Political Centers and Cultural Regions Barrie M. Morrison, 1970 The Rise of Islam and the Bengal Frontier, 1204-1760 Richard M. Eaton, 1993 Eaton ranges over all the important aspects of that community's history whether political and social or cultural and religious This study must rank among the finest contributions to South Asian scholarship to appear for some while Cultural Centrality and Political Change in Chinese History Roger V. Des Forges, 2003 The Ming period of Chinese history is often depicted as one of cultural aridity political despotism and social stasis Recent studies have shown that the arts continued to flourish government remained effective people enjoyed considerable mobility and China served as a center of the global economy This study goes further to argue that China's perennial quest for cultural centrality resulted in periodic political changes that permitted the Chinese people to retain control over social and economic developments The study focuses on two and a half million people in three prefectures of northeast Henan the central province in the heart of the central plain a common synecdoche for China The author argues that this population may have been more representative of the Chinese people at large than were the residents of more prosperous regions Many diverse individuals in northeast Henan invoked historical models to deal with the present and shape the future Though they differed in the lessons they drew they shared the view that the Han dynasty was particularly relevant to their own time Han and Ming politics were integral parts of a pattern of Chinese historical development that has lasted to the present Culinary Culture in Colonial India Utsa Ray, 2015-01-05 This book utilizes cuisine to understand the construction of the colonial middle class in Bengal who indigenized new culinary experiences as a result of colonial modernity This process of indigenization developed certain social practices including imagination of the act of cooking as a classic feminine act and the domestic kitchen as a sacred space The process of indigenization was an aesthetic choice that was imbricated in the upper caste and patriarchal agenda of the middle class social reform However in these acts of imagination there were important elements of continuity from the pre colonial times The book establishes the fact that Bengali cuisine cannot be labeled as indigenist although it never became widely commercialized The point was to cosmopolitanize the domestic and yet keep its tag of Bengaliness The resultant cuisine was hybrid in many senses like its makers Interrogating Political Systems, 2025-10-27 This work more than fulfills the requirement of a comprehensive volume on political processes and the structure of polities in pre colonial India It cuts across time and space and provides the reader with an anthology of seminal contributions on the varied regions and different stages of Indian history The Introduction incorporates the recent concerns of historians in the field and engages with the related themes and debates including their overall implications It argues that pre modern states were dynamic insofar as they were continuously changing adapting and incorporating ideas spaces and peoples To understand the dynamics of state systems the volume focuses on several strands from conceiving processes and structures to situating early historical states from the making of translocal early kingdoms to the structure of later regional polities and the constitution of authority

across varying states This book will interest students and scholars of ancient and medieval India those interested in the study of the regions as well as informed general readers Religion in Society Birendra Nath Prasad,2024-01-01 Through an analysis of archaeological and literary data this book explores two interrelated themes the socio economic and cultic processes that resulted in the decline of Indian Buddhism in its last strongholds Bihar and Bengal towards the end of the early medieval period and the patterns of revival of Buddhism in the neighbouring province of Uttar Pradesh c 2005 2011 ce These themes have been explored by undertaking an analysis of the developments in the social histories of other competing religions Hinduism Jainism and j vika dharma By placing emphasis on the religious praxis and behaviour of the non elite segment of population this book offers some significant from below perspectives on the social histories of Buddhism Hinduism Jainism and j vika dharma in eastern and northern India Kavousi I Donald C. Haggis,2005-12-30 Kavousi I is the initial volume of the Kavousi Excavation Series which presents the final report of the Kavousi Project a program of archaeological investigation near the modern village of Kavousi in eastern Crete Subsequent volumes will publish the results of the 1987 1992 excavations at the Vronda and Kastro sites in the Siteia Mountains overlooking Kavousi and of the cleaning and new study of the excavations of Harriet Boyd in 1900 and 1901 This volume Kavousi I The Archaeological Survey of the Kavousi Region provides a comprehensive look at the topography of the area its natural resources and the way in which the local people interacted with them over time as shown in the changing pattern of settlement It sets the stage for the report on the excavations and provides an introduction to the local soils and to the pottery classification used by the excavators
