Patents and Global Administrative Law David Tilt, 2025-07-18 The book applies values and concepts from Global Administrative Law GAL to international patent law demonstrating how limiting technocratic and overly economic language can be Highlighting the administrative foundations of patent law the book argues that in its international form it can be analysed using the same principles of participation transparency and accountability found in national administrative law At the heart of the book is a simple question What does international patent law look like when we approach it through the lens of these values What is being left out when patent law is described predominantly in terms of its technical legal provisions or economic impact The book presents three interrelated contexts EU patent law bilateral trade agreements and the multilateral space Modern patent law is increasingly discussed in terms of national competitiveness or economic potential which reveals only a narrow understanding of how patent law evolves and functions The vocabulary of administrative law provides a fresh way of recasting reframing and re describing the dynamics of international patent law in a way that is more accessible to those outside of a traditional patent scholarship audience A fundamental objective of the book is to challenge the tendency towards technocratic isolation in patent law The book uses accessible vocabulary and represents a new way of conceptualising and understanding how patent law develops on a global scale The book will be of interest to researchers in the field of patent law international law and administrative law

The Politics and the Economics of Integration in Asia and the Pacific Shiro Armstrong, 2011-11-03 The shape of economic integration in the global and regional economies and the extent to which goods services and factors of production move more or less freely across borders depends not only upon underlying economic conditions but also upon politics Whether integration is market led as has been the case in Asia or institution led as in Europe there are political elements that affect all forms of regional and international economic integration While geopolitics influences international economic integration so too does domestic politics Economic integration in Asia has been driven by rapid unilateral trade and investment liberalization and while trade and investment patterns have been determined largely by comparative advantage political forces have also affected patterns of economic interdependence The form that regional institutions take and their effectiveness also depends on political relations between countries The particular circumstances in Asia and the relationships between regional economies has profoundly shaped regional institutions and will continue to do so The chapters in this volume draw on papers originally presented to the 33rd Pacific Trade and Development Conference held in Taipei in 2009 to look in original ways at how politics shape economic integration and its various dimensions in Asia and the Pacific and globally

Human Capital Formation and Economic Growth in Asia and the Pacific Wendy Dobson, 2013-07-18 The entire planet looks to Asian and other emerging markets to sustain growth momentum as traditional markets in the USA and Europe struggle with the slow and arduous processes of deleveraging after the global financial crisis At the same time there is growing recognition in Asia that the sources of growth must shift to sustain their own growth momentum in the years ahead Heavy reliance on the region's high savings rates and plentiful supplies of low cost labour will have to shift towards increasing the human capital embodied in more educated and skilled labour forces capable of contributing to productivity growth and innovation as future drivers of growth Human Capital Formation and Economic Growth in Asia and the Pacific focuses on why and how countries are making this shift The demographic transition is shown to be a significant factor as ageing populations in Japan South Korea and China manage declining growth in the labour force by stepping up investments in education and by changing policies and institutions Lessons to be learned from these experiences by more youthful populations in Southeast Asia are explored In addition attention is paid to the consequences of cross border differentials in technical knowledge and the quantity and quality of human capital Several implications for public policy and for international cooperation on human capital issues in the Asian region are identified The chapters in this volume are edited versions of papers presented at the 35th Pacific Trade and Development conference held in Vancouver Canada in June 2012 The conference goal was to better understand how governments and business in Asia and the Pacific can apply the key insight that one of the reasons economies grow is because of human capital formation the quality and diversity of the labour force are augmented not just because the labour force grows in size Students of Asia s growth prospects will find several aspects of this volume of particular value It includes chapters on the big picture conceptual and measurement issues on country experiences in meeting the imperatives of the demographic transition and investing in education and skills training and on country experiences with attracting foreign knowledge and the supply and recruitment of skills across borders in Asia and the Pacific Policymakers will also find useful the discussions of policy implications and the menu of issues requiring intergovernmental cooperation within the Asian region

International Institutions and Economic Development in Asia Thanh Tri Vo,2010-11-16 Covers the influence of international public goods and landmark developments and assesses how they have affected Asia s development through the Golden and Silver Ages of economic development It also considers the challenges for the continuation of a new Platinum Age of development driven by China and India

China's New Role in the World Economy Yiping Huang,Miaojie Yu,2013-01-04 The remarkable rise of China over the past three decades has been unprecedented in both its scale and speed Analysts around the world have attempted to understand the causes of this unique event and to predict how long it will last China s rise has also raised two important questions The first concerns the stability and the sustainability of China s growth which has been accompanied by growing internal and external imbalances rising inequality at home environmental degradation and an increased risk of catastrophic climate change and has happened in spite of the continuing if diminished role of the state in many sectors of the economy The second concerns trying to guess what the effect of China s rise will be on its relations with the rest of the region the world and the existing global order It seems only a matter of time until China becomes the world s largest economy and history suggests that it is unthinkable that this event would be without geopolitical consequences The chapters in this volume draw on papers originally presented to the 34th Pacific Trade and Development Conference held in Beijing in 2010 to discuss these two big questions and China s changing role in the world economy This book will be welcomed by students and scholars of Chinese economics business and politics and those interested in the pervasive impact of China s development on the global economy

Japan's New Regional Reality Saori N. Katada,2020-07-07 Since the mid 1990s Japan s regional economic strategy has transformed Once characterized by bilateralism informality and neomercantilism Japanese policy has shifted to a new liberal strategy emphasizing regional institution building and rule setting As two major global powers China and the United States wrestle over economic advantages Japan currently occupies a pivotal position capable of tipping the geoeconomic balance in the region Japan s New Regional Reality offers a comprehensive analysis of Japan s geoeconomic strategy that reveals the country's role in shaping regional economic order in the Asia Pacific Saori N Katada explains Japanese foreign economic policy in light of both international and domestic dynamics She points out the hurdles to implementing a state led liberal strategy detailing how domestic political and institutional changes have been much slower and stickier than the changing regional economics Katada highlights state market relations and shows how big businesses have responded to the country's interventionist policies The book covers a wide range of economic issues including trade investment finance currency and foreign aid Japan's New Regional Reality is a meticulously researched study of the dynamics that have contributed to economic and political realities in the Asia Pacific today with significant implications for future regional trends

China's Domestic Transformation in a Global Context Ligang Song, Ross Garnaut, Cai Fang, Lauren Johnston, 2015-07-08 The phrase New Normal captures the ongoing shift in the pattern and drivers of China's economic growth China's new growth rate is both slower and imposing difficult structural change These new economic conditions are challenging yet offer opportunities for China and its economic partners Reforms must be deepened but also make growth more inclusive and environmentally sustainable over this decade and beyond This year's Update offers both global context and domestic insight into this challenging new phase of China's domestic economic transformation How are policymakers elevating migrant workers concurrent with increasing consumption Is China's government spending enough on education and R D to ensure it can achieve its aspirations to ascend the global manufacturing value chain and avoid the middle income trap Are energy market reforms reducing or increasing the price of gas and electricity in China What are the consequences of China's financial reforms and expanding Renminbi trading for foreign banks What does China's new growth model mean for the international resources economy and for Africa Do SOEs face market conditions and are they dominating China's fast rising outbound investment What is China's strategy for navigating fragmented international trade policy negotiations

Asia and the Middle-Income Trap Francis E. Hutchinson, Sanchita Basu Das, 2016-07-01 The term Middle Income Trap refers to countries which stagnate economically after reaching a certain level of per capita income on the basis of labour and capital intensive growth and are struggling to transition towards more skill intensive and technology driven development It has resonance for the increasing number of countries in Asia who have either languished in middle income status for extended periods of time or are worried about growth slow downs This book sets out the conceptual underpinnings of the Middle Income Trap and explores the various ways it can be defined It also focuses on the debate surrounding the Middle Income Trap which questions the appropriate institutional and policy settings for middle income countries to enable them to continue past the easy phase of economic growth The book engages with this debate by investigating the role of institutions human capital and trade policy in helping countries increase their income levels and by highlighting factors which enable the shift to higher and qualitatively better growth It questions how the large emerging economies in Asia such as China Indonesia and India are currently grappling with the challenges of transitioning from labour intensive to technology and knowledge intensive production and discusses what can be learnt from the countries that have been able to escape the trap to attain high income status Providing a conceptual framework for the Middle Income Trap this book will be of interest to students and scholars of Asian Economics Comparative Economics and Asian Studies Japan's Future in East Asia and the Pacific Mari Pangestu,Ligang Song,2007-12-01 Japan s Future in East Asia and the Pacific takes a big picture approach to Japan s economic place in East Asia alongside that of China It analyses Japan s successes and experiments in trade policy as well as its failures in macro economic policy Japan s diplomatic and economic integration strategies are also examined for their impact on East Asia and on Australia The collection assesses China s growth and dynamism and questions the nature of the competition for economic influence between Japan and China Contributors to Japan s Future in East Asia and the Pacific are all graduates of The Australian National University who are making their mark in the region as scholars and economists on East Asian and Pacific affairs The China Boom and Its Discontents Ross Garnaut,Ligang Song,2005-10-01 China is shaping the global economy as never before An insatiable demand for commodities energy resources and capital and deepening integration to the world economy has won China acclaim Yet 25 years of rapid industrial development far reaching economic reforms and increasing international competition have also created an array of challenging domestic policy demands The China Boom and its Discontents discusses the financial and social challenges that have emerged in the wake of rapid economic growth Recent research on demographic trends labour movements financial development social security urbanisation and trade agreements highlight the unfinished progress of reforms in China Historical Dictionary of International Organizations in Asia and the Pacific Derek McDougall,2014-10-01 Historical Dictionary of International Organizations in Asia and the Pacific Second Edition covers global international and regional organizations in Asia and the Pacific and encompasses both governmental and non governmental organizations This second edition covers the history through a chronology an introductory essay appendixes and an extensive bibliography The dictionary section has over 200 cross referenced entries on important personalities thematic topics and major international issues affecting the region This book is a valuable tool for anyone seeking details about international organizations in Asia and the Pacific and the international context within which those organizations function Liberalizing Trade in Services Bernard M. Hoekman,2006 Abstract Since the mid 1980s a substantial amount of research has been undertaken on trade in services Much of this is inspired by the World Trade Organization or regional trade agreements especially the European Union but an increasing number of papers focus on the impacts of services sector liberalization This paper surveys the literature focusing on contributions that investigate the determinants of international trade and investment in services the potential gains from greater trade and liberalization and efforts to cooperate to achieve such liberalization through trade agreements It concludes that there is increasing evidence that services liberalization is an important source of potential welfare gains but relatively little research has been done that can inform the design of international cooperation both trade agreements and development
