004-09-19 This is the story of Allied fighter pilots and the part they played in all the principal operational theatres of World War II. It also tells of life on the wartime airfield and how ground crew kept the aircraft ready for action, either in the bitter cold of a Scottish winter or the sweltering heat of the North African desert. The book brings home the nervous strain caused by the constant readiness demanded by all those involved with fighter squadron combat and the intense comradeship created in each fighting unit.

in our everyday worlds The Aeronautical Journal ,1985 The Battle for Burma, 1942-1945 Philip Jowett,2021-06-09
The battle for Burma during the Second World War was of vital importance to the Allies and the Japanese The Allies fought to protect British India and force the Japanese out of Burma the Japanese fought to defend the north west flank of their newly conquered empire and aimed to strike at India where anti British feeling was growing stronger Yet the massive military efforts mounted by both sides during four years of war are often overshadowed by the campaigns in Europe North Africa the Pacific and China Philip Jowett using over 200 wartime photographs many of them not published before retells the story of the war in Burma in vivid detail illustrating each phase of the fighting and showing all the forces involved British American Chinese Indian Burmese as well as Japanese His book is a fascinating introduction to one of the most extreme but least reported struggles of the entire war The narrative and the striking photographs carry the reader through each of the major phases of the conflict from the humiliation of the initial British defeat in 1942 and retreat into India and their faltering attempts to recover the initiative from 1943 to the famous Chindit raids behind Japanese lines the Japanese offensive of 1944
