Molecular Mechanisms Of Pathogenesis In Chagas Disease:

Molecular Mechanisms of Pathogenesis in Chagas' Disease John M. Kelly, 2003-08-31 Chagas disease which results from infection with the single cell parasite Trypanosoma cruzi is a debilitating condition that is a major problem in many parts of Latin America Rapid technical progress is now facilitating dissection of the molecular mechanisms of disease pathogenesis a process that will ultimately provide new strategies to alleviate the enormous public health burden associated with the infection In this book international experts review the buoyant status of Chagas disease research as we enter the post genome era and speculate on how the new findings will impact on drug and vaccine development The chapters outline how progress is being made on several fronts ranging from parasite population genetics to human immunology Researchers physicians and students with an interest in any aspect of molecular parasitology should find this book to be a valuable reference

Molecular Mechanisms in the Pathogenesis of Chagas Disease Jean-francois Jeannin, 2001-01-01 Immune evasion strategies in protozoan-host interactions Alexandre Morrot, 2024-08-13 The protozoa are the most ancient members of the animal kingdom and they have evolved the intracellular parasitism to ensure their survival strategies Protozoan parasites that infect humans are extremely diverse among eukaryotes They are responsible for many human diseases such as amebiasis Chagas disease malaria toxoplasmosis leishmaniasis and African sleeping sickness The ability of protozoans to cause disease depends on the nature and number of infecting organisms the route of infection the virulence factors associated with the microorganism and the strength of host defenses This host parasite interaction is also subject to constant change as the infection proceeds and can lead to a range of outcomes from elimination of the pathogen to death of the host depending on the states of latency and the extent of colonization that the protozoan achieves in the course of infection Several species of parasitic protozoa harbor specialized virulence factors whose products can overcome the host s immunity and promote their survival These factors act at several different checkpoints of the host immune responses from the first components of the innate immune response to the induction and maintenance of adaptive memory responses Many protozoan species have evolved mechanisms that modulate and inhibit host sensors microRNA circuits and signaling pathways that permit the host to detect infection These factors can act inter alia by inhibiting the complement cascade subverting phagocyte activation and impairing leukocyte migratory responses so undermining the immune system thus facilitating the pathogen evasion and its continued persistence in the host In this research topic we welcome the contribution of original research article as well as reviews on the field

Neglected Tropical Diseases and Conditions of the Nervous System Marina Bentivoglio, Esper A. Cavalheiro, Krister Kristensson, Nilesh B. Patel, 2014-05-30 A number of diseases and conditions that occur primarily in remote rural or poor urban areas of low income countries have traditionally been neglected by the neuroscience research community These diseases and conditions affect the nervous system directly sometimes with lethal consequences and or are associated with severe neurological sequels such as epilepsy cognitive deficits and sleep disruption Several diseases also have the effect of promoting poverty by leaving sufferers unable to lead economically productive lives due to cognitive and behavioral disturbances or severe stigmatization The pathogenesis of neural dysfunction in the diseases addressed in this book and their sequels remains unclear Neuroscience of Neglected Diseases and Conditions makes available much needed information about how these diseases affect the human nervous system as well as to promote interest in further research Further research into neglected diseases and conditions will uncover information that sheds light on more general topics of interest to the neuroscience research community Biomedical Index to

Stem Cell Technologies meet Stem Cell Biology to Shine New Light into Tropical Infectious Diseases Alena Pance ,Gabriel Rinaldi,2024-05-15 The aim of this collection of articles is to assemble advances in stem cell based approaches and their application to the study of parasitic diseases Tropical parasites including unicellular protozoan organisms and helminths represent a major public health burden particularly in tropical regions of the world The study of these organisms is significantly hampered by the lack of effective in vitro ex vivo culture systems that mimic natural conditions and facilitate a thorough understanding of parasite development and host parasite interactions The advent of stem cell technology offers the opportunity to derive the right cell types to culture these parasites Moreover stem cell derived organoids accurately reproduce the particular niche in which the parasites grow develop interact with host tissues and reproduce In addition particularly for helminths i e multicellular parasites the identification and characterisation of the parasite s stem cell system will be critical to complement our current and future understanding of fundamental biological processes such as worm maturation and interaction with the host immune system and microbiota      Research Awards Index ,1989      Neuroimmunomodulation Ario Conti,2000 These proceedings focus on different areas of research with special emphasis on relating the state of the art basic neuroimmunomodulation research to its potential practical application in specific fields Among these the role of pro and anti inflammatory cytokines in the central nervous system peripheral mechanisms of neuroimmunomodulation behavioural studies and immunity and neuroimmunomodulation correlates in autoimmune disease represent areas of particular interest Also highlighted are studies related to the role of melatonin as an immunomodulatory hormone an area of explosive growth as well as the emerging field of neuroendocrine regulation of haematopoiesis Clinical studies in cancer allergy AIDs and other infectious diseases will focus upon neuroimmunomodulation based mechanisms and suggest new therapeutic approaches
