

COLLABORATION

2020's retail revolution means companies can no longer do it all alone. That's why we'll see more partnerships, like:

- Target • Ulta
- Amazon • Lyft
- Sephora • Kohl's
- Shopify • TikTok
- Walmart • Shopify
- Small brands • big retailers

CONTRACTION

Decluttering will rejuvenate the retail sector. As department store anchors disappear, 25% of malls may be in danger. Nordstrom's revenue fell 40% since the pandemic began. To date, 11,000 U.S. retail store locations announced they will close. (Also, Walmart's global divestments include Asda, Seiyu and Walmart Argentina, freeing up capital to focus on domestic e-commerce.)

2021 Retail Strategy Trends

EXPANSION

To grow, more retail leaders will enter new markets like Amazon's expansion into pharmacy, Walgreen's addition of >500 doctors' offices in stores and Walmart's new offering of pet insurance.

ENTERTAINMENT

Livestreaming, social commerce and media brands like Prime Video and TikTok (with Shopify) embed retail marketing into our daily habits, building loyalty (and data insights) with fun, interactive leisure. Remarkably, 67% of Gen Z consumers have made a purchase on social media.

PERSONALIZATION

One-to-one marketing is the goal. Consumer data insights can inspire relevant messaging that resonates and boosts revenue, as 80% of consumers are more likely to make a purchase when brands offer personalized experiences.

The Politics of Urban Development Clarence Nathan Stone, Heywood T. Sanders, 1987 In the past twenty years the study of urban politics has shifted from a predominant concern with political culture and ethos to a preoccupation with political economy particularly that of urban development Urban scholars have come to recognize that cities are shaped by forces beyond their boundaries From that focus have emerged the views that cities are clearly engaged in economic competition that market processes are shaped by national policy decisions sometimes intentionally and sometimes inadvertently and that the costs and benefits of economic growth are unevenly distributed But what else needs to be said about the policies and politics of urban development To supplement prevailing theories The Politics of Urban Development argues that the role of local actors in making development decisions merits closer study Whatever the structural constraints politics still matters Collectively the essays provide ample evidence that local government officials and other community actors do not simply follow the imperatives that derive from the national political economy they are able to assert a significant degree of influence over the shared destiny of an urban population The impact of the collection is to heighten awareness of local political practices and of how and why they make a difference Retail Marketing Management
