

The Choir

The choir is the oldest of all musical groups. Before human beings even thought of making musical instruments, they used their own voice to make music together. Since choral music comes directly from people, it has a more powerful emotional impact than instrumental music. There is nothing more moving than hearing an entire football stadium resound to the tune of "You'll never walk alone" or an enthusiastic church congregation throwing their hearts and souls into favourite hymns.

Human voices vary in pitch (some are high and some are low). This makes it possible to sing harmonies in different layers using different pitched voices.

soprano	a high woman's voice
Alto	low woman's voice
Counter-tenor	a very high male voice (very rare)
Tenor	A high male voice
Baritone	A low male voice - not as deep as the bass
Bass	The lowest male voice

There are also many different ways of singing:

Solo singing	singing on your own
Unison singing	a group of people singing the same thing together
Singing in harmony	a group singing melodies that are different but fit together to make nice sounds.
A capella singing	Singing without instruments.

ways in which those stories come together with sounds And why is there a disconnect between songwriting as industrial practice and academic thought A New Philosophy of Songwriting argues that all songwriting choices are storytelling choices and asks the question how can we think about Song as one of the most memorable potent multimodal and portable storytelling devices ever devised In doing so Andy Ward and Briony Luttrell make the case for rethinking the analysis of songs and practice of songwriting with an emphasis on listening This is a book for songwriters scholars and song lovers alike Ultimately the authors challenge contemporary thinking on music and song itself and argue for a new theorisation of song as a multimodal storytelling sonic act Resources in Education ,1994 Choral Conducting Colin Durrant,2017-10-12
