Innovative Measurement and Evaluation of Community Development Practices Norman Walzer, Jane Leonard, Mary Emery, 2017-10-02 Finding innovative and useful measurement practices for community development projects is gaining in importance as policymakers increase the demands for accountability. This book examines some of the latest efforts to document the effectiveness of local development efforts. The types of documentation differ by types of project jurisdiction and country but they have a common focus of recognizing the importance of the Community Capitals framework. Public agencies in the past have often measured development successes by the number of jobs created and or amount of private investment forthcoming. However the impacts of community development reach much deeper than those indicators. Strengthening local decision making capacity is a common component of development efforts as is engaging populations that in the past have not been active in decision making. These and other considerations are explored in more detail by authors in this volume. Local policymakers and practitioners will be continually pressured to provide more documentation of outcomes and readers will gain considerable insights into alternative approaches that can be included in projects but can also see the common elements needed to create a solid measurement system. International insights are a special strength of the discussions in this book. This book was published as a special issue of Community Development.

Health Sector, State and Decentralised Institutions in India Shailender Kumar Hooda, 2021-11-29 This book describes the transition in Indian healthcare system since independence and contributes to the ongoing debate within development and institutional economics on the approaches towards reform in the public health system. The institutional reform perspective focuses on examining the effective utilisation of allotted resources and improvements in delivery through decentralisation in governance by ensuring higher participation of elected governments and local communities in politics policymaking and delivery of health services. It discusses the economic resource reforms to explain the relevance and expansion of state interventionism along with its influence on the health sector accountability and allocative efficiency. The author also explores the connections between neoliberal thought and privatisation in health sector and examines the greater role of insurance based financing and their implications for health service access and delivery. The book offers ways to address long standing systemic and structural problems that confront the Indian healthcare system. Based on large scale surveys and diverse empirical data on the Indian economy this book will be of great interest to researchers students and teachers of health economics governance and institutional economics political economy sociology public policy regional studies and development studies. This will be useful to policymakers health economists social scientists public health experts and professionals and government and nongovernment institutions.
