Mediavisions The Art And Industry Of Mass Communications:

Mediavisions Robert H. Stanley, 1987-07-20 Many books covering the introduction to mass communications lean towards the descriptive and social scientific aspects of the media In contrast Mediavisions provides a critical analysis and evaluation of both the aesthetics and the agencies of mass communications The book is organized chronologically to facilitate analysis of developments in the art and industry of mass communications within the context of concurrent social political economic and technological changes Each of the book's five chapters has subheadings to highlight specific subject matter

Canada-- an American Nation? Allan Smith, 1994 Are Canadians so influenced by the United States that they lack a distinct identity This question has preoccupied Canadians and Canadianists for years Canada An American Nation is a compilation of Allan Smith's essays on the influence of American society on Canadian identity Based on the notion that Canada can best be understood if viewed in relation to the United States the book explores the ways in which American influences have challenged Canada's cultural independence and asks whether Canada has maintained its own identity
