Police For The Future:

Police for the Future David H. Bayley, 1994 5 Agendas for change Police for the Future David H. Bayley, 1996-03-07

Police do not and cannot prevent crime This alarming thesis is explored by David Bayley one of the most prolific and internationally renowned authorities on criminal justice and policing in Police for the Future Providing a systematic assessment of the performance of the police institution as a whole in preventing crime the study is based on exhaustive research interviews and first hand observation in five countries Australia Canada Great Britain Japan and the United States It analyzes what police are accomplishing in modern democratic societies and asks whether police organizations are using their resources effectively to prevent crime Bayley assesses the impediments to effective crime prevention describes the most promising reforms currently being tested by the police and analyzes the choices that modern societies have with respect to creating truly effective police forces He concludes with a blueprint for the creation of police forces that can live up to their promise to reduce crime and enhance public safety Written for both the general public and the specialist in criminal justice Police for the Future offers a unique multinational perspective on one of society's most basic institutions The Future of

Policing Jennifer M. Brown, 2013-10-08 The police service in England and Wales is facing major challenges in its financing political oversight and reorganisation of its structures Current economic conditions have created a wholly new environment whereby cost saving is permitting hitherto unthinkable changes in the style and means of delivery of policing services In the context of these proposed changes Lord Stevens formerly Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police Service was asked to chair an Independent Commission looking into the future of policing The Commission has a wide ranging remit and the papers in this book offer up to date analysis of contemporary problems from the novel perspective of developing a reform agenda to assist the Commission Bringing together contributions from both key academic thinkers and police professionals this book discusses new policing paradigms lays out a case for an evidence based practice approach and draws attention to developing areas such as terrorism public order and hate crime Policing is too important to be left to politicians as the health of a democracy may be judged by the relationship between the police and the public The aim of this book is to question and present analyses of problems offer new ideas and propose realistically achievable solutions without being so timid as to preserve the status quo It will be of interest to both academics and students in the fields of criminology and policing studies as well as professionals in the policing service NGOs and local authority organisations Law Enforcement in the 21st
