Jane Austen's Emma Fiona J. Stafford, 2007 Publisher description Twentieth-Century Literary Encounters in China Jeffrey Mather, 2019-10-10 From the travel writing of the eccentric plant collector and Reginald Farrer to Emily Hahn's insider depictions of bohemian life in semi colonial Shanghai to Ezra Pound's mediated journeys to Southwest China via the explorer Joseph Rock Anglo American representations of China during the first half of the twentieth century were often unconventional in terms of style form and content By examining a range of texts that were written in the flux of travel including poems novels autobiographies this study argues that the tumultuous social and political context of China's Republican Period 1912-49 was a key setting for conceptualizing cultural modernity in global and transnational terms In contrast with accounts that examine China's influence on Western modernism through language translation and discourse the book recovers a materialist engagement with landscapes objects and things as transcribed through travel ethnographic encounter and embodied experience The book is organized by three themes which suggest formal strategies through which notions cultural modernity were explored or contested borderlands cosmopolitan performances and mobile poetics As it draws from archival sources in order to develop these themes this study offers a place based historical perspective on China's changing status in Western literary cultures fine bibliography is an outstanding and ground breaking work He has provided the academic world with a long needed bibliographical record of human endeavour in the field of the natural sciences The travel narratives listed here encompass all aspects of the natural world in every part of the globe but are especially concerned with its fauna flora and fossil remains Such eyewitness accounts have always fascinated their readers but they were never written solely for entertainment fragmentary though they often are these narratives of travel and exploration are of immense importance for our scientific understanding of life on earth providing us with a window on an ever changing and often vanishing natural world Without such records of the past we could not track document or understand the significance of changes that are so important for the study of zoogeography With this book Troelstra gives us a superb overview of natural history travel narratives The well over four thousand detailed entries ranging over four centuries and all major western European languages are drawn from a wide range of sources and include both printed books and periodical contributions While no subject bibliography by a single author can attain absolute completeness Troelstra s work is comprehensive to a truly remarkable degree The entries are arranged alphabetically by author and chronologically by the year of first publication under the author s name A brief biography with the scope and range of their work is given for each author every title is set in context the contents including illustrations are described and all known editions and translations are cited In addition there is a geographical index that cross refers between authors and the regions visited and a full list of the bibliographical and biographical sources used in compiling the bibliography
