Christ's Gift, Our Response Benjamin Durham, 2015-09-28

Sacramental theology has often been a challenging area of conversation between Catholics and Protestants In Christ's Gift Our Response Benjamin Durham envisions a collaborative way forward forging a conversation between two contemporary approaches to the connection between sacraments and ethics Drawing primarily from Louis Marie Chauvet and the Finnish school of Luther interpretation Durham constructs a mutually enriching theological dialogue Beyond comparison and contrast this is an attempt to draw these theologies together as sources for each other rather than as competitors

Selected Writings on Media, Propaganda, and Political Communication Siegfried Kracauer, 2022-05-17 Siegfried Kracauer stands out as one of the most significant theorists and critics of the twentieth century acclaimed for his analyses of film and popular culture However his writing on propaganda and politics has been overshadowed by the works of his contemporaries and colleagues associated with the Frankfurt School This book brings together a broad selection of Kracauer's work on media and political communication much of it previously unavailable in English It features writings spanning more than two decades from studies of totalitarian propaganda written in the 1930s to wartime work on Nazi newsreels and anti-Semitism through to examinations of American and Soviet political messaging in the early Cold War period These varied texts illuminate the interplay among politics mass culture and the media and they encompass Kracauer's core concerns the individual and the masses the conditions of cultural production and the critique of modernity The introduction and afterword explore the significance of Kracauer's contributions to critical theory film and media studies and the analysis of political communication both in his era and the present day At a time when demagoguery and bigotry loom over world politics Kracauer's inquiries into topics such as the widespread appeal of fascist propaganda and the relationship of new media forms and technologies to authoritarianism are strikingly relevant

Changing Channels Ellen Propper Mickiewicz, 1999 New in paperback Revised and expanded During the tumultuous 1990s as Russia struggled to shed the trappings of the Soviet empire television viewing emerged as an enormous influence on Russian life The number of viewers who routinely watch the nightly news in Russia matches the number of Americans who tune in to the Super Bowl thus making TV coverage the prized asset for which political leaders intensely and sometimes violently compete In this revised and expanded edition of Changing Channels Ellen Mickiewicz provides many fascinating insights describing the knowing ways in which ordinary Russians watch the news skeptically analyze information and develop strategies for dealing with news bias Covering the period from the state controlled television broadcasts at the end of the Soviet Union through the attempted coup against Gorbachev the war in Chechnya the presidential election of 1996 and the economic collapse of 1998 Mickiewicz draws on firsthand research public opinion surveys and many interviews with key players including Gorbachev himself By examining the role that television has played in the struggle to create political pluralism in Russia she reveals how this struggle is both helped and hindered by the barrage of information advertisements and media created personalities that populate the airwaves Perhaps most significantly she shows how television has emerged as the sole emblem of legitimate authority and has provided a rare and much needed connection from one area of this huge crisis laden country to the next This new edition of Changing Channels will be valued by those interested in Russian studies politics media and communications and cultural studies as well as general readers who desire an up to date view of crucial developments in Russia at the end of the twentieth century
