Resituating Writing Constructing And Administering Writing Programs:

Resituating Writing Joseph Janangelo, Kristine Hansen, 1995 Second is that WPAs can creatively use this different and liminal status to help writing programs resituate themselves at the center rather than at the margins of their institutions

The Writing Program Administrator's Resource Stuart C. Brown, Theresa Jarnagi Enos, 2005-04-11 The role of the writing program administrator is one of diverse activities and challenges and preparation for the position has traditionally come through performing the job itself As a result uninitiated WPAs often find themselves struggling to manage the various requirements and demands of the position and even experienced WPAs often encounter situations on which they need advice The Writing Program Administrator's Resource has been developed to address the needs of all WPAs regardless of background or experience It provides practical applicable tools to effectively address the differing and sometimes competing roles in which WPAs find themselves Readers will find an invaluable collection of articles in this volume addressing fundamental practices and issues encountered by WPAs in their workplace settings and focusing on the hows and whys of writing program administration With formal preparation and training only now beginning to catch up to the very real needs of the WPA this volume offers guidance and support from authoritative and experienced sources educators who have established the definitions and standards of the position who have run into obstacles and surmounted them and who have not just survived but thrived in their roles as WPAs Editors Stuart C Brown and Theresa Enos contribute their own experience and bring together the voices of their colleagues to delineate the intellectual scope and practices of writing program administration as an emerging discipline Established and esteemed leaders in the field offer insights advice and plans of action for the myriad scenarios encountered in the position encouraging WPAs and helping them to realize that they often know more than they think they do This resource is required reading for the new WPA and an essential reference for all who serve in the WPA role As a guidebook for WPAs it is destined to become a fixture on the desk of every educator involved with or interested in administering writing programs writing centers and writing across the curriculum efforts Historical Studies of Writing Program Administration Barbara L'Eplattenier, Lisa Mastrangelo, 2004-03-14 Historical Studies of Writing Program Administration Individuals Communities and the Formation of a Discipline collects essays that shine new light on the early history of writing program administration Broad in scope the book illuminates the development of the profession in the narratives of the individuals who helped form the discipline prior to the emergence of the Council of Writing Program Administrators in 1976 including those narratives of Gertrude Buck and Laura J Wylie Edwin Hopkins Regina Crandall Rose Colby George Jardine Clara Stevens Stith Thompson and George Wykoff Drawing from deep archival work these narratives offer rare glimpses into writing program administration and the development of composition as a college requirement

Landmark Essays on Writing Program Administration Kelly Ritter, MELISSA IANETTA, 2024-11-01 Leading with the provocative observation that writing programs administration lacks an established set of texts that provides a baseline of shared knowledge in which to root our ongoing conversations and with which to welcome newcomers Landmark Essays on Writing Program Administration focuses on WPA identity to propose one such grouping of texts This Landmark volume is the cornerstone resource for new Writing Program Administrators and graduate students seeking an ever important overview of the literature on Writing Program Administration Drawing broadly across scholarship in writing programs and writing centers Ritter and Ianetta work to historicize theorize and problematize the ever shifting answers offered to the question Who or what is a WPA

Transnational Writing Program Administration David S. Martins, 2015-03-15 While local conditions remain at the forefront of writing program administration transnational activities are slowly and thoroughly shifting the questions we ask about writing curricula the space and place in which writing happens and the cultural and linguistic issues at the heart of the relationships forged in literacy work Transnational Writing Program Administration challenges taken for granted assumptions regarding program identity curriculum and pedagogical effectiveness logistics and quality assurance faculty and student demographics innovative partnerships and research and the infrastructure needed to support writing instruction in higher education Well known scholars and new voices in the field extend the theoretical underpinnings of writing program administration to consider programs activities and institutions involving students and faculty from two or more countries working together and highlight the situated practices of such efforts The collection brings translingual graduate students at the forefront of writing studies together with established administrators teachers and researchers and intends to enrich the efforts of WPAs by examining the practices and theories that impact our ability to conceive of writing program administration as transnational This collection will enable writing program administrators to take the emerging locations of writing instruction seriously to address the role of language difference in writing and to engage critically with the key notions and approaches to writing program administration that reveal its transnationality

Untenured Faculty as Writing Program Administrators Debra Frank Dew, Alice Horning, 2007-08-06 Contributors examine the politics of untenured writing program administrator appointments given the demands of writing program administration and reconciles the tension between WPA position statements and current institutional practice

The Promise and Perils of Writing Program Administration Theresa Enos, Shane Borrowman, 2008-01-26 Combining formal quantitative research with narrative based scholarship THE PROMISE AND PERILS OF WRITING PROGRAM ADMINISTRATION represents multiple voices from faculty balancing between the demands

Guide to College Writing Assessment Peggy O'Neill, Cindy Moore, Brian Huot, 2009-04-15 While most English professionals feel comfortable with language and literacy theories assessment theories seem more alien English professionals often don't have a clear understanding of the key concepts in educational measurement such as validity and reliability nor do they understand the statistical formulas associated with psychometrics But understanding assessment theory and applying it by those who are not psychometricians is critical in developing useful ethical assessments in college writing programs and in interpreting and using assessment results A Guide to College Writing Assessment is designed as an introduction and source book for WPAs department chairs teachers and administrators Always cognizant of the critical components of particular teaching contexts O'Neill Moore and Huot have written sophisticated but accessible chapters on the history theory application and background of writing assessment and they offer a dozen appendices of practical samples and models for a range of common assessment needs Because there are numerous resources available to assist faculty in assessing the writing of individual students in particular classrooms A Guide to College Writing Assessment focuses on approaches to the kinds of assessment that typically happen outside of individual classrooms placement evaluation exit examination programmatic assessment and faculty evaluation Most of all the argument of this book is that creating the conditions for meaningful college writing assessment hinges not only on understanding the history and theories informing assessment practice but also on composition programs availing themselves of the full range of available assessment practices

GenAdmin Colin Charlton, Jonikka Charlton, 2011-09-26 GenAdmin Theorizing WPA Identities in the Twenty First Century examines identity formation in a generation of rhetoric and composition professionals who have undergone explicit preparation in scholarly dimensions of writing program administration The authors argue for GenAdmin both as an intellectual identity and as a contingent philosophy of writing program work GenAdmin alternates between traditional chapters and accompanying Interludes each of which offers extended illuminations of the single conflict or theoretical question integral to the preceding chapter

The Activist WPA Linda Adler-Kassner, 2008-04-10 One wonders if there is any academic field that doesn't suffer from the way it is portrayed by the media by politicians by pundits and other publics How well scholars in a discipline articulate their own definition can influence not only issues of image but the very success of the discipline in serving students and its other constituencies The Activist WPA is an effort to address this range of issues for the field of English composition in the age of the Spellings Commission and the No Child Left Behind Act Drawing on recent developments in framing theory and the resurgent traditions of progressive organizers Linda Adler-Kassner calls upon composition teachers and administrators to develop strategic programs of collective action that do justice to composition's best principles Adler-Kassner argues that the story of college composition can be changed only when writing scholars bring the wonders down to articulate a theory framework that is pragmatic and intelligible to those outside the field and then create messages that reference that framework In The Activist WPA she makes a case for developing a more integrated vision of outreach English education and writing program administration
