Mobilizing Citizens for Better Schools Robert F. Sexton, 2004-03-20 Tired of the complacent attitudes Kentucky politicians showed toward education the Prichard Committee formed as an organization to galvanize the citizens of Kentucky to attack the state's historic educational deficits The committee's campaigning helped prepare the way for the passage of the Kentucky Education Reform Act in 1990 and continues to work for school reform today Based on his wealth of experience and success with the Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence Sexton provides invaluable guidance for citizens of all states who are interested in implementing school reform

Mayors and Schools Stefanie Chambers, 2006 This book examines the national trend toward mayoral control of big city school districts through comparative case studies of Chicago and Cleveland two school districts that adopted mayoral control during the 1990s Chambers takes up the question of whether granting control to mayors in major cities will indeed fix public school systems She finds that although both cities have experienced noteworthy improvements in student performance since mayoral control the increased centralization of decision making has reduced minority participation in democratic politics Chambers argues that this conundrum of improved performance at the cost of decreased minority participation could undermine the very democratic and civic values that schools try to teach In a concluding chapter she offers several suggestions for better incorporating minority participation educational decisions even while centralizing more power in mayors offices

Civil Society and Corruption Michael

Johnston,2005 Strong civil societies play a major role in controlling corruption in many societies and reformers agree that citizens both individual and organized should be involved in reform But accomplishing that goal has proven difficult Some civil societies are weak divided and impoverished In others undemocratic regimes dominate through intimidation And in still others development difficulties international debt and misguided aid efforts stop reform before it can begin Too often anti corruption campaigns do not engage social values or attack corruption as people experience it every day This volume based on a yearlong series of events sponsored by Colgate University s Center for Ethics and World Societies analyzes civil society and corruption from several perspectives and in several parts of the world One section considers corruption as a fact of everyday life a second analyzes techniques and incentives involved in mobilizing civil society and a third provides a unique guide to information resources on corruption and reform

The Strong State and Curriculum Reform Leonel Lim,Michael W. Apple,2016-04-20 As Asian education systems increasingly take on a stronger presence on the global educational landscape of special interest is an understanding of the ways in which many of these states direct their schools towards higher achievement What is missing however are accounts that take seriously the particular construction of the strong developmental state witnessed across many Asian societies and that seek to understand the politics and possibilities of curriculum change vis a vis precisely the dominance of such a state By engaging in analyses based on some of the best current social and cultural theories and by illuminating the interactions among various state and non state pedagogic agents the chapters in this volume account for the complex post colonial historical and cultural consciousnesses that many Asian states and societies experience At a time when much of the educational politics in Asia remains in a state of transition and as many of these states seek out through the curriculum new forms of social control and novel bases of political legitimacy such a volume offers enduring insights into the real if not also always relative autonomy that schools and communities maintain in countering the hegemonic presence of strong states

Mobilizing Religion and Gender in India Nandini Deo, 2015-10-30 Religious nationalists and women s activists have transformed India over the past century They debated the idea of India under colonial rule shaped the constitutional structure of Indian democracy and questioned the legitimacy of the postcolonial consensus as they politicized one dimension of identity Using a historical comparative approach the book argues that external events activist agency in strategizing and the political economy of transnational networks explain the relative success and failure of Hindu nationalism and the Indian women s movement rather than the ideological claims each movement makes By focusing on how particular activist strategies lead to increased levels of public support it shows how it is these strategies rather than the ideologies of Hindutva and feminism that mobilize people Both of these social movements have had decades of great power and influence and decades of relative irrelevance and both challenge postcolonial India s secular settlement its division of public and private The book goes on to highlight new insights into the inner dynamics of each movement by showing how the same strategies grassroots education electoral mobilization media management donor cultivation lead to similarly positive results Bringing together the study of Hindu nationalism and the Indian women s movement the book will be of interest to students and scholars of South Asian Religion Gender Studies and South Asian Politics

Radical Friendship Ryan Andrew Newson, 2017-04-01 In a society that is increasingly marked by apathy division and moral incompetence how might Christians set about working with others in such a way as to begin to address those challenges that seem to overwhelm our capacity to respond In Radical Friendship Ryan Newson argues that the often neglected practice of communal discernment provides a path to faithful political engagement that is worthy of reconsideration especially given its ability to create authentic friendships both within and beyond the church Such friendships Newson maintains are capable of fostering a type of competence in people who engage the practice that can counteract those social political forces that are antithetical to competence's formation Uniquely Newson explores the contours of communal discernment as a practice that is especially relevant to Christians seeking radical democratic alternatives to political liberalism Communal discernment is shown to be capable of generating conscientious participation in grassroots politics additionally this practice enables Christians to enjoy reciprocal discerning relationships with people of differing convictional communities Indeed communal discernment turns out to be capable of preparing Christians to recognize and celebrate analogues to the practice in the world at large
