Moles Van Nederland:

Proceedings of the Koninklijke Nederlandse Akademie Van Wetenschappen Koninklijke Akademie van Wetenschappen (Netherlands). Afdeeling Natuurkunde,1901 De Raey: The Mole in Leiden Hendrik Punt,2019 The book is not only meant for philosophers and medical historians but for all who want to take a look at the extensive menu of Cartesian cuisine The 17th century philosopher Ren Descartes turned established science upside down by doubting all certainties His critical mind rejected statements that could not be proven by the Ratio The Ratio was the metaphor for the roots the physics for the trunk and the medicine for the branches and leaves of the Cartesian tree This premise was directly opposed to the established aristotelian theory in which observation formed the basis of knowledge De Raey who once called Descartes his best student synthesized a hybrid model of the old Aristotelian and the new Cartesian concept From 1658 to 1662 he gave private lessons in medicine at Leiden University and tried to use his model as a basis for explaining human physiology Until now nothing was known about the content of these lectures The author recently found a dispute It is a new dish on the Cartesian menu Bron Flaptekst uitgeversinformatie Uncertainty in Medical Innovation Jessica Mesman,2008-10-14 The Neonatal Intensive Care Unit is a site where hi tech medicine and vulnerable human beings come into close contact Focusing on a number of medical and ethical challenges encountered by staff and parents this book provides a new perspective on the complexity of these treatments and the inventiveness of those involved Arbitration in the Netherlands, in Particular NAI Arbitration Carmen Schleijpen, Gerard J. government policy makes it worthwhile for companies to alter their business model so that their products services and production processes benefit society Our recommendations address the role of government consumers financiers and companies themselves While this work focuses on the Netherlands it tackles questions that countries face worldwide on how to minimise harmful business conduct and maximise good business solutions This makes the book broadly relevant to policy makers business leaders and researchers grappling with the impact of business on society today Acidification Research in the Netherlands T. Anthocyanins as Flower Pigments T. Mulder-Krieger, Robert Verpoorte, 2012-12-06 To date several possibilities exist to change the genetics of plants including classical breeding and modern molecular biological approaches such as recombinant DNA techniques and plant transformation methods The aim of this publication is to review the feasibilities offered by the current technologies to modify flower colours Due to the great importance of anthocyanins as flower pigments the main part of this study deals with this class of flavonoids responsible for most red purple and blue colours Being electron deficient the flavylum nucleus of the anthocyanins is highly reactive and undergoes dependent upon pH readily structural transformations which are coupled with colour changes A number of mechanisms that stabilizes the coloured at expense of the colourless structures in plants are described including acylation co pigmentation and metal complex formation Because no plant species possesses the genetic capacity for producing varieties in the full spectrum of colours man has looked for methods to change the genetic properties of plants In recent years conventional flower breeding is more and more being supplemented by genetic engineering techniques This technology offers the possibility to insert specific genes into the cell genome and to transfer genes most efficiently between different organisms The common flower pigments the anthocyanins have been studied for many years and represent now the best understood group of secondary plant metabolites with respect to bio chemistry and genetics

Ecological Modernisation Around the World Arthur P.J. Mol, David A. Sonnenfeld, 2014-04-08 The idea of ecological modernisation originated in Western Europe in the 1980s gaining attention around the world by the late 1990s At the core of this social scientific and policy oriented approach is the view that contemporary societies have the capability of dealing with their environmental crises Experiences in some countries demonstrate that modern institutions can incorporate environmental interests into their daily routines Elsewhere economic and political interests dominate development trajectories and environmental deterioration continues challenging the premises of ecological modernisation This volume brings together research on ecological modernisation practices around the world Studies on Western Central and Eastern Europe the USA and Southeast Asia examine the applicability of this approach to advanced industrial countries transitional economies and developing countries respectively Authors critically examine the premises of ecological modernisation theory assess its value for understanding past and present environmental transformations and outline paths for designing future sustainable development Taken together the studies in collected this volume offer significant refinements extensions and critiques of ecological modernisation theory and suggest important directions for future research on social and policy dimensions of environmental change

New Instruments for Environmental Policy in the EU Jonathan Golub, 1998-06-04 New Instruments for Environmental Policy in the EU provides a comprehensive analysis of the debate over new forms of environmental regulation in the European Union The conclusions draw attention to critical aspects of instrument design as well as the difficulty of accommodating national policy diversity without contravening EU and international tr Opium to Java James Robert Rush, 2007 Opium smoking was a widespread social custom in nineteenth century Java and commercial trade in opium had far reaching economic and political implications As in many of the Dutch territories in the Indonesian archipelago the drug was imported from elsewhere and sold throughout the island under a government monopoly a system of revenue farms These monopoly franchises were regulated by the government and operated by members of Java's Chinese elite who were frequently also local officials appointed by the Dutch. The farms thus helped support large Chinese patronage networks that vied for control of rural markets throughout Java. James Rush explains the workings of the opium farm system during its mature years by measuring the social, economic and political reach of these monopolies within the Dutch-dominated colonial society. His analysis of the opium farm incorporates the social history of opium smoking in Java and of the Chinese officer elite that dominated not only the opium farming but also the island's Chinese community and much of its commercial economy. He describes the relations among the various classes of Chinese and Javanese as well as the relation of the Chinese elite to the Dutch and he traces the political interplay that smuggling and the black market stimulated among all these elements. An important contribution to the social and political history of Southeast Asia and now brought back to life as a member of Equinox Publishing's Classic Indonesia series, this book gives a new dimension to our knowledge of nineteenth-century Javanese society and the processes of social control and economic dominance during the colonial period. JAMES R. RUSH is a historian of modern Southeast Asia whose other works include The Last Tree: Reclaiming the Environment in Tropical Asia, Java: A Travellers Anthology and several volumes of contemporary Asian biography in the Ramon Magsaysay Awards series. He is associate professor of history at Arizona State University.

Goederenverwerving van het Duitse Huis te Utrecht 1218-1536 Jerem van Duijl, 2022. Aan de Springweg in het centrum van Utrecht staat het zogeheten Duitse Huis. Het werd halverwege de veertiende eeuw gebouwd als opvolger van een dertiende-eeuws gebouwencomplex buiten de stadsmuur. Dit Duitse Huis was de hoofdvestiging van de Duitse Orde in de Noordelijke Nederlanden. Net als bijvoorbeeld de Orde van de Tempeliers en de Johannieterorde was deze orde actief betrokken bij de kruistochten. Vooral na de val van het laatste kruisvaardersbolwerk in het Midden Oosten in 1291 vochten de ridders van de Duitse Orde tevens in het Oostzeegebied alwaar een heuse ordestaat ontstond. Het zijn de militaire activiteiten die dergelijke geestelijke ridderorden bekend hebben gemaakt en die ook in het historisch onderzoek de meeste aandacht hebben gekregen. Minder bekend zijn echter de vestigingen in de herkomstgebieden van de broeders alwaar ridders en priesters gezamenlijk een religieus leven leidden in nederzettingen zoals het Duitse Huis. Daar beheerden ze het lokale goederenbezit van de Duitse Orde waarmee de eigen leefgemeenschap kon worden bekostigd en een bijdrage kon worden geleverd aan de activiteiten van de orde elders. In dit boek wordt inzichtelijk gemaakt hoe de goederenverwerving van het Duitse Huis gedurende de middeleeuwen tot stand kwam. Veel aandacht gaat bijvoorbeeld uit naar de beweegredenen van schenkers. Voor het onderzoek is rijkelijk geput uit een gevarieerde schat aan bronnen zoals oorkonden, pachtregisters en landkaarten. Kruistochten, devotie, politiek en patronage, leiderschapskwaliteiten en economische omstandigheden komen naar voren als de factoren die de ontwikkeling van de goederenverwerving in verschillende vormen hebben bepaald.
